HARRIMAN WARNS OF WAGE DEMANDS UNLESS CONTROLS ARE KEPT ON RENT

Tells Senators There Is 'Every Indication Rents Will Rise Sharply' Unless Curbs Are Continued.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (UP)—Secretary of Commerce W. Averell Harriman said today that, unless rent controls are continued, labor will have a "good case" to demand further wage increases.

Harriman told a Senate Banking subcommittee that "it would be most unfortunate to increase the pressure on wage earners' incomes at a time when our efforts should be in the other direction."

He said "there is every indication that rents will rise sharply unless effective controls are continued."

He and Commissioner Ewan Clague of the Bureau of Labor Statistics testified that rents have risen 5 per cent in the last five months as against only 1 per cent from 1940 to 1947.

The present rent control law, which permitted "voluntary" 15 per cent increases in exchange for leases through December, expires Feb. 29. The Senate subcommittee is studying rent controls.

Housing Expediter Tighe E. Woods proposed extending and strengthening rent controls for two years because the housing situation "will not be alleviated" in that time.

He asked the subcommittee to extend the law and tighten it by giving his office increased prosecution powers.

He asked also that rents be frozen of tenants who signed "voluntary" 15 per cent increases last year in exchange for leases extending through December.

Woods said the present rent control act should be continued until March 31, 1950, with the 15 per cent increase clause stricken out. Rents in such cases, however, should be frozen at the 15 per cent increase level, he said.

For Price Controls Also.

Harriman asked the full Banking Committee earlier this week to restore price controls on scarce commodities. He warned that an economic collapse is inevitable unless inflation is checked, and "any further relaxation of rent controls would represent an inflationary step."

He told Subcommittee Chairman Cain (Rep.), Washington, and Senator Fulbright (Dem.), Arkansas, that he favored rent control even without other Administration-requested inflation checks.

He said, however, "real progress in controlling inflation also demands that such legislation be supplemented by other controls on prices and on the flow of critical commodities."

Harriman testified shortly before Woods. One Republican Senator had demanded the ouster of Woods.

Harriman repeated warnings that Communist Russia is awaiting an economic depression in the United States to "make advances." He said "the Communists believe they will be able to move forward in their efforts to destroy our institutions when we have a period of collapse."

To protect our "free economy," he said, "we must develop techniques to control the swing of the economy" during transition periods.

Some Inequalities.

Harriman admitted under Fulbright's questioning that "there will be some inequalities" under any system of rent control, but he said he thought landlords were in relatively better shape than house-seekers and renters.

Fulbright and Cain both said they thought the present law, which keeps rent ceilings on prewar housing in controlled areas but places none on new units, was unjust in many instances.

Harriman said he saw no justification for permanent rent controls in a free economy, but

PISTOL BELIEVED USED IN MURDER OF GIRL, 16, FOUND

Weapon Found in Auto Theft Arrest Reopens Inquiry Into Alice Shryock Case.

The pistol believed to have been used in the murder of Alice Lorene Shryock, 16-year-old Overland girl who was found shot and mutilated in Creve Coeur Memorial Park nearly two years ago, has been found by the Missouri State Highway Patrol in the routine arrest of a suspect in an automobile theft case at Mehlville, south of St. Louis.

The automatic pistol, described as a Spanish make "pistolette" of 635 millimeter, similar in size to .25-calibre American-made weapons, was put through two tests, one by the St. Louis Police Department and the other in the laboratories of the State Highway Patrol in Jefferson City. Experts in both departments stated they were of the opinion it was the same weapon used in the Shryock murder.

Four men are under arrest as their movements at the time of the killing of the girl, April 6, 1946, are being checked by St. Louis detectives, State Highway Patrol officers and St. Louis county deputy sheriffs. Thus far all four men have denied knowing the girl or anything about the murder.

Arrest Renews Investigation.

The renewed investigation of the murder case began Jan. 6 when State Highway Patrolman P. H. Updegraff arrested Linvell J. Forester, 26 years old, a laborer, and found the Spanish pistol and a .25 calibre Colt's automatic in the automobile which had been reported stolen. Forester confessed at at Farmington, Mo., where he was taken for questioning, that he had stolen the weapons and a quantity of whisky in the burglary of a tavern at 2200 South Third street, last Dec. 26.

At Farmington, Demetrie Kabbaz, 32 years old, manager of Demetrie's Third Street Tavern, identified the two pistols as having been stolen in the burglary of his establishment. Kabbaz, who lives at 3147 Geyer avenue, supplied Detective Lt. Michael Quinlisk of St. Louis and Sgt. Walter Grammer of the State Patrol, with the names of former bartenders and employes who, in 1946, had access to the pistol which had been kept in a drawer back of the bar.

Kabbaz and a number of employes told police the weapon had been around the tavern for several years. Charles Kabbaz, 1018 Hickory street, a brother of the manager, related that he purchased the pistol in July, 1945, from James Jenkins, 618 Geyer avenue.

Jenkins named another man from whom he bought the pistol six weeks before he traded it to Charles Kabbaz for a wrist watch and some cash.

Investigation of Ex-Employes.

Satisfied that the pistol was in the possession of the tavern at the time of the killing, which has never been solved although scores of suspects have been arrested or questioned, the police began an intensive investigation of activities of former employes of the tavern

Man Found Dead in Alley, Apparently of Exposure — Three Others Freeze to Death in Midwest.

St. Louis fell in line with the rest of the frozen Midwest today, as the thermometer registered five degrees above zero at 8 a.m., the lowest point it has reached this winter.

Police reported an elderly man, dead apparently of exposure, was found in an alley at the rear of 208 South Twelfth boulevard. It was the first death attributed to the cold spell in the St. Louis area, but three other persons were reported frozen to death in the Midwest, and at least 12 persons died in fires caused by overheated stoves in the Midwest and East.

The frigid weather brought ice floes down the Mississippi river and caused most home owners to take a second look at their coal piles. Children took advantage of frozen shallow ponds in some sections of St. Louis county to hold impromptu hockey games, but skating was still frobidden on the thin sheath of ice which covered the deeper lakes in city parks.

Today was the acid test for the Zoo's non-hibernating bears, and they met it in characteristic fashion by eating a hearty breakfast and emerging from their dens to stroll around their pits.

Warning to Oil Users.

The cold spell has brought conservation warnings to oil furnace users from the Citizens' Fuel Oil Committee, and resulted in a 20 per cent curtailment to industrial users of natural gas.

St. Louis, however, is in a better position than most cities far from the source of the natural gas supply, W. G. Marbury, vice president of the Mississippi River Fuel Corp., pointed out. In Pittsburgh, he said, natural gas was shut off.

The Army Corps of Engineers reported "vigorous efforts" were being made to keep the channel of the Illinois river open for commercial navigation to insure continuous shipments of coal and fuel oil to the Chicago area.

Two steamers are engaged in ice-breaking operations in the Peoria area, the engineers said, and a third has been ordered to perform the same function in the lower end of the Illinois.

Meteorologist Harry F. Wahlgren said the bitter weather would pass soon. The mercury is not expected to drop below 10 degrees above zero tonight, and may reach 30 degrees by tomorrow afternoon. A low pressure area with a warm front moving down from the northwest will raise temperatures above freezing by Monday, he predicted.

A belt of sub-zero temperatures extended from the Dakotas to northern Illinois. Bemidji, Minn., was the coldest spot in the nation for the second successive day, with a reading of 36 degrees below zero.

9 Below in Chicago.

Chicago, with 9 below zero, had its coldest day since Jan. 20, 1943. Rockford's 13 below was the lowest in Illinois. In Missouri, the range was from 5 below at Tarkio to 8 above at Advance.

Snow fell last night in a belt 200 miles wide from Pennsylvania to northern Louisiana. Twelve inches of snow, the deepest in 56 years, blanketed Memphis, Tenn., disrupting traffic and causin many business houses to remain closed. The heaviest previous snowfall in Memphis was recorded in 1892, the Weather Bureau said, when it had 18 inches.

Flight service was suspended at Memphis and Nashville, Tenn.

ROBERT A. BLACK KILLED WHEN AUTO HITS OIL TRUCK

Former Ralston-Purina Co. Vice President Loses Life on Way Home From Farm.

Robert A. Black, former vice president of the Ralston Purina Co. and in recent years a raiser of cattle and hogs on his 3200-acre farm near Elsberry in Lincoln county, Missouri, was killed yesterday when his automobile crashed into the rear of a gasoline truck in the 8600 block of St. Charles road.

Black, 69 years old, was thrown from his machine by the impact and was pronounced dead of head injuries on arrival at St. Louis County Hospital. The driver of the tractor-trailer, August Huenergarth Jr., 5465 Dresden avenue, told deputy sheriffs he had stopped, preparing to make a right turn into a filling station, when Black's machine ran into him.

Huenergarth was held under $1000 bond for a coroner's inquest.

Had Sold His Cattle.

Black was returning to his apartment at the Park Plaza Hotel, after having sold 270 head of cattle for $47,256, his agent, Robert A. Howard, president of the St. Louis National Livestock Commission Co., said.

Howard also handled the sale of 728 hogs for Black this week. Howard said he left the farm early in the afternoon after they weighed the hogs. Black apparently left about mid-afternoon to drive 60 miles to the hotel. The accident occurred at 5:45 p.m.

Howard related that Black was selling all his cattle and hogs because of the shortage of corn. He had been operating the farm, regarded as a show place, since he retired in 1929 from the Ralston Purina Co. He planned to stock up on cattle and hogs again in the spring. He raised corn on about 600 acres of bottom land on the farm.

Besides hogs and cattle, he

CITY ABANDONS PLAN FOR LEVY ON TOBACCO SALES

Mayor Aloys P. Kaufmann announced today that the city has abandoned plans to re-introduce in the Board of Aldermen the bill which would provide levying a 5 per cent tax on the sale of tobacco, other than cigarettes.

The measure, which was one of a group introduced in the board to provide additional revenue for municipal operation, was killed in the board after it was discovered it would apply to wholesalers, as well as retail dealers. It had been intended to introduce the bill again and make it applicable only to retail sales.

The Mayor said today that the amount the tax would add to city revenue, estimated at $100,000 a year, would not warrant the additional cost of administering the law, or the inconvenience the tax would cause merchants.

PRETTY GIRL SHOWS UP U.N. IN INDIA-PAKISTAN DISPUTE

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Jan. 17 (UP) — A pretty girl's smile brought together the delegates of India and Pakistan, arguing before the United Nations Security Council about a dispute that threatens to develop into a war between the two countries.

Sir Mohammed Zafrullah Khan of Pakistan and N. Gopalaswami Ayyangar of India posed several times, shaking hands and with arms around each other, for Baria Bordy of Russia, a U.N. photographer, yesterday.

"Soon she will ask us to kiss," Zafrullah Khan commented.

"If you have me around, you do not need a United Nations," she said.

5TH GRADERS FOR SPANKINGS

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 17 (AP) — Children in Culbertson School fifth grade have voted 34 to 1 in favor of physical persuasion rather than a friendly talk when their elders believe punishment is needed.

In a classroom discussion, one girl said: "A spanking does me more good than anything else because it hurts."

DEWEY TO BATTLE EISENHOWER AND MAC ARTHUR IN 2 SPRING PRIMARIES

Full Slates of Delegates Backing New Yorker for President to Be Entered in New Hampshire and Wisconsin.

ALBANY, N.Y., Jan. 17 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, out in the open at last as a declared candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, will pitch headlong into battle against Gens. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Douglas MacArthur in the first two presidential primaries in the nation next spring.

Full slates of Dewey candidates for election as delegates to the G.O.P. national convention at Philadelphia June 21 will be entered in New Hampshire and Wisconsin.

Opposing Dewey in New Hampshipe will be slates backing Eisenhower and Harold E. Stassen, former governor of Minnesota. The state will pick eight delegates March 9.

In Wisconsin on April 6, Dewey, 1944 Republican presidential nominee, will be entered against fields supporting MacArthur and Stassen. The state has 27 delegate votes.

Had Announced "Availability."

Dewey's decision to test his strength first against the World War II supreme Army commanders in the European and Pacific theaters became known here less than 24 hours after he had announced his availability for the nomination through an aid.

James C. Hagerty, executive assistant to Dewey, made the "authorized" announcement late yesterday in commenting on the entry of Dewey's name in the Oregon primary, which will select 12 convention delegates May 21.

Hagerty said Dewey "warmly appreciates the support and loyalty of his many friends in Oregon."

Then Hagerty went on: "He is fully engaged with the work of the legislative session and cannot actively seek the nomination of his party for President, but, if nominated, would accept."

(The United Press pointed out that Dewey did not close the door to an active campaign, inasmuch as the current state Legislature is expected to conclude its business early in March, three months ahead of the Republican convention.)

A supporter of Gen. Eisenhower in Portland, Ore., said today that the general's name would be on the Republican primary ballot there in challenge to Dewey.

Peter Alport, public relations representative for Oregon's Draft Eisenhower group, said petitions would be circulated as soon as the general retires from the Army to become president of Columbia University. One thousand signatures are needed in the absence of the candidate's own declaration.

Surprise Announcement.

Dewey has been aggressively but privately seeking the presidential nomination since early last summer. His open entry into the contest took Albany by surprise, however, as it had been stated authoritatively several times in the last few months that he would not become an avowed aspirant.

Some political observers noted the timing of Dewey's announcement. The Republican National Committee meets in Washington Monday and Tuesday to discuss fund-raising and delegate apportionment at the national convention.

Dewey's shift in strategy was viewed here as a reflection of a lately-developed belief by him and his advisers that he would have to get his candidacy out in the open if he was to head off Eisenhower and the previously declared candidates—Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, Stassen and Gov. Earl Warren of California.

Although Eisenhower is not a

TOWBOAT KOKODA HAS 42-MILE LEAD OVER HELENA

The steam-powered towboat Kokoda had a lead of 42 miles, or about eight hours, today on its diesel-operated rival, the Helena, in their race up the Mississippi river from New Orleans to St. Louis.

The Helena developed engine trouble less than two hours after the race began at 3:30 p.m. Thursday, and was forced to proceed on only one engine for 14 hours until repairs were made. The Federal Barge Lines, sponsor of the race, said it was too early to determine which of the 3000-horsepower boats would win, since the 1051-mile trip will require 10 or 11 days.

The Helena has picked up speed, but Capt. Robert Geary had little hope of overtaking the Kokoda before reaching Vicksburg, Miss. Each boat is pushing four barges loaded with 9785 tons of cargo, of cargo.

At Baton Rouge, La., end of the first lap, the river banks yesterday were lined with spectators, among them old steamboat pilots and others who remember tales of the famous race between the steamboats Robert E. Lee and Natchez in 1870. The Lee won, reaching St. Louis in three days, 18 hours and 14 minutes after the Natchez, trying to make up steam, exploded its boilers.

Third in Family Killed by Gun.

MOCKSVILLE, N.C., Jan. 12 (AP) — Twelve years ago Jim Cleary was killed by a blast from a 12-gauge shotgun. Seven years later, his grandson Bobbie Cleary, was killed with the same gun in what the coroner ruled was a suicide. Yesterday, the coroner reported, James F. Cleary, a son of Jim and father of Bobbie, killed himself with the same weapon.

DUTCH-INDONESIA TRUCE IS SIGNED WITH GUIDANCE OF U.N. COMMITTEE

Agreement Ends 11 Weeks of Negotiations —Provision for Plebiscite in Proposed List of Political Principles.

BATAVIA, Jan. 17 (AP) — The Dutch and the Indonesian republic signed a new truce today aboard the United States Navy transport Renville anchored off Batavia.

The truce climaxed 11 weeks of negotiations by a Good Offices Committee sent by the United Nations Security Council to try to bring peace in the Dutch East Indies.

The agreement became effective today. It was the fourth agreement calculated to halt the fighting which began when the Japanese were defeated in Indonesia in the last phase of the war. In the five and a half months since a cease-fire order was issued, skirmishing had accounted for some 1500 Dutch casualties and 4700 among the Indonesians.

Three copies of the truce agreement were signed first by Abdul Kadir, head of the Netherlands delegation, and then by Amir Sjarifoeddin, Premier of the Indonesian republic.

Their signatures were witnessed with those of the committee—Dr. Frank P. Graham of the United States, Richard C. Kirby of Australia and Paul Van Zeeland of Belgium.

Political Principles.

The two delegation chairmen also signed a statement of 12 principles agreed on as the basis of future political discussions, and received from the U.N. committee six additional political principles, to which they were asked to agree by Monday.

A reliable committee source said both delegations already had agreed informally to the latter six, including a provision for a plebiscite ni Java, Sumatra and Madoera, and acceptance was considered certain.

Political disagreements between the Dutch and the republic broke out in fighting last July 20, when the Dutch Army began what it called "police action" against the Indonesians.

The case was brought before the United Nations, and the Security Council, urging both sides to settle their disputes, called on them Aug. 1 for a cease-fire agreement effective three days later. They agreed to the cease-fire, but later each accused the other of violating it freely. Subsequently the U.N. Good Offices Committee was set up.

The truce agreement provides for a demilitarized zone based on a Dutch-drawn line and in effect gives the Netherlands at least temporary control of the most productive areas of Java and Sumatra.

A small crowd witnessed the signing on the Renville's deck.

Republic 'Disappointed.'

Sjarifoeddin told those present the republic "is naturally disappointed that the truce finally agreed upon departs so far from what we hoped for."

"But the republic has accepted the truce and will carry it out to the best of our ability," he said.

Abdul Kadir hailed the agreement as "the initial victory for reason and common sense."

Kirby, U.N. committee chairman of the week, said the committee now "must continue to perform the real task it came to the islands to perform—assist in reaching a political settlement."

Graham said the agreement "by common consent surely will take its name" from the Renville, aboard which discussions have been held for weeks.

The 18 political principles, he said, "have helped lay a common foundation of freedom and independence for all the people of Indonesia . . . in a sovereign federal democratic United States of Indonesia in co-operation with the people of The Netherlands in one of the great historic unions of free nations of the modern world."

Plan Report to U.N.

Before the signing, Kirby cabled the Security Council in Lake Success, N.Y., that it would take place today and said he, Van Zeeland

ATHENS, Jan. 17 (UP)

TWENTY American officers, all combat veterans, had their final briefings yesterday and on Monday will join Greek forces in the field to advise them how to clean up the Communist-led guerrillas.

Maj. Gen. William Livesay, chief of the American military mission to Greece, said the officers—lieutenant colonels, majosr and captains—would join Greek divisions as well as army and corps headquarters. He said they would not be armed.

Livesay indicated a large-scale offensive would be thrown against the guerrillas in the spring.

BIG 4 SECRET PACT ASSIGNS RUSSIA 37 ITALIAN SHIPS

U.S.S.R. to Get Battleship, Others Only if It Returns Vessels Lent by U.S. and Britain.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (UP)—Russia is in line to get seven combat vessels, including a 23,000-ton battleship, and 30 miscellaneous ships of the former Italian fleet when and if British and American warships that were lent Russia are returned, it was disclosed today.

This was a hitherto secret phase of a Big Four agreement reached at the Paris peace conference in February 1947.

The pact detailed the division of the Italian fleet among the wartime allies. Britain and the United States have renounced claims to their shares of the fleet, but Russia has not. The ships originally assigned to this country and Britain are being scrapped by Italy.

The treaty allowed Italy to retain a navy of about 115,000 tons. The remaining 152,000 tons were to be divided among the Allies, sunk or scrapped.

Secret Annex to Treaty.

The text of the four-power agreement signed Feb. 10 in Paris was made public by the State Department last April 21, but an annex providing for assignment of the ships to be taken from Italy, which is still "top secret," has never been released officially.

It was learned authoritatively that under that part of the agreement Russia will not receive the former Italian vessels until one battleship, seven destroyers and three submarines lent it by Britain and the United States cruiser Milwaukee are returned to British and American ports by the Russians.

The annex also reveals that France, Yugoslavia and Greece are to receive certain Italian naval units, in addition to those allotted to Russia.

Authoritative sources said that

5 CARS OF L. & N. STREAMLINER LEAVE RAILS NEAR GULFPORT

Second Derailment of Train in 3 Days; Eighth Wreck in South in Week.

GULFPORT, Miss., Jan. 17 (AP) — Five cars of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad's streamliner, Hummingbird, were derailed about five miles west of Gulfport today. Witnesses said apparently a broken rail was the cause.

Reports indicated that there were no serious injuries, although several persons were reported slightly hurt. The club car became disconnected from the other cars and stopped about 50 feet behind them. The five cars which left the right-of-way stopped upright in a four-foot ditch beside the tracks. The diner was partly derailed also.

The derailment occurred about 7:30 a.m. while the Hummingbird was en route from Cincinnati to New Orleans. The train was reported traveling about 40 or 45 miles an hour in rain and cold weather. It was the second derailment of the Hummingbird within three days and the eighth railroad wreck in seven days in the South. The Hummingbird had a similar accident Wednesday night at Wales, Tenn., when two persons were injured.

BELIEVES PROJECT IS 'FOREDOOMED TO FAILURE'; HOUSING SHORTAGE FACTOR

All-Time High of Municipal Bonds Issued, 'Treasury Watchdog' Points Out, and 'Who Will Provide Capital for Building?'

"Embarking on such an enormous gamble as a world's fair in these critical times might bankrupt St. Louis," Comptroller Louis Nolte said today in a statement prepared for the Post-Dispatch.

The veteran "watchdog of the city treasury," who has joined with President Charles E. Albanese of the Board of Aldermen in opposing plans for a fair in 1953, declared that "in my studied opinion, a world's fair for St. Louis in 1953 would be doomed to failure."

"If for no other reason," the Comptroller said, "a fair in 1953 is impractical because of the acute housing and building situation. Building costs still are such that no major hotel or apartment projects are contemplated and no relief is in sight. Under these conditions who is going to furnish equity capital to erect adequate housing for the thousands who must attend the fair to assure its success"?

Nolte and Albanese, with Mayor Aloys P. Kaufmann, constitute the Board of Estimate and Apportionment which, under the city charter, must approve any allocation of city funds, either by bond issue or direct appropriation.

Mayor's Stand.

The Mayor is on record in favor of a fair. He has said he prefers the Columbia Bottoms airport property as a site, but would "go along" on use of Forest Park and an adjoining area, as proposed by the fair planning organization, if the public desired it. Nolte and Albanese are strongly opposed to use of Forest Park, if a fair should be decided on.

"It is readily apparent," Nolte said in his statement, "that a successful world's fair in 1953 would cost far more than the Louisiana Purchase Exposition of 1904. With the increased cost of federal, state and city governments, I seriously doubt the ability of the people of St. Louis to undertake such an expensive gamble.

"A total of $94,910,000 in municipal bonds has been sold or authorized, an all-time high. I would be derelict in my public trust if I failed to call attention to the danger in adding further to this debt load.

Fair of 1904.

"There is no question that the fair of 1904 materially aided the prestige and development of St. Louis. At that time, however, this country was embarking upon the greatest period of expansion in history and the world generally was solvent.

"In reviewing the receipts and disbursements of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition Co., it is interesting to note that even under the ideal conditions of that era, the fair failed to support itself by $14,924,313.11. The fair grossed in actual revenue $12,197,475.59. The disbursements amounted to $27,121,188, leaving a deficit of $14,924,313.11.

"In order to promote the Louisiana Purchase Exposition it was necessary to issue stock subscriptions of $5,000,000 of which $4,924,313.11 was collected. The city of St. Louis appropriated $5,000,000 and the United States Government appropriated $5,000,000 with a provision that if the stockholders or city of St. Louis were reimbursed, the United States Government would be reimbursed in direct proportion to the other two.

None of Funds Repaid.

"Earnings of the exposition were such that none of these funds was repaid. Even before the fair opened it became necessary to borrow $4,600,000 from the United States and $483,000 from local banks. These sums were repaid by the corporation.

"I am convinced that foreign countries will find it impossible to send representatives and exhibits to this country, since for the next few years their hands will be occupied supplying their own basic needs. Without foreign participation the fair would fall far short of the magnitude of the 1904 fair. Do the people of St. Louis want a fair which is not world-wide in scope?

"It has been suggested that houses and buildings on many parcels of land be razed to provide space for the fair. Persons making these recommendations fail to state what would happen to the dispossessed families in this area. Moreover, with the city already facing a fiscal crisis, much revenue producing property would be removed from the tax books.

"It has been suggested that a large portion of Forest Park be used for the fair. A large segment of the working people of St. Louis would be asked to give up this park area for several years and I believe this would not be acceptable to them.

"Estimates have been made that a fair would cost $53,000,000 and might end with a deficit of $7,000,000. This deficit estimate appears more than optimistic in

Fifteen hundred city employes filed into the Opera House of Kiel Auditorium this morning to attend Mayor Aloys P. Kaufmann's special courtesy course, intended to demonstrate to them that the city government is a service organization and that courtesy pays.

"We all will benefit with the practice of common courtesy," the Mayor told them in a brief talk. Following the showing of a motion picture demonstrating the value of courtesy, the "students" were shown how not to deport themselves while serving the public.

A skit presented by about 15 members of the City Circle Club, an employes' social organization, showed a "typical last-five-minutes of the work day" in a "mythical City Hall General Office."

Customers were shown waiting at a counter, while office employes lolled on tables, fell off swivel chairs, told jokes and read newspapers, almost completely ignoring the waiting group. One customer, who told a companion he had waited for two hours on a previous occasion only to be told he was in the wrong office, was finally told by a clerk, "Bud, you're in da wrong office." An aged customer, who became ill, was told, "Hey, lady, don't get sick in here!"

As a climax, and just to prove the point that "courteous service pays dividends," the actors in the skit demonstrated what can be accomplished with courtesy. All the customers were waited on promptly and the "office employes" locked up and left the office, all in about one minute.

Pupils Stump Scientist, Books Fail Him, Too; Can Turtles Hear?

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 17 (AP) —A question posed by the third grade of the Lytton elementary school, Palo Alto, nearly stumped Dr. R. C. Miller, director of the California Academy of Sciences, but he finally came up with a cautious answer.

"We want to know if turtles are deaf or if they can hear," the third graders said. "We have two books about them. One book says they are deaf and the other says they are not."

Dr. Miller found two books, each written by a distinguished zoologist. One said turtles could hear, the other said there was no evidence they could. He was in the same fix as the third grade.

Robert Dempster, aquatic biologist, went into the swamp room, with the aquarium's 26 turtles. He tried talking, shouting, clapping his hands and finally banging on a pan with an iron spoon, all without conclusive results.

Dr. Miller made this report: "Our turtles pay no attention to ordinary noises. It is certain that their hearing is poor and possibly they are completely deaf. On the other hand, their bodies are sensitive to vibrations coming through the ground or water . . . . This probably explains why some books say turtles can hear and others say they are deaf."

MARSHALL DENIES REPORTS THAT U.S. INTENDS SWAP OF AID FOR BASES

Forrestal Said to Have Been Misquoted—Republicans Divided on Time to Wait for Effort to Set Ceiling.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—Secretary of State Marshall declared today that the proposed European recovery program now before Congress "does not provide for nor contemplate the acquisition of military bases for the United States in return for economic assistance to the European countries."

He made this assertion in a statement because of reports reaching the State Department that great interest and concern had been aroused in Europe by what the department called "misquotations" of Defense Secretary Forrestal's testimony before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee last Thursday.

Dispatches received by the State Department from American embassies in Europe attributed the "misquotations" to a report of Forrestal's testimony carried by Reuters, the British news agency.

These "misquotations," department officials said, had led to reports being published in Europe that Marshall was considering asking American bases in return for American aid, or that American co-ordination of western European defenses was a part of the Marshall plan.

Question of Time.

On Capitol Hill, meanwhile, Senate and House Republicans were reported divided on how long to wait before they attempt to put a ceiling on Marshall plan spending through adoption of a legislative budget.

Chairman Taft of Ohio of the Senate Republican policy committee said G.O.P. leaders of the two houses will meet Monday to discuss the possibility of putting off until March 15 an over-all limitation on Government spending for the year beginning July 1.

The Congressional Reorganization Act directs that a budget pledge be made by Feb. 15. The pledge has no binding effect, but serves as a barometer of majority intentions.

The two houses failed to agree last year on the amount to be cut off President Truman's budget and Republican leaders have indicated they want to avoid a similar deadlock this time.

Taft told a reporter he thought it would be impossible to make an accurate forecast of spending cuts until March 15, after testimony on the European recovery program has been completed before congressional committees.

He has suggested amending the law to allow an additional month to arrive at a decision.

The joint congressional economic committee headed by Senator Taft agreed today to delay until March 1 its report on President Truman's economic message forecasting a possible crash and asking for standby price and wage controls to soften or prevent this.

Taber Urges Action.

On the other hand, Representative Taber (Rep.), New York, was reported urging that the budget estimate be made by Feb. 15. He has called for a five-billion-dollar cut in President Truman's $39,669,000,000 budget for the new government year. This is two billion higher than the net slash Taft said he believes is possible.

Taft has proposed that Congress cut one billion off the amount available for spending on foreign aid programs. He did not specify how the additional two billion saving could be effected.

Taft apparently has the support of Chairman Millikin (Rep.), Colorado, of the Senate Finance Committee in the move to delay the budget guess. Millikin told a reporter that, after listening to 10 days of testimony about the Marshall plan, he hasn't arrived at any figure yet.

Democratic Group Meets.

Meanwhile, the Senate Democratic policy committee was called together by minority leader Barkley of Kentucky to talk over the legislative program, including the President's foreign aid and domestic proposals.

Barkley said he doesn't think the Democrats want to make any policy declaration on European recovery "because it ought to be a bi-partisan matter."

(The United Press reported that Barkley said he believed the Senate would approve the Marshall plan by March 1—a full month ahead of President Truman's deadline.

Barkley predicted that a sufficient number of Republicans would line up with Administration forces to block any drastic cut in the proposed $6,800,000,000 down payment for European recovery.)

Freighter Safe After Cargo Shift.

NORFOLK, Va., Jan. 17 (UP)—The freighter Adrian Victory was reported safe by Coast Guard headquarters here today after its crew had moved tons of shifting cargo by hand to right the ship from a dangerous list.

WOMAN SUES U.S.; SAYS IT OVERSTEPS ITS TAXING POWER

Contests Use of Levy for Foreign Wars or Loans or Grants for Aid.

CHICAGO, Jan. 17 (AP) — A woman accountant has sued the Government, charging that it overstepped the Constitution's limitations in taxing her income.

Mrs. Irene B. Whetstone asked United States District Court yesterday to declare the Government without power to tax citizens for foreign aid; to remove a $1389 tax lien for unpaid taxes in 1944, and to return to her $1891 she paid in taxes that year.

The suit contends that Congress has attempted to absolve itself from all constitutional restrictions and has taken on itself powers to impose taxes free from all restraints.

Mrs. Whetstone said that, from March 11, 1941 to Dec. 1, 1946, Congress approved withdrawals of billions of dollars of public money with the knowledge that in certain cases the money would be used for purposes in direct violation of the Constitution.

"In all history," the suit stated, "no nation took greater liberties with the earnings of its subjects."

It asked that the court declare that no citizen may be taxed to provide funds to finance wars between other nations, to make this nation an arsenal for democracy or to wage undeclared wars; to build military defenses or maintain military forces overseas to protect territories of foreign nations; to disseminate educational materials either at home or abroad, or to support the government of foreign nations by grants or loans.

BIG 4 SECRET PACT ASSIGNS RUSSIA 37 ITALIAN SHIPS

under terms of the annex Russia is scheduled to receive the 23,000-ton battleship Giulio Cesare, the cruiser Duca D'Aosta, destroyers Fuciliere, Mitragliere and Riboty, torpedo boats Animoso and Ardimentoso, the submarines Nichello and Marea and about 30 other miscellaneous auxiliary units.

Deputies of the Big Four foreign ministers decided at Paris that names of the vessels should be kept secret for some time since Italian sailors might scuttle the ships, especially those assigned to Russia. The names also were withheld to allow a four-power naval commission to arrange for transfer of the ships, spare parts and armament stores.

The State Department declined official comment on terms of the annex.

SEARCH WIDENS FOR MISSING PIANIST-ACTRESS WHO IS 14

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Jan. 17 (AP)—Search for Jacqueline Horner widened today as authorities checked reports the 14-year-old pianist and film actress had boarded a bus for San Francisco and her father said she may be headed for Buffalo, N. Y., to see relatives. Her father and mother were divorced in 1942.

The girl left home Tuesday after what Hollywood police described as a "family squabble" with her mother, Mrs. Clara Horner. She ostensibly left for the home of her private teacher, three blocks away, but did not arrive there.

A ticket seller at a Greyhound bus depot told police a girl answering Jacqueline's description bought a one-way ticket Tuesday afternoon for San Francisco, where her aunt, Carol Hayden, 20, lives. There was no word of her arrival there.

ROBBER TIRES OF TYING VISITORS, QUITS IN DISGUST

VENICE, Calif., Jan. 17 (AP)—There are limits, police records showed today, to even a robber's patience.

A man forced his way into Mrs. George Blackmer's home, bound her with her own stockings and tied up two women visitors. Kenneth Thompson, a neighbor who dropped in at that moment, was also bound.

Then, the robber reversed his field, untied one of the women and ordered her to quiet a crying baby.

At last an insurance salesman, S. J. McClure, put in an appearance. The frustrated intruder, after binding McClure, shouted "The hell with it," snatched a bottle of milk and left.

Police arrested Austin Rose yesterday at a nearby bar and booked him on suspicion of robbery.

HARRIMAN WARNS OF PAY DEMANDS IF RENT CONTROLS END

thought they should be continued until the housing shortage eases.

Woods asked also for power to sue landlords for rent control violations and to report "willful violations" to the Justice Department. He recommended also that the housing expediter be given power to prosecute "all violations, including unlawful evictions."

The present law gives the housing expediter no enforcement powers but allows tenants to sue for damages and report other injustices to the Justice Department.

High Rent on New Units.

Woods said the average rent on 2048 new units built since the present law became effective last year was 69 per cent higher than on similar units under rent control.

"What has happened to these uncontrolled rents indicaates what would be likely to happen to all rents in an uncontrolled market," he asserted.

Woods said his office was decontrolling critical rent areas as rapidly as practical, but "for most areas rent control will be necessary for the next two years."

Woods said illegal rent increases have become widespread in the past few months. Citing Boston as an example, he said Bureau of Labor Statistics figures showed illegal increases on about 14 per cent of rental dwellings in the city between June 15 and Sept. 15, 1947.

Under rent control, from March 15 to June 15, 1946, only 1 per cent of the rental units in Boston showed any increase, and those were legal.

Clague said most of the rise in rents during 1947 was due to tenants signing 15 per cent increase clauses under the Rent Control Extension Act of last year. The greatest rise, he said, was reported in Chicago, where the average went up 9½ per cent. Rises of more than 8 per cent were recorded in Indianapolis and Birmingham.

Harriman said he wanted to stress that despite rent controls, "landlords have shared in the general rise in incomes since 1940."

He said net income from rental property had risen from $2,800,000,000 in 1941 to $4,600,000,000 in 1947.

Senators See Little Hope of Strengthening Controls.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—Two more Democratic Senators expressed belief today there is scarcely any chance Congress will strengthen rent controls as President Truman has urged.

Senators Maybank of South Carolina and Fulbright of Arkansas joined Senator Sparkman of Alabama in this prediction.

Most Republicans and Democrats agree that rent controls should be continued. The big questions are: For how long and in what form?

Truman, in his Nov. 17 message to the special session of Congress, called for strengthening the existing statute. He made no specific recommendations.

With banking committee Democrats minimizing the chances for a stronger law, there seemed to be no prospect at all for a bill introduced yesterday by Senators Wagner (Dem.), New York and Murray (Dem.), Montana.

Their measure would roll back rent ceilings to the levels of June 30, 1947, thus wiping out all up-to-15-per-cent increases negotiated under the present law.

It would extend controls until June 30, 1950, and restore almost entirely the wartime OPA rent control set-up. Area rent offices would get back much of the authority now assigned to local advisory boards.

Sparkman also introduced a rent control bill yesterday which would restore some of the old OPA powers in extending ceilings through April 30, 1949.

U.S. OFFICIALS TO ATTEND JOSEPHUS DANIELS FUNERAL

RALEIGH, N. C., Jan. 17 (UP)—Top United States officials gathered here today to pay final tribute to Josephus Daniels, editor of the Raleigh News and Observer and World War I Secretary of the Navy who died Thursday at the age of 85.

Secretary of the Navy John L. Sullivan and Secretary of the Army Kenneth Royall arrived yesterday, along with John Nicholas Brown, Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Air.

President Truman's naval aide, R. Adm. James H. Foskett, will represent him.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson and Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, widows of two of the Presidents under whom Daniels served, were expected today. Joseph C. Grew, former Ambassador to Japan, was to represent Secretary of State George C. Marshall at the funeral.

Man Believed to Have Shot Self.

William Meyer, 68 years old, a molder, was found shot to death yesterday in his home, 1717A Geyer avenue. Police said bullet wounds in his chest and stomach were apparently self inflicted. The body was found by a nephew, Leroy Schmaltz, 2717 South Eleventh street, after he received several notes from his uncle through the mail, which indicated Meyer intended to take his life.

RUSSIAN ACCUSES WEST OF PLANNING BASE IN AUSTRIA

British and French Deny, U.S. Representative Scoffs at Charges Made in Allied Council.

VIENNA, Jan. 17 (AP) — Col. Gen. L. V. Kurrasov, Russian high commissioner for Austria, charges the western Allies with scheming to make western Austria "a military base for Anglo-American imperialism."

Kurrasov read a statement before the Allied Control Council yesterday in which he accused the United States, Britain and France of trying to sabotage the demilitarization and disarming of Austria. He declared there are "25,000 quisling Yugoslav troops" quartered along the southern borders of Austria, facing Yugoslavia.

British and French high commissioners made denials. Lt. Gen. Geoffrey N. Keyes, United States high commissioner, commented the statement "reads like a novel by Jules Verne or H. G. Wells." He speculated it was for Russian "home consumption" and said he is "sure it will not be considered seriously west" of the Russian-controlled district of Vienna.

Propaganda Move Seen.

Western diplomatic observers said Kurrasov's accusations seemed to be part of a careful Soviet propaganda plan. Some considered it groundwork for a Russian refusal to negotiate on an Austrian independence treaty at the next meeting of the Big Four foreign ministers' deputies.

A United States spokesman also termed it part of the Russian overall opposition to the Marshall European recovery plan and said its aim appeared to be to cripple Austrian industry on the pretext of demilitarization.

A western authority said the Russians would use the statement "to stall the conclusion of an Austrian treaty and subsequent withdrawal of Russian troops from Austria, Hungary and Romania."

Reports on Arrests Prepared.

In Budapest, two United States Army officers prepared formal reports today on their ecret arrest and removal from Hungary by the Russians. The case was brought to the attention of Hungarian Foreign Minister Erik Molnar yesterday by United States Minister Selden Chapin.

Further steps, it was learned, may be taken after the State Department in Washington has studied the reports prepared by Lt. Col. Bernard Thielen, of North Hollywood, Calif., and Lt. Col. Peter J. Kopcsak, of Greensburg, Pa. They are attached to the American legation in Budapest.

They too were seized and held 13 hours after Soviet tommygunners stopped their Army sedan in the town of Papa Wednesday. Denied permission to communicate with their legation, they were driven across the Hungarian-Austrian frontier to Vienna, where they were released after official United States intervention.

(Zoltan Pfeiffer, former Hungarian cabinet member now a political refugee in the United States, said that Papa is the site of a big Russian-controlled airfield from which planes and supplies are dispatched to the Greek guerrilla front.)

Under the Hungarian peace treaty Soviet troops are supposed officially to be in Hungary only for the purpose of maintaining the Russian line of communication with Soviet occupation forces in Austria.

JEWISH GROUP IS REPORTED AMBUSHED BY ARAB FIGHTERS

JERUSALEM, Jan. 17 (AP) — Arab sources said today as many as 49 Jews were killed in fighting with Arabs overnight in the Judean hills between Bethlehem and Hebron.

A reliable source of the Arab Higher Executive said "identity cards of 49 Jews killed last night near Hebron" had been brought to the executive's Jerusalem office.

He said the Jews, a party of men and women headed for Kefar Etsyon settlement "as reinforcements," were mowed down by machine gun fire from all sides. Other Arab estimates placed the number of Jewish dead as low as 40. An official informant said police and soldiers had found bodies of 35 Jews and four Arabs at the scene of the clash.

Police, piecing together sparse reports from the area, gave this version: Jews attacked the Arab village of Surif in the hills southwest of Bethlehem, wounding six Arabs. Returning to their base of operations, they were ambushed by Arabs and about half were wiped out.

TURKISH PRESIDENT HAS LONG TALK WITH U.S. AMBASSADOR

ISTANBUL, Jan. 17 (AP)—President Ismet Inonu held a prolonged conference last night with United States Ambassador Edwin C. Wilson. Foreign Minister Necmeddin Sadak also attended. Some quarters attached special significance to the meeting, but nothing was announced.

The conference began at 10 p.m., and one person remarked: "Ambassadors do not disturb Presidents at such an hour, unless there is some pressing matter."

Turkey, along with Greece, has received American aid under the Truman doctrine against the spread of totalitarianism. Its role in carrying out the Marshall plan remains to be announced.

63 PERSONS RESCUED IN FIRE OF HOME FOR AGED IN IOWA

MADRID, Ia., Jan. 17 (AP) — Sixty-three aged persons, including several more than 90 years old, were removed safely as fire swept the Iowa Lutheran Home for the Aged yesterday. Fire departments from four towns fought the blaze in temperatures two degrees above zero.

Mrs. Barbara Rask, 94, of Madrid, was taken from the building on a mattress carried by four men. Mrs. Gust Sanborn, matron of the home and wife of the superintendent, said most of the 20 bedfast residents were removed in wheelchairs.

NLRB SEEKS WRIT TO BAR CALLING OF STRIKES BY ITU

Petition Accompanied by List of 30 Exhibits of Alleged Labor Act Violations.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 17 (AP)—The National Labor Relations Board asked the Southern Indiana United States District Court yesterday for a temporary injunction that would prevent the calling of strikes by the AFL International Typographical Union. The NLRB said such strikes would be in violation of the Taft-Hartley Act.

The injunction was sought as the NLRB continued at Chicago a hearing on two separate complaints filed against the ITU and Chicago Local 16 charging unfair labor practices.

The action taken here by Winthrop A. Johns, attorney for the NLRB, asks the court to halt the union from "engaging in, ordering, calling, advocating or counseling strikes, slowdowns or other disruptions of the operations of the employers" in violation of provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act.

The injunction petition was accompanied by 30 voluminous exhibits of alleged violations of the act by the ITU.

Judge Luther M. Swygert of the Northern Indiana Federal District presided in the absence of Judge Robert C. Baltzell, who is ill.

Deadline for Reply.

Judge Swygert set a deadline of 4:30 p.m. Feb. 2 for the union and its officers to answer. A hearing on the case was set for here Feb. 9.

Aids of Robert N. Denham, NLRB general counsel, said in Washington the injunction is the first sought in a labor dispute of nation-wide scope under the Taft-Hartley law and is the first such court action within the newspaper industry.

Denham's aids said 10 injunction pleas sought previously have been directed against local individuals of an international union. So far, two have been granted.

These aids also said that if the injunction is granted it will serve as a court order halting the union's now 40-day-old strike against Chicago newspapers as well as similar strikes elsewhere.

The petition filed in Indianapolis against the ITU said that strikes or "slowdowns" have occurred on newspapers at more than a dozen cities, including Chicago, Detroit, Kansas City, Hammond, Ind.; Albany, Jamestown and Hempstead, N. Y.; Bartlesville, Okla.; Abilene and San Antonio, Tex.; Allentown and Norristown, Pa., and Knoxville, Tenn.

Statement of I.T.U. Head.

Woodruff Randolph, I.T.U. president, was served with notice of the petition and a short time later he issued a statement in which he said the injunction "asks that the I.T.U. officers be restrained from everything publisher aids claim we are doing that they do not like."

"The National Labor Relations Board," the statement continued, "is shown up for what it is under the slave-labor Taft-Hartley law, a Simon Legree.

"Cracking the whip for big business in the newspaper field, the NLRB asks for an injunction based on the imagination of those preparing the complaint.

"After years of legal persecution, Congress adopted the Norris-LaGuardia law preventing abuses by injunction. The Taft-Hartley law not only reverses that but gives bureaucrats authority to stymie all decent trade union activity with injunctions worded as such injunctions always are, such as 'or by any other similar or related acts or conduct.'

"The I.T.U. will use every legal means possible to preserve our freedoms."

Request Called Unnecessary.

In Chicago, officials of the A.F.L. International Typographical Union said that the injunction request was unnecessary because the union was not violating the law.

Specifically, the NLRB complaint asks that the union be enjoined from imposing conditions which "cause, or attempt to cause, employers to discriminate against employes . . . with respect to whom membership in respondent ITU has been denied or terminated on some ground other than their failure to tender the periodic dues and the initiation fees uniformly required as a condition for acquiring or maintaining membership;

"By imposing conditions of employment upon employers which cause, or attempt to cause, employers to discriminate against employes; by instructing, requiring or directing subordinate local unions . . . to impose conditions of employment which cause, or attempt to cause, employers to discriminate against employes . . .;

"By instructing local unions . . . to demand or request the insertion of clauses, phrases or provisions in contracts or agreements which cause, or attempt to cause, employers to discriminate against employes. . . ."

U.N. ASKS INDIA, PAKISTAN TO END STRIFE IN KASHMIR

Security Council Calls for Immediate Measures—Representatives of Two Nations Agree to Conference.

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., Jan. 17 (UP)—The United Nations Security Council directly intervened in the dispute between India and Pakistan today and called on both sides "to take immediately all measures" to halt the fighting in Kashmir.

The Council adopted a stop-gap resolution aimed at easing the strife in Kashmir, which resulted from Moslem tribal raids after the predominantly Moslem state provisionally acceded to India. It asked the governments of India and Pakistan to issue appeals to all their peoples to refrain from further bloodshed.

The Council requested representatives of the two dominions to meet in private over the weekend to try for a settlement of some of the troubles. Both agreed to the conference.

The vote on the appeal to the two Governments was 9 to 0, with Russia and the Soviet Ukraine abstaining. Russian Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko contended that the action would not help the situation. He pointed out that the Security Council president already had addressed a similar request to India and Pakistan. Most Council members argued that more positive U.N. intervention would take considerable time.

The Council's move followed the conclusion of Pakistan Foreign Minister Sir Mohammed Zafrullah Khan's rebuttal to India's charges that the Moslem dominion was aiding the raids against Kashmir. He indicated Pakistan would favor assignment of a U.N. police force to the trouble area.

Zafrullah Khan disclosed his Government had suggested such a move in correspondence with Indian and British officials before the Kashmir fighting reached the Security Council. "For our part," he said, "the force could come strictly from the (British) Commonwealth."

GANDHI 'DEATHBED' PLEA FOR REUNION

NEW DELHI, Jan. 17 (UP)—Mohandas K. Gandhi told his followers today that he was on his deathbed, and in a faltering voice begged for a reunion of the independent dominions of Pakistan and India.

Weakening further on the fifth day of his fast to bring peace to India, the 78-year-old spiritual leader barely was able to speak into a microphone for a few moments at his evening prayer meeting.

Suggesting that the new Moslem state of Pakistan might give up its dominion status and rejoin India to form a single state, he said:

"If the people of Pakistan, or responsible authorities, do not run the state properly, they may lose Pakistan. I have no hesitation in saying Pakistan will have to atone for its sins.

"I do not want to bring pressure to bear on Pakistan for a union with India. Willingly and of its own accord Pakistan should rejoin India.

"I Am on My Deathbed."

"Now that I am on my deathbed, I do not want to hurt anyone. But if the people of Pakistan feel hurt at what I say, even though it be the truth, I would fail in my duty if I did not say what I feel.

"If I say anything untrue I may be told, and I am prepared to withdraw it. My fast is not political. It is prompted by faith. It is done to quench a flame that is consuming my soul within."

Gandhi said he was comfortable. His physician, Dr. B. C. Roy, said Gandhi could continue fasting for 36 hours more without facing a crisis but thereafter his life would be in danger. Gandhi's kidneys are not functioning properly, according to medical reports.

Gandhi's plea for a united India was in keeping with his feelings expressed throughout his life of trying to bring harmony among the warring Hindus, Sikhs and Moslems of his land. He had announced earlier a seven-point plan for ending Hindu-Moslem strife, and said he would give up his fast as soon as he was satisfied the Hindus would follow his program.

Demands by Gandhi.

He called for assurance by the Sikhs and Hindus that Moslems would be permitted to hold their annual religious fair at Merauli near Delhi, that Moslems who fled to Pakistan would be permitted to return safely, that 117 Delhi Moslem mosques converted into Hindu temples during the September riots would be restored to the Moslems, and that all parts of Delhi would be made safe for Moslems.

Other parts in Gandhi's program were lifting of the economic boycott against the Moslems by the Sikhs and Hindus, a guarantee of safety for Moslems when traveling by rail and that the few remaining Moslem districts in Delhi would not be invaded by Hindu and Sikh refugees from Pakistan.

Gandhi's proposal was read by Maulana Abdul Kalam Azad, Moslem education minister, at a mass meeting before the Jama mosque.

Fifteen thousand factory workers carrying red flags with hammer and sickle emblems marched through New Delhi toward Birla House, where Gandhi is staying. They chanted "Victory to Gandhi."

27 MORE LISTED BY AGRICULTURE DEPT. AS TRADERS

Pauley Named as Big Dealer in Cottonseed Oil.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Anderson made public late yesterday the names of 27 additional direct or indirect employes of his department who reported they have speculated in commodities since Jan. 1, 1946.

Twenty of those named are employes of the federal-state Agricultural Extension Service. A part of their salary is paid by the department and part by local government.

Aids of Anderson said none of those named yesterday were in key spots or in position to help make department policies relating to Government purchase of grain and other commodities.

Anderson made public today a list of so-called "big traders" in cottonseed oil and wool tops in the 23-month period ending Nov. 30, 1947.

The only trader identified as a public official was Edwin W. Pauley, an assistant to the Secretary of the Army, who has said he plans to resign this month.

Pauley, who has been on several previous lists of traders in other commodities, was reported to have held a "long" speculative position of 300,000 pounds of cottonseed oil on Sept. 30 and Oct. 30, 1947. This means he was counting on a price rise. A big trader in cottonseed oil is identified as one holding at least 300,000 pounds in any one future on any market.

Ford Funeral Cost $21,080.

DETROIT, Jan. 17 (AP) — The funeral of Henry Ford, the automobile manufacturer, cost his family $21,080, according to claims on file in Wayne County Probate Court. Ford was buried in a bronze casket that cost $14,935, according to the claims. Other items included $1683 for flowers and $3540 for a choir and organist.

U.S. RESERVE BOARD APPROVES NEW K.C. REDISCOUNT RATE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—Action of the Kansas City Federal Reserve Bank increasing its rediscount rate from 1 per cent to 1½ per cent, effective Monday, was approved by the Federal Reserve Board yesterday.

That made the higher rate effective throughout the nation since the 11 other reserve banks had taken similar action earlier.

The purpose of the rate increase was to help restrain expansion of bank credit as means of combatting inflation.

The rediscount rate denotes the interest which banks dealing with the public must pay to get added lending funds by borrowing from the reserve banks on the security of their commercial notes and Government securities.

PROTEST STRIKES BY 50,000 RUHR WORKERS ENDED

Promises of Fat From Other Areas Relieve Tension in 3 Cities—Food Shortages at Hand

DUESSELDORF, Germany, Jan. 17 (AP)—Three Ruhr cities where 50,000 workers struck yesterday against food shortages were normal again today, with all strikers reported back on the job.

Trade union officials said promises of fat from other areas of the United States and British zones have relieved tension in the three cities, Duisberg, Muehlheim and Dislaken. In the last week a total of 160,000 Ruhr workers went on strike at one time or another.

Officers of Ruhr trade unions planned to meet again Jan. 23. They said the meeting would be to determine if promises of help had materialized and if the acute hunger situation had been relieved.

Other areas of the combined zones, meanwhile, reported developing food shortages. Millions of consumers read today they would get no fat and little meat next week, sooner than these shortages had been expected to develop.

German officials publicly predicted "hunger riots" within the next two months.

The Soviet-sponsored Berlin press made political capital of western Germany's plight. The official Soviet newspaper, Taegliche Rundschau, said, "The fusion of the two zones strengthened the position of American capital, but brought further reduction in living [illegible] German people."

German trade union leaders in the Ruhr said they were confident that strikes of the last week were not Communist inspired.

"It is just that workers were hungry," said one leading union official.

The attention being given the situation by British-American military authorities was especially acute because of the publication of "Protocol M," purporting to outline a Communist master plan of strikes for the purpose of breaking down the Marshall plan for European recovery by attacking the industrial heart of Europe. The British Foreign Office, which released the text of the plan yesterday, said it was as convinced the plan was of authentic Communist origin. However, the Communist-controlled Socialist Unity party declared in Berlin that the document was a "clumsy swindle," and a Tass dispatch from Berlin described reports of "Protocol M" as "nightmarish fabrications" and "forgeries."

STATE, CITIES TO OPPOSE OKLAHOMA PHONE RATE RISE

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Jan. 17 (INS) — Opposition was predicted yesterday for the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.'s application for rate increases at a hearing next Tuesday.

James Welch, attorney for the Oklahoma Corporation Commission, said 10 to 15 cities would join the state agency in opposing the rate increase.

The company seeks to increase Oklahoma rates by an estimated two million dollars a year.

NEW MISSOURI FLOOD CONTROL POLICY: DAMS AND SAVING OF SOIL

Federal and State Agencies Agree on Revised System Stressing Retention of Water in the Uplands.

By BOYD F. CARROLL
Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 17 — A new state flood control policy in Missouri, co-ordinating reservoir projects with intensive soil conservation and land improvement practices, was established when federal and state agencies agreed here late yesterday on a revised flood control plan for development of the Osage river basin in western Missouri and eastern Kansas.

This policy is a departure from the original Pick-Sloan federal plan for flood control in the Missouri river valley, providing only reservoirs and levees, which Gov. Donnelly has said was not acceptable to Missouri.

The new plan, designed to adapt Pick-Sloan to the needs of Missouri, calls for more but smaller flood control dams and reservoirs, and stresses soil conservation and flood water detention on the uplands at its source.

Unanimous Approval.

Representatives of the United States Army Corps of Engineers, the United States Department of Agriculture, and eight Missouri state agencies concerned with flood control and soil conservation, unanimously approved the new plan for the Osage basin, in a conference called by Gov. Donnelly. The plan was based on a joint federal-state survey of the Osage Basin.

This survey was started last February after Gov. Donnelly had announced opposition of the state to construction of the proposed Osceola Dam on the Osage river near Osceola, Mo., a Pick-Sloan project. At that time Donnelly called on Congress to withhold funds for construction of the Osceola Dam and to withdraw its authorization for the project.

The revised Osage Basin plan is subject to final approval by the corps of engineers and Department of Agriculture in Washington, and by Congress, which will be requested to authorize the projects involved and provide federal funds. The plan calls for:

Abandonment of the proposed Osceola Dam and two proposed dams on the tributary Pomme de Terre and South Grand rivers, and substitution of nine smaller dams and reservoirs, four in Missouri and five in eastern Kansas.

A comprehensive soil conservation and land improvement program, including terracing, farm ponds, reforestation, and construction of several thousand small upstream flood water detention structures and channel improvement works.

The upstream phase of the development, consisting of the land treatment practices, will be administered by the United States Department of Agriculture. The donwstream phase, consisting of the reservoirs, will be administered by the Army Engineers. State agencies will co-operate in both phases.

Four Years to Build.

Cost of the nine dams and reservoirs was estimated by Army engineers at $175,000,000 and the time for construction was estimated at four years. No cost estimate has been made for the upland development, which would require about 20 years for completion, it was said.

The proposed nine dams will submerge approximately 209,000 acres of land in Missouri. This is 124,200 acres less than the 333,200 acres which would have been submerged by the proposed Osceola, Pomme de Terre and South Grand reservoirs, all in Missouri. Benefits that will eventually result from the land improvement provisions of the land were estimated at "well over $100,000,000 annually."

Of the four proposed dams in the Osage Basin in Missouri, the largest would be built on the Osage river at Kasinger Bluff, about two miles above Warsaw, Mo., and 60 miles downstream from the site originally proposed for the Osceola Dam. The reservoir would submerge about 164,000 acres. The dam would be about 80 feet high and about 4000 feet in length.

The other three Missouri dams, and the areas they would submerge, would be built on the Pomme de Terre river near Hermitage, 14,800 acres; on the Sac river near Stockton, 23,000 acres; and on Cedar creek, 20 miles south of Roscoe, 6800 acres.

Kansas projects include small dams on the Marmation river near Fort Scott; on Potowatomie creek near Garnett; on Bull creek near Paola; and two on the Marais des Cygnes river, near Melvern and Pomona. Several Kansas state agencies co-operated in the survey.

Gov. Donnelly largely was responsible for development of the new policy. After opposing the original Osceola dam proposal, which had aroused considerable controversy, he took the position the original Pick-Sloan plan would not solve the problems in Missouri and that a plan must be devised that would meet the state's needs.

Soil Program.

He said Missouri floods could not be economically controlled by dams and levees alone, and that a broad soil conservation program should be developed to hold on the uplands a substantial part of the water which now runs off.

Brig. Gen. Lewis A. Pick of Omaha, Missouri river division engineer, who headed a corps of engineers' delegation at the conference yesterday, said the plan adopted "has set a pattern which can be applied to other drainage basins in Missouri, and is equally applicable to all of the tributary basins in the Missouri valley."

Pick is one of the originators of the Pick-Sloan plan, devised by the Army Engineers and the United States Department of the Interior.

"Gov. Donnelly has taken the lead," Pick said, "in working out one of the most difficult flood control and land use problems we have tackled in the Missouri basin."

Gen. Pick said the co-operative effort of the federal and state agencies in the survey had resulted in a sound plan for controlling floods and providing for a comprehensive soil conservation program.

"I believe it is the best plan which could have been worked out," he said, "and still get the maximum amount of benefits for each flood control dollar spent.

More Praise for Plan.

R. H. Musser of Milwaukee, regional conservator for the United States Department of Education and Soil Conservation Service, said the plan was "a fine example of co-operation by federal and state agencies in development of a plan for flood control and soil conservation."

"I know of no other place where this procedure has been carried out in this way," Musser said. "It is a pattern that may well be carried out in other watersheds."

Donnelly said the co-ordinated plan provided a maximum of benefits for the Osage basin through development of land and other natural resources, "and also affords important flood reductions to areas in the basin and along the Missouri and Mississippi Rivers."

"The new plan of reservoirs," Donnelly said, "inundates approximately 125,000 acres less land in Missouri than the original plan which included the Osceola reservoir. A majority of the valuable coal deposits in the area, which would have been lost under the original plan, will be saved."

"Menaces to public health arising under the former plan will be removed," Donnelly said. "There will be less detriment to the local economy through severance of municipal trade territories and relocation of highways, railroads and other utilities. The new plan also provides a somewhat greater and more dependable degree of flood control on the Missouri and Mississippi rivers."

While any flood control plan in the Osage basin would involve sacrifices, Donnelly said, the sacrifices under the co-ordinated land and water resources development plan "are offset many times by benefits accruing within the basin."

Retarding Runoff.

The upland development of the plan, Donnelly said, would provide for use of all proved methods of retarding flow of runoff waters and reduction of soil erosion to a minimum on crop and pasture land areas, thereby reducing downstream flood water and sedimentation problems.

"By the use of structures and vegetation," he said, "the program provides for the stabilization and protection of water disposal systems of the upland tributary watershed. Improvement and proper management of the 2,500,000 acres of woodland in the Osage basin will accomplish material reduction in runoff and accompanying flood problems.

"The Department of Agriculture's proposals anticipate a high degree of interest and co-operation on the part of landowners and operators in the detailed planning, establishment and maintenance of the protective features on the land."

ANTI-RED LOCAL AGAIN DEFIANT OF UEW LEADERS

Spurns Settlement Efforts in Dispute Over Organizer's Ouster — Dismissal Sticks.

Members of the anti-Communist Local 1102 of the CIO United Electrical Workers reaffirmed their defiance of district and international officers of the union at a turbulent meeting at Kiel Auditorium last night. Officers of the local said the next move was up to officers of the international.

Although it had been reported that an attempt would be made to oust William E. Sentner, avowed Communist and president of District 8 of the union, from his membership in the local, the matter was not brought up at the meeting. Officers of the local denied knowledge of any such move, but it was learned that a motion had been prepared for presentation from the floor for the ousting of Sentner. John J. Burns, president of the local, declared the meeting adjourned before there was opportunity to offer it.

The long-standing dispute between Local 1102 and the officers of the district and the international came to a head when the local voted overwhelmingly to reject further efforts at settlement and to stand back of its original decision in the dispute. This was to suspend Lou Kimmel, an organizer on Sentner's staff, who was suspended for non-payment of dues.

The suspension has been upheld by the local executive board, but overruled by the district executive board, the district appeal board and the international executive board. The last-named group threatened to suspend the local unless it complied with the ruling. The specific issue voted on last night was whether the local should give any further consideration to the Kimmel matter, specifically whether local officers should confer with the three top officers of the international, who are to be in St. Louis Feb. 6.

Members who attempted to speak on behalf of further consideration of the case were booed and only a few Kimmel supporters were heard in the voice vote.

The local voted to give 60-day notice of reopening of the contract with Emerson Electric Co. for an increase in wages. Sentner made a speech "seconding the motion" on this matter which he quickly turned into a denunciation of union officials who favored signing of non-Communist affidavits as required under the Taft-Hartley Act. After six and one-half minutes, he was cut off by Burns, who reminded him union regulations permitted speakers on motions only five minutes. Sentner's appeal to the membership from the chairman's ruling on time was shouted down.

CIO Store Workers Here Vote to Quit International Union.

Members of the CIO United Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Employes' Union here voted to disaffiliate with their international union at a meeting last night at Kiel Auditorium. Such action already had been voted by the local executive board and the shop stewards.

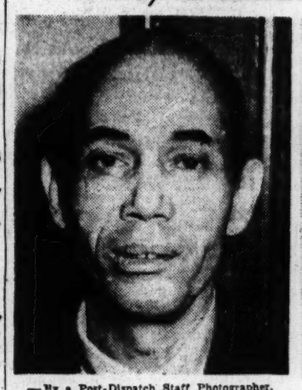

About 2000 of the union's 6000 members here attended the meeting. A standing vote was taken on the question and officers announced that it was unanimous.

The resolution empowered union officers to seek affiliation with another national labor organization. Officers said they had no specific union in mind, but another resolution adopted at the meeting was directed to Philip Murray, CIO president, reaffirming the union's belief in the principles of the CIO.

Differences between local leaders of the union, which is headed here by Harold J. Gibbons, and International President Samuel Wolchok of New York, led to the break. International officers of the union have not filed non-Communist affidavits to qualify under the Taft-Hartley Act, although directed by the international board to do so. This has resulted in requests for bargaining elections in several local plants being rejected by the National Labor Relations Board.

The resolution of disaffiliation also charged refusal of the international to publish financial statements, "appeasement of Communist locals in New York," and "fraud in the packing of conventions."

Shoots Through Door to 'Scare' Wife, Wounds Sister-in-Law

ALBERT F. HAUK

MRS. JOHN GIPSON

Man Fires After Women Return From Betting on Horse Races—Victim in Serious Condition.

Albert F. Hauk, a chef, was held today suspected of assault to kill his sister-in-law, Mrs. Geraldine Gipson, who was wounded in the back last night when Hauk fired a shot through the bathroom door of a flat the Hauk and Gipson families occupy at 407A North Euclid avenue.

Mrs. Gipson, a 28-year-old waitress, is in serious condition at City Hospital. Her sister, Mrs. Evelyn Hauk, was also in the bathroom when the shot was fired.

Hauk, 38 years old, told officers he became angry when his wife and her sister did not get home until 7:45 o'clock. "I just wanted to scare my wife," Hauk related. He said he obtained his .38-caliber revolver from the pocket of a raincoat in which he kept it, and "pulled the trigger."

Mrs. Hauk, who ran to a store and telephoned police, said she, Mrs. Gipson and a woman relative spent part of the afternoon at the Hyde Park Club, in Venice, betting on horse races. She and her sister lost $6, and returned home in a taxicab after visiting a tavern, Mrs. Hauk said. She said she saw her husband in the flat when she entered, and asked him if he had been "drinking again."

Mrs. Gipson's husband, John Gipson, a taxicab driver, said he was reading in a bedroom when he heard the shot, and ran to a hallway, where Hauk pointed the revolver at him and remarked, "I will kill you all." "I talked to him, and he lowered the gun and walked away," Gipson said. Police found the revolver in the yard at the foot of the back stairs, where it apparently had been tossed by Hauk.

BUILDING HOUSING 2 FIRMS RAZED BY FIRE; $63,500 LOSS

Ice Coats Equipment, Wires as Blaze on South Broadway Threatens to Spread.

(Picture in Everyday Magazine.)

Firemen worked for six hours in bitter cold last night fighting a three-alarm blaze which destroyed a building housing the Argo Products Co., distributor of fan parts, and the Heitz Furniture Co. at 1216-18 South Broadway. Fire Chief Frank Egenriether estimated damage at $30,000 to the building and $33,500 to the contents.

The fire, of undetermined origin, was discovered shortly before 10 o'clock, when the temperature reading was 11 degrees.

Flames shot through the roof and clouds of smoke poured from the two-story brick building, but water from the hose lines froze rapidly, coating equipment, the sidewalk and power lines with ice. Spray froze on the firemen's coats.

Part of the roof collapsed, and for a time it appeared that the blaze, which had gained strong headway before it was discovered, might spread to other buildings.

Louis Steinmetz, who lives in a second-floor flat at 1212A South Broadway, slipped on icy stairs and suffered a shoulder injury in attempting to bring out some of his belongings.

The building was owned by the Carmelite Sisters, for whom the Mercantile Commerce Bank & Trust Co. acted as rental agent, it was reported.

INJURED TRYING TO PREVENT AUTO FROM STRIKING TRUCK

Robert McCrory, 3701 South Jefferson avenue, suffered a head injury early today when he was hit by an automobile while trying to prevent it from colliding with his stalled truck in the 300 block of Lemay Ferry road.

The driver of the machine, Earl J. Burns, 501 West Davis street, then ran into the truck, causing slight injuries to Miss Nellie May Brannon, 266 Pardella avenue, Lemay, who was seated in it. A short time later, an automobile driven by Adolph Beczkala, 736 Cumberland avenue, collided with Burns's machine.

A third collision took place when an automobile driven by Addis Collier, 117 East Velma avenue, Lemay, struck the rear of the machine of Deputy Sheriff Oliver Ledergerber, who was investigating the first accident. Beczkala and Collier were unhurt. McCrory, 34 years old, is in City Hospital.

Killed By Fall in Visiting Ship.

LISBON, Jan. 17 (UP)—Lt. Col. Antonio Alvaro Silvacosta, son-in-law of President Antonio Carmona, was killed today when he fell into the hold of the Portguese steamer Rovuma anchored in Lisbon harbor. He was visiting the ship.

2 FILE IN MISSOURI RACE FOR GOVERNOR

John H. Flanigan Seeks G. O. P. Nomination, Raymond Cox Democratic

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 17 (AP)—A Democrat and a Republican filed with the Secretary of State today for the Missouri race for Governor.

John H. Flanigan, Carthage lawyer who already had announced his intention of seeking the Republican nomination, formally filed today. Former State Senator Raymond E. Cox of Centralia, a farmer, filed for the Democratic nomination.

Flanigan, prominent in Missouri Bar Association affairs, entered the race recently in a speech at Carthage.

Cox, who also served as Representative from Audrain county for two terms, 1928 and 1930, declared himself a "firm believer in the fundamental principle that good government comes ahead of party affiliation" and said his campaign would be conducted in "the plain and simple language of a farmer." Cox said he had operated his 500-acre farm alone since the war deprived him of hired help.

Dan M. Nee, former internal revenue collector for the western district of Missouri filed for the Democratic nomination earlier this week.

William McKinley Thomas, a St. Louis shoe company employe, filed for the Republican nomination last December.

Others are either announced or potential candidates.

Forrest Smith, state auditor for 15 years, has announced his intention of seeking the Democratic nomination, but has not filed yet.

Among other Democrats reported eyeing the race is H. Sam Priest, now chairman of the St. Louis Police Commission.

who might have been able to take the pistol from the bar around the time of the murder.

One former bartender, held for questioning, stated that during March, 1946, while Kabbaz was ill, he carried the pistol with him at nights when he took receipts from the bar to his home after closing hours. He said he did not know the Shryock girl and knew nothing of the murder.

Another former bartender, also under arrest, said that he also carried the pistol on a few occasions when he took the tavern's funds home with him on the other bartender's day off. He also denied knowing the murdered girl or anything about the case. Both former bartenders said they returned the pistol to the back-bar drawer after each use of it.

Mrs. John Shryock, 10585 Maple avenue, Overland, mother of Alice, told reporters that she had never heard her daughter speak of any of the men held in the case today. She also said she didn't know of her daughter having ever been to any taverns on St. Louis's South Side.

The Shryock girl, who worked as a clerk in the Overland Dollar Store, was shot in the head after being beaten in a lonely section of the park near the end of the Creve Coeur Lake street car line. She had been missing from her home for three days before her body was found.

Robbed of $28 and Topcoat.

Theophile A. Laramie, a candy maker, 4026 North Newstead avenue, reported to police that he was robbed of $28 and his topcoat, valued at $10, by two Negroes in the 1300 block of Franklin avenue early today. Laramie said one of the men struck him in the face and knocked him down. He is in City Hospital with a head injury.

'BOOTS' BRENNAN ESTATE MOSTLY TO RELIGIOUS GROUP

Specific Bequests of $54,100 —Rest to St. Vincent de Paul Society.

An inventory of the estate of William J. (Boots) Brennan, Democratic politician filed today in Probate Court, listed property valued at $399,492. After specific bequests of $54,100, the residue of the estate was left to the St. Vincent de Paul Society of St. Louis.

The inventory, filed by William L. Igoe, executor, listed the following: Real estate, assessed at $42,840; deeds of trust, $28,280; corporation stocks, $193,358; bonds, $99,337; cash, $22,586; insurance policies, $8895, and several smaller items. The stocks were listed at their Oct. 10 market value, the date of his death. However, capital stock in the Smith & Brennan Pile Co., which he headed, was listed at par.

Catholic, Protestant and Jewish charities will receive bequests from the estate. Eleven charitable institutions will receive $500 each. A bequest of $2000 will be used in furnishing a room for patients in the home conducted by the Franciscan Missionary Brothers of the Sacred Heart at Eureka, "in memory of the late Congressman John J. Cochran." A widower, Mr. Brennan left no near relatives. He was 73 years old.

discomfort to Louisiana, eastern Texas and southern Mississippi, was a drouth reported from southern California, which has had temperatures in the high 70s and low 80s the last week.

Officials of Santa Barbara and Ventura reported water usage in those cities limited to that necessary for sanitation, cooking and drinking, while thousands of farms and citrus groves were forced to irrigate for the first time this winter.

Temperatures were higher today along the Atlantic Coast, and the mercury was also rising in Florida, where the $100,000,000 citrus fruit crop was threatened by a cold snap a few days ago. In Miami, the high was 66 degrees.

BUS DRIVER CONVINCES JUDGE OF ERROR IN SPEED CHARGE

Sam P. Cavender, a bus driver, won a discharge in police court yesterday on a charge of speeding 38 miles an hour over a three-block distance on Twelfth boulevard and Gravois avenue last Dec. 31, when he convinced Judge Joseph B. Catanzaro that the facts of the case made it impossible that he attained the speed charged.

Judge Catanzaro remarked, "This is the first time I have ever discharged a bus driver on a speeding complaint" after he heard Cavender explain he had made a stop at Soulard street to discharge passengers and that it was impossible for him to have attained a speed of 38 miles in three blocks from the standing start.

Patrolman John Luecken of the motorcycle squad testified he had clocked Cavender's bus as he followed it from Soulard to Geyer avenue. Cavender, who said he never had been arrested before, testified he had been driving for 24 years, and "I know a bus can't go that fast in three blocks."

STANDARD OIL BOOSTS PAY OF NON-UNION WORKERS HERE

A temporary 5 per cent wage increase, not to exceed $30 a month, was given yesterday by Standard Oil Co. (Indiana) to all non-union and supervisory employes, including about 450 in the St. Louis area.

It also was announced that temporary increases previously granted to non-supervisory employes not represented by unions have been made permanent. The company said wages of its union employes have been fixed by contract or negotiations are in progress on them.

TRUMAN COMMENDS JUDAISM COUNCIL; CITES 'INSPIRATION'

President Truman has sent the American Council for Judaism a message commending the work of the organization, which opens its fourth annual conference at Hotel Statler tonight.

In his message, addressed to Lessing J. Rosenwald of Jenkintown, Pa., head of the council, the President said: "The splendid work of your organization is well known to me. The task you have set for yourselves of working with your co-religionists to the end that all of you will be conscious of, and inspired by, your religion, and that in your national loyalty and interests you think and act exclusively as Americans, should prove an inspiration to all Americans, whatever their faith may be."

The council, founded in 1943, opposes political Zionism and the idea of a Jewish national state. Rabbis and laymen from chapters in 25 states are scheduled to attend the three-day meeting. Lawton J. Levy, president of the St. Louis Chapter, will preside at a dinner at 7:30 o'clock opening the conference.

PICTURE TAKEN IN TAVERN LEADS TO ARREST OF TWO

Pair Identified by Alleged Victim as Men Who Robbed Him.

Two men whose arrest was made possible by a photograph taken during their tour of taverns last Tuesday night were charged with first degree robbery today in the robbery early Wednesday of Albert Gott, 3953 Westminster place. Gott reported he was slugged and robbed of a wallet containing about $45.

Gott told police he met two men in a tavern in the 3900 block of Olive street, and visited a number of other taverns with them in the course of the evening. At the completion of the tour, he said, he and his companions crossed a vacant lot in the 3900 block of Olive, where he was slugged and robbed.

He said he did not know who his companions were, but he remembered that in one place they visited they had their photograph taken. Police found the photographer and obtained a copy of the picture. A girl in one of the taverns furnished the name of one of the men, and police asked East St. Louis police to arrest the man, Hardin Royal, 122A Collinsville avenue, East St. Louis. He and Elmer C. Kinder of Malden, Mo., were arrested last night at the Collinsville avenue address.

Police said Royal admitted drinking with Gott Tuesday night, but Kinder denied being with them. Both Kinder and Royal denied slugging or robbing Gott, police said, but he identified both as his assailants. The warrants against them were issued by Assistant Circuit Attorney Joseph Settich.

TWO SOLDIERS ADMIT THEFT OF CAR AND $4600 IN FURS

Theft of an automobile which had furs valued at $4600 in the back seat has been admitted by two AWOL soldiers arrested by state highway patrolmen yesterday on U. S. Highway 66 near Allenton, St. Louis county.

The soldiers, who gave their names as Pvt. Robert E. Suttles, 18 years old, Flint, Mich., and Ralph E. Vickery, 17, Detroit, said they stole the machine Thursday at Bowling Green, Ky., after leaving Fort Knox because "we were tired of Army life."

The furs, consisting of 19 coats and a neckpiece, were found in the automobile's trunk, where the soldiers had removed them. The highway patrol said the machine was owned by Kay Cagle, a fur salesman, Russell Springs, Ky.

GIRL KILLED, YOUTH HURT; AUTO HITS TREE

Machine Apparently Swerved Out of Control at Curve in St. Charles.

A young woman was killed and her companion was seriously injured today when the automobile in which they were riding struck a tree and then crashed into a house in St. Charles.

She was Miss Grace Bass, 17 years old, a garment worker, who lived with her mother, Mrs. Ethel Bass, at 416 Lindenwood avenue, St. Charles. Gerald Myers, 20, of Route 3, Florissant, suffered head, face and arm injuries and was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital in St. Charles.

Police were unable to determine who was driving the automobile, a coupe owned by Myers. The machine apparently swerved out of control on West Clark avenue, where the street makes a bend in crossing Kingshighway. Police reported it hit the curb, scraped a tree and then careened across the street and crashed into the steps of a dwelling occupied by Donald C. Bethel at 1510 West Clark. The occupants, thrown out of the automobile, were found lying in the street.

OFFICE OPEN LATE MONDAY FOR LICENSE STICKER SALES

The license collector's office in City Hall will remain open until 8:30 p.m. Monday to accommodate purchasers of 1948 city automobile license stickers.

License Collector Frank A. Britton said the extended closing hour is for the benefit of persons unable to get to the office during the regular hours of 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. About 50,000 stickers have been sold to date. Automobiles owned by St. Louisans must bear the 1948 tag by Feb. 1.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Henry Wallace and Marquis Childs

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

While I hold no special brief for Mr. Wallace I cannot help but come out in defense of any man upon whom unwarranted calumny and abuse has been heaped since he announced his candidacy on a third party for president.

Generally the press has been bitter in its comments, but one of the worst offenders is Marquis Childs, who ordinarily, in other matters displays a judgment and common sense which are admirable.

Why should it be a profound disservice to a country for a man to announce his candidacy on a third party ticket, and why should it be a disservice if, in so doing, Truman is likely to be defeated and a Republican president elected? Yet this absurd statement is made in Mr. Childs' recent column, "Wallace in Samson's Role." Many more such absurd statements are made. In fact the whole column bristles with so much lurid hate, enmity, ill-will, and agony at the thought of Wallace's candidacy that Mr. Childs himself becomes the prince of painful demagoguery, taking precedence over Mr. Wallace, whom he accuses of this.

I have followed Mr. Wallace's career from the early '20s when he was editor of Wallace's Farmer, scarcely known outside his small circle of subscribers. I admired him then for the soundness of his views and calmness of his writing. I continued to admire him when he was made Secretary of Agriculture and later as Vice President, and this still holds to a certain extent. I do not think by any means he is the radical he is pictured, nor do I think, should he become president, that "he might pull down the pillars of the very structure he professed to defend," as stated by Mr. Childs.

Good Hope

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The symposium, "Youth Looks Ahead—With Hope," is characteristic of the service given this community by the Post-Dispatch. I thought the statements by Carroll L. Wilson and F.D.R. Jr. were especially good. Not a single one staged a flight from reality, off into theology. If America has enough young men of the caliber of these seven the future looks good.

A Disagreement with Mr. Sherman

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

May I take issue with Mr. Sherman's evaluation of the performance on Saturday night of the Rachmaninoff Piano Concerto, with Jesus Maria Sanroma as soloist? It is obvious that Mr. Sherman is not sympathetic to Rachmaninoff's music, as it is, of course, his privilege to be. However, the intemperate tone of his remarks concerning this particular composition, is, I think, unfortunate. In the opinion of this listener, and I am sure of many others, the second piano concerto is a powerful, moving and sincere work, and if Mr. Sherman cannot see this, I think he is the poorer for it.

I further disagree with Mr. Sherman as to the quality of the performance on Saturday night. (Editor's Note: Mr. Sherman said the orchestra had "juice" and Mr. Sanroma's performance was brittle and steely.) I think it was very poor, and the blame should be shared equally by the orchestra and the soloist. Mr. Sanroma lacked power and emotional depth, while the orchestra was too loud, especially in the first movement, and practically drowned out the soloist in many places; it seemed to go through the score in purely mechanical fashion and without any particular expression. Altogether, conductor, orchestra and soloist completely failed to project the essential meaning of the work. To borrow Mr. Sherman's terminology, if there was anything "ersatz" or "synthetic" here, those of us who have heard the work performed elsewhere will be inclined to ascribe it to inadequacy of performance rather than to defects inherent in the composition itself.

I am hearing the St. Louis Symphony for the first time this season, being a newcomer to St. Louis. I think it is a fine orchestra, and it has given some very good performances this season. It seems to me, however, that it not particularly successful with Russian music.

When Britons Join Arabs

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

A news dispatch from London says that three British former Indian Army officers had left by air to fight with the Arabs in Palestine. A Foreign Office spokesman is quoted as stating that there was nothing that the British Government could do to prevent private citizens from leaving the country to join the Arab forces.

In a strictly moral sense, the failure of the British Government to act in this matter makes Great Britain an accessory to Arab defiance of the United Nations decision to partition Palestine.

A more serious and immediate result is the establishment by Great Britain of a precedent which could be cited by Russia's Balkan puppets for the formation of so-called "international brigades" to assist the Greek guerrillas.

It is to be hoped that the British Government will realize the serious implications of this case and take immediate, positive action to affirm its intention to prevent defiance by its citizens of the authority of the United Nations.

State Department Business

The Marshall plan is many things. It is an expression of America's humanitarian desire to help crippled Europe. It is a proposal for financing the purchase of goods for which Europe must turn to the United States in any event. It is a far-sighted effort to preserve foreign markets without which the American economy would go into a tailspin.

But above everything else it is an instrument of American diplomacy. It is the practical device by which we hope to save Western Europe from Communist totalitarianism. In this epic struggle, it is the chief weapon of the State Department. And as such it should not be taken out of the hands of the State Department.

It is therefore regrettable to read that Senator Vandenberg is said to be planning legislation to divorce European aid from the department's control. One hopes against hope that this report will prove to be ill-founded. If not, there will be a most grievous wrench in the fine record he has been writing as chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

The Vandenberg scheme, it is said, will be based on the legislation which separates the United States Atomic Energy Commission from military control. If so, it would leave the State Department utterly at the mercy of whatever individual or group might be named to administer the aid program. If Secretary Marshall should feel that such administration at any time was not in line with American diplomatic policy and efforts, he would be able to appeal only to the President and the Congress. Such a slow and uncertain procedure would end in frustration and futility.

Day-by-day diplomacy simply cannot be conducted profitably if vital moves must wait on long and probably acrimonious congressional debates. It cannot be effective if deprived of control of any of its major instruments—least of all if that instrument is in unco-operative hands. Within a broad outline of policy, the top diplomat of the United States must be free to act as immediate situations demand. There cannot, as Gen. Marshall said, be two Secretaries of State.

There are no valid reasons for removing the State Department from control of the nation's strongest diplomatic weapon. Diplomacy is the prime business of the department.

Secretary Marshall should, of course, place the administration of European aid in the most expert hands available. One is not too impressed by some of the shallow, callow, striped-pants careerists in his department. In all probability, the Secretary himself does not look on them with a beaming eye. He will need purposeful experts—bankers, economists, engineers, food experts and the like—to carry out the proposed program. Certainly, he can hardly be tempted to undermine his prestige by turning it over to bunglers and incompetents, be they in his department or out of it.

The plan's administration should be as businesslike as it possibly can be. But its first business must be that of diplomacy. Outsiders—and conceivably even hostile outsiders—must not be placed in the position of being able to exercise a practical veto over foreign policy.

The Post-Dispatch is for wise and generous administration of the proposed program. It is against administration separate from the State Department. Divided authority here would run against all the lessons of experience.

The Battle of the Baskets

Will the battle, like that which the Messenger reported to Caesar back at headquarters, fare like to the morning's war? Will it now sway this way, as a mighty sea forced by the tide to combat with the wind? Will it now sway the other way, like the selfsame sea forced to retire by the fury of the wind? That is up to the St. Louis University Billikens and the five basketeers of Notre Dame who meet in mortal struggle tonight in Kiel Auditorium. It may not be the Battle of the Century, but it is the sports event of this day over the wide world, and would that that veteran reporter of battles royal, Bill Shakespeare, were here to write it up for us. By all the dope, this battle of the baskets would put his typewriter to one fearful test!

Tulsa Tribune's Fine Stand

It is a satisfying experience to be able to reprint for our readers the editorial from the Tulsa Tribune, on equal rights in education, under the cartoon today. This editorial represents responsible thinking of a high order. Understanding, good sense and fairness pervade it from start to finish.

The Tulsa Tribune might have taken a state's rights view. It might have been aggrieved at the Supreme Court's decision that Oklahoma must not only provide legal education for a Negro student equal to that provided for white students, but must provide it "as soon as it does for applicants of other groups." The Tribune might have decided to say very little about it or nothing at all and thus leave the field open for prejudice to rule.

Instead of taking any of these courses, the Tulsa newspaper meets the issue squarely and on the side of reason. It comes out for admission of Negro students to state-supported graduate schools, such as law and medicine, so as to assure all Oklahoma students equal educational opportunity in this limited field. It does not now favor general intermingling of undergraduates and lower school students. The reason it gives for this policy of gradualism is a sincere one: " . . . any legalistic attempt to throw the two races together at a rate that exceeds general public acceptance will cause reactions that worsen, instead of improve, race relations."

Eyes are trained on Oklahoma from all parts of the country to see how its State University at Norman will apply the Supreme Court decision. If it follows the human, sensible approach of the Tulsa Tribune, it cannot go wrong.

As for Missouri, there is good reason to believe that public opinion here, for more reasons than one, is advanced beyond that in Oklahoma, as it should be. A student poll at the University of Missouri shows a 5-to-1 ratio in favor of permitting Negroes to take part in Big Six athletics. Virtually the same proportion favors participation of Negroes in debates, model UN assemblies and similar activities. Previous polls have made plain that a substantial majority of those voting thinks that Negroes should be admitted to the State University as undergraduates.

The alternative is to establish eventually a set of duplicating but inferior schools of law, medicine, journalism, engineering and so on. A costly but inferior law school was set up here in St. Louis after the Gaines decision of 10 years ago. Let us not extend that mistake to other fields. As the President's Committee on Civil Rights said, the idea of "separate but equal" educational facilities has been one of the "outstanding myths of American history."

Setbacks for the Fair Idea

Within the past week, the idea of holding a world's fair in St. Louis in 1953 has received three serious setbacks. These setbacks need to be carefully considered by the backers of the fair plan, who have been planning to ask St. Louisans to put up $1,000,000 to finance the initial phases.

The first setback came when two members of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment announced their opposition to the fair idea. These members are President Albanese of the Board of Aldermen and Comptroller Nolte. They make up a majority (the third member is Mayor Kaufmann) of the city's official body for the allocation of municipal funds either by bond issue or direct appropriation.

In other words, it is now the view of Board of Estimate and Apportionment that St. Louis should not invest any city funds in the development of plans for a fair. Unless either Mr. Albanese or Mr. Nolte changes his mind or unless one or the other is replaced by a new official who favors a fair, that will continue to be the view of the managers of the city's financial affairs. Mr. Nolte's detailed objections appear in the news columns today.

The second setback was at the hands of 378 residents adjacent to the Forest Park area which has been proposed as the site of such a fair. These residents, employing the historic device of petition, made their unqualified opposition known to Mr. Albanese, as the citywide elected head of the Board of Aldermen. This protest was promptly read into the record of the city's legislative body.

Seldom have St. Louis citizens attacked a plan with language so harsh. Describing the idea as "nefarious and destructive to citizens of this city in this period of high prices, shortage of materials and grave inadequacy of housing," the petition called on the aldermen to "veto, void and kill all motions and bills submitted, which would condemn and destroy" structures in the Forest Park area to make room for a "gigantic and extravagant carnival."

The third setback was a poll showing 21 of 28 Aldermen definitely opposed to the Forest Park site. They are thus in a position to prevent the use of what the sponsors consider much the most promising location for a fair.

Before these setbacks, the fair idea was brought up sharp by information that the Chicago Association of Commerce, comparable to the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, had come out against a fair for Chicago in 1953 and that Mayor Kennelly of Chicago concurred. So that St. Louis might have an understanding of the Chicago attitude, the Post-Dispatch reprinted the Chicago statement. Reasons for opposing the fair idea included the shortage of materials, housing, hotel space and transportation, and world unrest. The problem of obtaining participation of foreign countries in such an unsettled world was also cited.

We said last Sunday that St. Louis should explore all the aspects of this idea before it commits itself. The question still is whether the plan for a world's fair is boldness or rashness. Messrs. Albanese and Nolte and 21 Aldermen and 378 residents of the proposed fair area apparently think it is rashness.

Truman vs. Knutson

Secretary Snyder has virtually told Congress that President Truman will veto the third Knutson bill to slash personal income taxes. He should veto it, but the tax policy on his side of the fence is none too statesmanlike, either. Mr. Truman himself proposes a big tax reduction. It would give somewhat greater relief than the Knutson bill to small taxpayers, but otherwise it would be inflationary in the same way. It would free a new wave of purchasing power to bid prices still higher.

To save the Treasury from loss, Mr. Truman proposes to raise corporation taxes enough to offset the cut in personal taxes. But in this unprecedented sellers' market, higher corporation taxes would promptly be added to prices, largely washing out the small consumer's gain from lower personal rates. The first taxes to come down should not be any kind of income tax but the excise taxes which bear so heavily on low-income Americans. Finally, it's almost impossible to believe that Mr. Truman seriously expected this Congress to increase any taxes, least of all the taxes on business.

If Mr. Truman vetoes the Knutson bill again, he would stand a far better chance to be sustained in Congress and in public opinion if he had not played this stroke of tax politics himself.

For a Straight Rent Increase

Tenants being five times as numerous as landlords, rent control will almost surely be extended from March 1 to the end of this election year. The issue is probably less whether there will be control than what shape it will take.

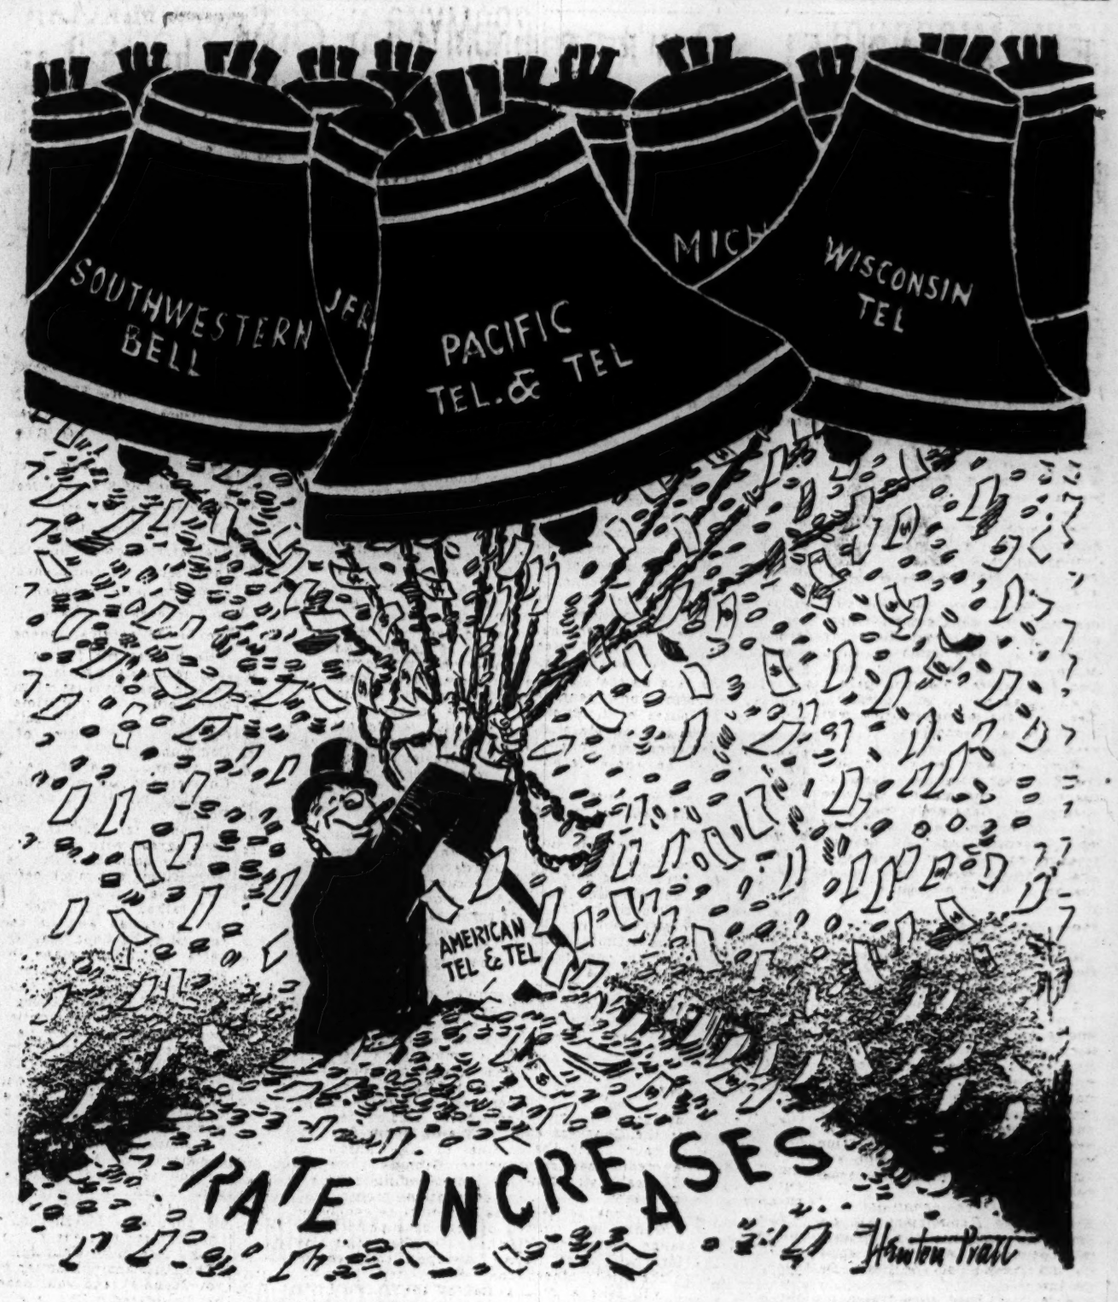

The current law shows what to avoid. It should have allowed landlords a "cost of living" increase. Congress, fearing to offend tenants, granted 15 per cent but only when leases were signed to the end of 1948. Only 9 per cent of them have signed such higher-rent contracts. Landlords thus received only a small part of the relief that an unconditional 15 per cent increase would have given them.

Suppose this arrangement were merely extended to Dec. 31, 1948, allowing 15 per cent when leases were made to, say, the middle or end of 1949. Many tenants and landlords still would balk at such a contract. And, as Senator Bricker contends, it would put Congress "in the position of having lured some tenants (the 9 per cent already signed up) into paying more rent with the promise of added protection, and then have them find out that they need not have paid more."

The 9 per cent would get their money's worth only if the law lapsed Feb. 29 as scheduled, but fair play and partisan politics both argue against this drastic solution. The fairest available measure is thus to authorize 15 per cent in every case, dropping the lease condition.

Another feature of the present law, the local advisory boards, has also operated badly. It has produced glaring inequities, such as a 15 per cent general increase recommended in St. Louis and none in East St. Louis. The Housing Expediter has rather consistently rejected the boards' recommended increases, including the one for St. Louis. The boards could be dropped without harm.

To sum up: Congress should authorize a general rent increase, with only enough conditions to prevent profiteering by eviction and other dodges. It should drop the advisory boards and lodge full responsibility in the administrator.

FOR WHOM THE BELLS TOLL

—From the Sacramento Bee.

Equal Education for Negroes

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Supreme Court apparently forces Oklahoma to open law school to colored student since alternative is too expensive, says editorial; ruling suggests examination of Negro "university"; segregation should not provide good schooling for some and bad for others.

From the Tulsa Tribune

The State of Oklahoma Monday got a peremptory order from the United States Supreme Court to admit one Ada Lois Sipuel, a young Negro woman from Chickasha, to a state-supported law school equal to that provided for white students. It further ordered the state to make these facilities available "as soon as it does for applicants of any other group."

Since the applicants from another group, namely white students, are already accommodated, it seems that Oklahoma is going to have to set up a Negro law school in double-quick time or admit Negroes to the law school at Norman. Texas, faced with the same problem, provided a whole separate graduate university. Can Oklahoma afford it?

The trouble is that with the encouragement of the Supreme Court decision other young Negroes may demand medical training, pharmacy training, training in advanced engineering, and other services provided for white students. True, not many Negroes would ask this, but one is apparently a legal sufficiency. What shall we do?

Gaines Case Recalled

University of Oklahoma students have given us a good clue in a recent poll in which a majority favored letting Miss Sipuel and any other qualified Negro graduate student into the existing graduate schools. The number of these Negro applicants would be small—you probably find more Negro graduate students in the average Northern university—and in deportment and manner they would represent the best of the state's young Negroes. It's the only inexpensive way to do the job right.

The ultimatum from the Supreme Court came after plenty of warning. Ten years ago the Supreme Court, in the Gaines decision in Missouri, put us on notice that if we wanted to maintain separate educational plants in Oklahoma we'd have to do something about making them equal. But for 10 years we ignored this warning. And now we are caught short.

True, the court's decision Monday didn't go as far as Miss Sipuel's lawyers would have had it go. It didn't condemn segregation in principle. And in this we think the court acted wisely, for a decision against segregation in the South would have opened a Pandora's box of racial tension and strife. A brusque order, for example, requiring Southern states to mix white and colored children in common schools, and eliminating separate seating in assembly halls and public vehicles, could create much more harm than good.

But the court was thoroughly justified in recognizing the fact that although Miss Sipuel was subject to the same taxation, and the same responsibility to the laws of Oklahoma as any white citizen, she couldn't get an equal education without leaving the state.

Overcrowded and Understaffed

This newspaper, while favoring the admission of Negro graduate students to our state graduate schools, continues to believe that segregation is desirable in the undergraduate levels and lower at the present stage of race relations in Oklahoma. In other words, history seems to demonstrate that any legalistic attempt to throw two races together at a rate that exceeds general public acceptance will cause reactions that worsen, instead of improve, race relations.

But here, again, we must remind ourselves that the doctrine of segregated education doesn't mean good schooling for one group and rotten schooling for the other. If we don't want some future suit in the Supreme Court to result in a decision that would force Norman, Stillwater and Chickasha to accept Negro undergraduates we'd better take a good look at the so-called "university" for Negroes at Langston.

Langston University is understaffed, overcrowded, run-down and ill-equipped. It is stuck out on a miserable hillside as far away from any sizeable town as possible. It seems to have been designed to discourage attendance.

The next Legislature will have to consider how to bring this colored university up to some reasonable level of efficiency, or it will have to take a big chance on colored students being directed by the Supreme Court into Oklahoma's undergraduate white schools. We have lost 10 years and caused a lot of trouble by our attempt to ignore the Gaines case. We had better not lose another 10 years before examining conditions at Langston.

The Iniquitous Margarine Taxes

From the Dallas Morning News

This would be a good time to repeal the unfair state and federal taxes on margarine. With butter selling at more than a dollar a pound in many places, millions of families have turned to margarine, the poor man's butter.

Some didn't like to make the shift but found, to their surprise, that margarine is as tasty as butter, spreads more easily and doesn't become rancid with age. They learned from the New York Academy of Medicine and the American Medical Association that margarine, reinforced with vitamin A as it now is, is every bit as nutritious as cow butter.

Margarine has been vastly improved since the dairy lobby had a discriminatory federal tax imposed on it back in 1886. The tax on colored margarine is 10 cents a pound, though only a quarter-cent on the uncolored. Thus the housewife must either color her own margarine or pay a high tribute. In addition, the retailer must pay $48 a year for a license to sell colored margarine, or $6 for uncolored. The wholesaler must pay $480 to deal in colored margarine, $200 for uncolored. The manufacturer is soaked $600 a year.

As if these burdens were not enough on a food product, many states have followed with excise taxes of 5 to 15 cents a pound on colored margarine and retailers' license fees of up to $400 a year. Some charge wholesalers as much as $1000 a year. The discrimination is all the more apparent when it is realized that butter, much of which is artificially colored, is not required to bear on its carton any statement of the coloring.

In spite of all these discriminations, margarine still undersells butter. But the hard-pressed housewife could save much on her grocery bill if Congress should pass Senator Fulbright's bill to repeal the federal taxes and licenses on margarine.

This repeal would not impose any hardship on the prosperous dairy industry, which has many other outlets—such as cheese and ice cream—for its products and is unable to meet current demands. Cow butter, which some people continue to prefer, should compete on its own merits with its overburdened rival.

LESSER COSMIC CRISIS.

Between Book Ends

A Book That Glows Too Much

DAVID LILIENTHAL, PUBLIC SERVANT IN A POWER AGE, by Willson Whitman. (Henry Holt & Co., New York.)

The subject of this gushy biography is one of the most interesting and stimulating personalities in the present-day public service of the country—the chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission and former chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority. Miss Whitman, the author of an extravagantly laudatory book about TVA, "God's Valley," has dealt with Mr. Lilienthal's career in the same vein.

David Lilienthal

She suggests that Mr. Lilienthal was responsible for the merit system and for the inclusion of soil conservation and forestation in the TVA program, when all these things were in the TVA Act of Congress. She minimizes the contribution Arthur E. Morgan made to TVA and chides him for making a decision without consulting with his fellow directors—but she ridicules those who chided Mr. Lilienthal for an identical mistake.

Miss Whitman represents the Tennessee Electric Power Co. acquisition as a single-handed achievement of Mr. Lilienthal when much of it was accomplished by J. A. Krug and J. C. Swidler, then respectively power manager and solicitor of the TVA.

Miss Whitman gives a similar treatment to the larger picture. The valley's politicians did not have to be won over to the TVA side as she says; any who had run on an anti-TVA platform would have risked certain defeat at the polls.

Miss Whitman says that World War II settled the industrial future of the valley—a rather broad assertion—and that there is no anti-Semitism there, which is hardly the case. She gives support to some misconceptions which the enemies of TVA wish to spread. These are that TVA is mainly a power project and that it possesses the authority of a super-state.

A more realistic approach to the subject would also have been more effective. Mr. Lilienthal possesses faults enough and has made mistakes enough to be a real human being, in good standing in this lodge. Without magnifying him or minimizing anyone else, there is ample credit on the record for this fine public servant who has devoted some 20 years to what he believes to be the most good for the most people.

RUFUS TERRAL.

George Seldes Still Swinging

1000 AMERICANS, by George Seldes. (Boni & Gaer, New York.)

The title of this latest of George Seldes' books of probe and protest comes from the remark of Senator Aiken that though 20,000,000 people would benefit from the St. Lawrence seaway, "1000 Americans stood in their way." Thus, the thesis is that the same 1000, the "real rulers of the U.S.A.," opposed Muscle Shoals, TVA and other efforts at popular progress. Developing it, the author deals with such names as Morgan, duPont and Luce in his inventory of "big powers, big magazines, big business and big reaction." Mr. Seldes, who wrote "You Can't Print That" and "Lords of the Press," is as blunt as ever. Sample: "The Reader's Digest . . . a great tragic paradox . . . as reactionary a force in America as any publication."

BASEBALL'S HALL OF FAME, by Ken Smith. (A. S. Barnes & Co., New York.)

Near Otsego Lake in the New York state country that lives in James Fenimore Cooper's tales is the little town named for him. Cooperstown is also the home of baseball's two-story brick museum—and the Hall of Fame described by Ken Smith.

In this book, generously illustrated, Smith, secretary-treasurer of the Baseball Writers' Association of America, traces the origin of the "national shrine," blueprints its physical properties, conducts a tour of the museum, explains the requirements for a player's election and then traces the careers of players chosen for the Hall of Fame.

EDGAR ANSEL MOWRER

A G.O.P. View of the Marshall Plan

PROMINENT among Republican supporters of the all-important Marshall plan in Congress is Representative Walter H. Judd of Minnesota. Mr. Judd is a Middle Western Republican who lived many years in China as a physician. He is a member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee and of the Committee on Expenditures in the Executive Departments.

Last summer he toured 22 European countries. Then he made a flying trip to China where he talked with many of China's leaders. The following is a recent conversation.

Walter H. Judd

E. A. M.: Walter, I am just back from the London conference. What the whole world wants most to know is, will the American Congress stop fooling and support the Marshall plan?

Judd: Edgar, why don't you stop assuming that congressional opposition to the European Recovery Plan is just plain dumb? It isn't. Much of it is thoroughly justified. Therefore I can only give a qualified answer to your question. Yes — if the Administration will fulfill certain conditions of success.

First, we want to be sure that the European countries intend to reach full co-operation between themselves. Separately, they cannot recover no matter what we do. Together, they will develop unexpected resources. Events of the last few weeks have made me optimistic about this.

How About Asia?

E. A. M.: What's your next difficulty?

Judd: Any sound plan for saving the world must include Asia. It makes no sense to support the spotty government of Greece and sacrifice China because we don't like the Kuomintang. Europe cannot be saved if Asia goes. Moscow's aim is to get control of Asia while we are busy in Europe — then turn on us and retake Europe. The Administration must recognize that Europe and Asia cannot be defended separately.

E. A. M.: Next condition?

Judd: We Republicans are going to insist that the recovery plan be administered by an agency independent of the State Department.

E. A. M.: You heard Marshall's arguments against having two Secretaries of State.

Judd: I did. They are beside the point. The State Department is not trained or able to administer anything. Its job is to formulate policy.

Furthermore, we people here on the Hill are never sure the State Department is giving us the full story. Remember how they concealed portions of the Yalta agreements?

E. A. M.: Open diplomacy secretly arrived at, Walter! After an independent agency, what else does Congress want?

Judd: We want to be absolutely sure that the United States is going through with this reconstruction job regardless of the cost. We did that to win the war. We must be prepared to do it to win the peace—or not start.

To Restore U.N.

E. A. M.: Here you are in full agreement with Secretary Marshall. What's the last condition?

Judd: We must recognize that all we can buy with money is time. Ultimately the peace of the world cannot be kept by economic assistance alone. It can only be kept by a United Nations reformed and strengthened so that it is able to do the job the United States is doing. You will remember that there are several resolutions to this effect now pending before both Houses of Congress. As soon as we get the Marshall plan into operation, we hope to start hearings on those resolutions.

E. A. M.: Then you believe that the Marshall plan will be passed by April 1?

Judd: Of course I do. One sure way to slow it or stop it would be for the Administration to give the impression of not meaning business—wobbling all over the lot. It looks to us forward-looking Republicans that sometimes, just when we succeed in convincing our side of the House that a bi-party approach is right, the Democratic Administration throws the tiller over and goes off on a new track. There we stand looking pretty foolish.

Up to Democrats.

E.A.M.: Let me get this right—you believe that the Congress as a whole shares your belief that the Marshall plan cannot be a substitute for a U.N. really strengthened so as to give law?

Judd: I certainly hope so. Not all the boys want the same amount of change. Some think that a little reform will make the U.N. able to do the trick; others, like me, that it will take a good deal of overhauling. But you may be sure that the Administration will get its Marshall plan with less difficulty and more speed if it will make clear that it intends to use the time thereby gained for getting a U.N. that can work.

E.A.M.: And how far is the Secretary of State prepared to see the U.N. changed?

Judd: You'd better ask him. I've told you what I think essential to quick and speedy acceptance to the European Recovery Plan. The rest is up to the Democrats.

GROMYKO STANDS FIRM AGAINST ANY ATOM AGREEMENT

Russian Even Opposes in Advance Plan to Discuss Financial Problems of Control.

By ALVIN H. GOLDSTEIN
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., Jan. 17—The United Nations Atomic Energy Commission Monday will begin the third phase of its program for framing an international treaty establishing control of atom power, but hope of unanimous agreement is dimmer than ever. No chance of Soviet Union compromise with majority opinion is in sight.

Russian opposition has been expressed even to the plan for discussion of financial and other organizational problems relating to the operation of a world agency. Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko argued that such action would create an erroneous impression that adoption of two previous reports by majority vote indicated progress toward unanimity.

Gromyko left no doubt that his objections remained to vital precepts of the majority reports. When the Working Committee yesterday began debate of phases of Russian recommendations for world atom control, the Soviet delegate said he was prepared to clarify points not fully understood by other delegates.

Replying to questions presented by Francois de Rose of France, Gromyko promptly shattered any hopes that Russian atom policy had been altered since the Soviet vote was cast against adoption of the commission's second report. Two disputed issues were discussed. Conflict persisted on both perhaps to greater degree than before the session began.

Wants Bomb Bar First.

One of De Rose's questions elicited Gromyko's repetition of his long-standing contention that a convention prohibiting atomic weapons must be concluded before a system of supervision is established. On that point, the majority has specifically recommended the step-by-step procedure suggested by the United States. "The bomb would be abolished after safeguards to prevent manufacture and use had been devised.

"The resolution of the General Assembly directs the commission to draw up a convention eliminating atomic and other weapons of mass destruction," the Soviet spokesman said. "Although the instruction also is to determine means of atom control, we believe that prohibition of atom weapons is the most important and urgent task at the present time."

In reply to another question put by De Rose concerning the nature of international inspection of atomic activities contemplated in Russian proposals, Gromyko also made clear that the Soviet Union and sponsors of the majority report were apart. The majority report prescribes far-reaching inspection machinery. If placed in operation, the international agency would have free access to observe all atom production and industrial or scientific activity related to the manufacture of atom power.

A No on Each Point.

To each element of the proposition, the Russian reply was no. Scope of the international agency must not be extended to activities related but not directly engaged in atom production. It would constitute interference with a nation's internal affairs. Scientific research must be left in the hands of individual nations. The responsibility for inspection must be left to respective governments.

De Rose pointed out that there was little logic in devising a system of inspection to assure compliance with terms of an atom control treaty if the nature of the inspection and selection of the inspectors was left to the discretion of respective governments. If it was to be assumed that each nation would abide by the treaty, no inspection system would be necessary, he concluded.

The inconclusive debate was halted by adjournment of the working committee until Thursday. Chairman Faris Bey El Khouri of Syria said Committee 1 would discuss organizational problems of the proposed agency Monday morning.

MIKOLAJCZYK'S OWN STORY

Churchill and Roosevelt Refuse To Undo Big Three Partition of Poland, So Mikolajczyk Resigns

Former Premier Tells of Interview With Stalin — Says Red Marshal Promised Polish Independence as Capitalist, Free Enterprise State.

By STANISLAW MIKOLAJCZYK
Former Premier of Poland, Leader of the Polish Peasant Party.
FOURTEENTH OF A SERIES.

(Copyright, 1948.)

CHURCHILL and Roosevelt had yielded completely to the demands of Stalin in regard to Poland at their Tehran Conference. They had agreed to split Poland, an Ally, through the middle with the Curzon Line. When I refused to become a party to this deal, at Moscow in October 1944, Churchill became very angry at me. In a series of conferences, he demanded that I agree to the new eastern frontier between Russia and Poland, accept a verbal promise of future gains of land from Germany and a similar promise about the future political independence of what would be left to Poland.

He blamed me for not appeasing the Russians early in 1944 and he said that because of my stubborn refusal at that time I had provoked Stalin into setting up the Lublin Committee of Polish Communists.

I reminded him of the Atlantic Charter and the other pacts and promises made to such states as Poland.

"I shall tell Parliament that I have agreed with Stalin," Churchill flatly declared. "Our relations with Russia are much better than they have ever been.

"I talked to your Gen. Anders the other day and he seems to entertain the hope that after the defeat of the Germans the Russians then will be beaten.

"This is crazy. You cannot defeat the Russians! I beg of you to settle upon the frontier question. Suppose you lose the support of some of the Poles? Think what you will gain in return. The British Ambassador will be with you. The Americans will send an Ambassador—the greatest military power in the world."

I shook my head and this infuriated him.

"You settled our fate at Tehran," I said.

"Poland was saved at Tehran," he shouted. "Unless you accept the frontier you are out of business forever," Churchill cried. "The Russians will sweep through your country and your people will be liquidated. You are on the verge of annihilation. . . . We will become sick and tried of you if you go on arguing.

"I am not going to worry Mr. Stalin," he said. "If you want to conquer Russia, we shall let you go your own way. You ought to be in a lunatic asylum. I don't know whether the British Government will continue to recognize you. . . . You hate the Russians. I know you hate them."

Anthony Eden attempted to smooth matters, but Churchill interrupted.

In a calmer voice Churchill promised me that if I acquiesced in this bold sellout of a nation that had lost nearly 6,000,000 people in the war, and if I accepted Russia's claim to the half of Poland which the Red Army seized in 1939 while an ally of Hitler, he, Churchill, would "personally guarantee" that what was left of Poland would be free of Russian interference.

"Mr. Prime Minister," I said, "I once asked you for permission to parachute into Warsaw and rejoin the underground that is at this very hour fighting the Germans, while the Red Army sits in the suburbs and refuses to help. You refused to give me that permission. Now I ask it again."

"Why?" Churchill asked.

"Because I prefer to die, fighting for the independence of my country, rather than be hanged later by the Russians in full view of the British Ambassador!"

I asked to see Stalin alone before I left Moscow.

"Poles will bless your name if you make a generous gesture here and now," I appealed to him. "Even if we retain only the area around Lwow and Vilna we will be grateful."

"I cannot and will not do this," he said.

I pleaded for Poland's future political independence and envisioned a day when a sovereign Poland would have enduring pacts with "Russia, the United States, Great Britain, France and Czechoslovakia."

He nodded, then said, "You must include Hungary in that group." Hungary was at that time an ally of Germany and was busily engaged fighting the Red Army.

"Hungary," he said steadily, "will change completely when we get there." He had obviously completed his plan for the future political domination of that country.

I asked him if he intended to make Poland a Communist state after the war.

"No," he said. "Absolutely no. Communism does not fit the Poles. They are too individualistic, too nationalistic. Poland's future economy should be based on private enterprise and Poland will be a capitalistic state.

"There is no middle system," he explained, after a bit. "Capitalism can assume many forms, have many different controls, but what is not Communism is Capitalism."

"Will you order the Communist party in Poland not to seek a revolution after the war?" I asked.

"I will order that," he said. "Poland will not be disturbed by ideological strife. But there are certain people, both left and right, we cannot allow in Polish politics."

"But Marshal," I protested, "one cannot dictate who shall not be in public life, if the person's party is behind him."

Stalin looked at me as if I were indeed a lunatic, and abruptly ended the conference.

Back in London, I reported my failures to the Polish Cabinet and the Polish Underground. There remained one ray of hope, President Roosevelt. After Churchill told the House of Commons that "important progress was made toward a solution of the Polish question"—which was not the truth—I wired Roosevelt:

"Mr. President," I wrote, " . . . We cannot accept a plan that would deprive Poland of not only this land, which includes the only oil we have and the potash we need so critically because we are an agricultural nation. . . . I tried to persuade Marshal Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill to permit us to retain at least the Lwow area, with its oil and potash. . . . But my efforts were in vain.

"Before I make my final decision, I would like to know your attitude. . . . I understand how busy you are. I hope, however, that now when we must make such a tremendous decision you will take the time to assert your great authority and influence in this matter."

I did not look for an early reply from the President. He was involved in his campaign for a fourth term. I needed the time, too, to clarify for our Underground the demands being made upon us and to attempt to revive our fading relations with Churchill.

Through Sir Alexander Cadogan, we were informed on Nov. 2, 1944, that Britain now maintained the following views on the Polish question:

1. Britain favored advancing Poland's post-war Western frontier as far as the Oder River, including Stettin.

2. Britain was prepared to guarantee the independence and integrity of the new Poland, in a joint declaration with Russia, pending the establishment of U.N. guarantees.

3. Britain would support our manifold plans for post-war Poland if we agreed to yield to Russian pressure and adopt the Curzon Line as our Eastern frontier.

I then inquired of Britain and the United States the position of both on the matter of (a) the exact definition of our Western frontier; (b) the time at which these German lands would be given to Poland in exchange for the 70,000 square miles seized by Russia; (c) the possibility of the Big Three uniting in a declaration guaranteeing Poland's post-war independence and (d) the possibility of a United States loan to rehabilitate the new Poland.

Ambassador Harriman brought me a letter from President Roosevelt, after the latter's election, incorporating answers to both notes I sent to him.

"I have constantly in mind the problems you are facing in your endeavors to bring about an equitable and permanent solution of the Polish-Soviet difficulties and particularly the questions which you raised in your message of Oct. 26," Roosevelt wrote . . .

"1. The United States Government stands unequivocally for a strong, free and independent Polish state with the untrammeled right of the Polish people to order their internal existence as they see fit.

"2. In regard to the future frontiers of Poland, if a mutual agreement on this subject including the proposed compensation for Poland from Germany is reached between the Polish, Soviet and British Governments, this Government would offer no objection. In so far as the United States guarantee of any specific frontiers is concerned I am sure you will understand that this Government, in accordance with its traditional policy, cannot give a guarantee for any specific frontiers.

"3. If the Polish Government and people desire in connection with the new frontiers of the Polish state to bring about the transfer to and from the territory of Poland of national minorities the United States Government will raise no objection and as far as practicable will facilitate such transfer.

"4. The United States Government is prepared, subject to legislative authority, to assist in so far as practicable in the post-war economic reconstruction of the Polish state."

I submitted the British and American notes to the Polish Government in London and, by radio, to the desperate men who were fighting the Germans in Warsaw.

My government could not agree to accept the Big Three's division of Poland, nor would they accept my suggestion for a temporary line of demarcation whose permanence or impermanence would be decided at the peace table. We knew, too, that Britain and the United States were in no mood to back our demands.

Taking all these things into consideration, I resigned as Prime Minister on Nov. 24, 1944.

'VOICE OF AMERICA' WINS UNANIMOUS SENATE APPROVAL

Bill Making Permanent Broadcasts to Counter Red Propaganda Now Goes Back to House.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—A permanent "Voice of America" program to counter world-wide Communist propaganda against the United States today carried the unanimous approval of the Senate.

The measure, first major piece of legislation to clear the chamber this year, now goes back to the House for consideration of amendments. The House passed a similar bill last June. The measure authorizes the State Department to continue its broadcasts and information and education programs, which have been carried on since the war under temporary authorizations.

Senator Smith (Rep.), New Jersey, floor manager for the legislation, had an easy time winning Senate approval late yesterday after telling his colleagues that Russia is waging a "war of words" with "10 to 15 times" the $12,000,000 Congress allowed the State Department for its foreign information service this year.

Nearest thing to a protest was a complaint by Senator Ball (Rep.), Minnesota, that a "little clique of Communists and fellow travelers" in the State Department had been "slanting the news" to China. He said that most of the releases broadcast or sent there by Government publicists had been critical of the anti-Communist administration of Chiang Kai-shek.

Ball attributed this to a "hangover" of "Communists and fellow travelers" which the State Department acquired when it took over the Office of War Information.

He noted that the Senate Foreign Relations Committee now has pending the nomination of George V. Allen, as Assistant Secretary of State to head the information and education program. He said Allen should be asked about the releases to China and his policies on such matters. Smith promised this will be done.

The bill the Senate passed was drafted by Smith and Representative Mundt (Rep.), South Dakota.

Smith said the biggest change the Senate made in the House bill was to separate the State Department's information and educational programs. The information program aims at telling the world about the American way of life through international broadcasts, news releases, motion pictures and similar agencies.

A special Senate amendment directs the Secretary of State to avoid Government competition with existing or private information agencies which now serve foreign needs adequately.

The educational program includes exchange of students, scientists, technicians and services with other nations.

raised horses for himself and friends on the farm. He visited the place three times a week. His farm home overlooks the Mississippi river.

Black served as vice president and treasurer of Ralston Purina from 1914 to Jan. 1, 1929, when he retired. In World War I, when William H. Danforth, president of the company, was overseas with the Red Cross, Black was a member of a five-man executive committee which operated the business.

Born in Lincoln county near Elsberry, he worked in banks and in the lumber business in Virginia before joining the Ralston firm. During the first World War, he served on Liberty bond drive committees. For many years he was active in the Union Avenue Christian Church and later became board chairman of the Elsberry Christian Church. Every Sunday he drove from St. Louis to Elsberry to conduct a Sunday school class for young married pairs at the church.

A prohibitionist, he was formerly general chairman of the St. Louis organization of the Allied Forces for Prohibition.

After separating from his wife, Vertina, about 10 years ago, he moved to the hotel. She lives in the family home at 6211 Westminster place. Also surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Daniel Hundley, wife of an Army colonel at Fort Leavenworth, Kans., and three sons, Robert A. Black Jr., Long Beach, Calif.; Kirtley E. Black, Seattle, Wash., and David W. Black, 32 Brentmoor park, Clayton.

Parking Meters in March of Dimes

ALTOONA, Pa., Jan. 17 (AP)—This western Pennsylvania city is asking that dimes be dropped in its parking meters two days next week as its part in the March of Dimes drive to combat infantile paralysis. The meters will take dimes but register only when nickles or pennies are deposited. All dimes, the city said, will be turned over to the polio drive.

$9186 CONTRIBUTED TO MARCH OF DIMES

Almost $3000 More Than Collected in Same Period of Drive Last Year.

March of Dimes campaign collections for the benefit of the Foundation for Infantile Paralysis reached $9186 yesterday. The total is almost $3000 more than was collected in the same period last year, Robert L. Lund, chairman of the St. Louis and St. Louis county drive, announced.

Reported yesterday was the first contribution from the school division, which last year turned in almost one third of the $172,000 collected here. The report was from Rosati Kain High School, 4389 Lindell boulevard, which turned in $68.

Major individual contributions yesterday included $728 from Terminal Railroad Association employes, and $100 each from the Ford Motor Co., Wohl Shoe Co. and Griesedieck Bros. Brewery Co.

The principal public contribution center, the booth at Eighth and Olive streets, was manned today by members of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks. Other organizations scheduled benefit events over the weekend.

These included shooting matches this afternoon and tomorrow afternoon at 8606 Manchester avenue, sponsored by Maplewood Lions Club, and a dance tonight at 8 o'clock at American Legion Hall, 7800 Olive street road, sponsored by fraternal, civic, service and patriotic organizations of University City.

ACTOR VINCENT PRICE SUED FOR DIVORCE: EX-ST. LOUISAN

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 17 (AP)—Movie Actor Vincent Price was sued for divorce yesterday by Mrs. Edith Barrett Price, former New York stage actress, who alleged cruelty.

The Prices were married in 1938 in New York while they were co-starring in the play, "The Shoemaker's Holiday." They separated last Dec. 1. She asked for custody of their son, Vincent, 7 years old, and approval of an agreement for her husband to pay $660 a month for their support.

Price, son of a retired St. Louis candy manufacturer, Vincent L. Price Sr., 6320 Forsythe boulevard, and Tucson, Ariz., went to Hollywood and received feature roles in a number of motion pictures, by way of a Broadway stage career, a highlight of which was a leading part opposite Helen Hayes in "Victoria Regina." After graduation from Yale, he taught in a boys' school near New York. He was educated here at Community School, then Country Day School. He is 35 years old.

CONCERTO FOR VIOLIN ACCURATELY PLAYED

Miss Travers's Performance Lacking in Ardor, However —Program Tonight.

By THOMAS B. SHERMAN

The Saint-Saens Concerto in B Minor for Violin and Orchestra is not burdened with depth of feeling and is effective, in performance, only when it is appliqued with the ornaments of a high style. Miss Patricia Travers, who appeared as assisting artist with the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra yesterday afternoon in Kiel Auditorium, evidently found no inspiration in the piece itself and could supply nothing from her own resources to lift it above the ordinary.

It was a good performance technically if technique is used to describe only the skills involved in sound production. Miss Travers had a good tone, round and sympathetic in quality and she produced it accurately. She also commanded a respectable facility and precision. Choppy phrasing in the first and third movements militated against breadth or fluency of line and the andantino, which offered some opportunity for charm of lyrical utterance, was communicated with a minimum of ardor. The orchestra under Conductor Vladimir Golschmann gave her good support.

The most interesting item on the program was Prokofieff's Symphony No. 5, in which many clever strokes of composition are combined with a moving dignity and depth. It was not as well played as at previous performances, principally because of a lack of cohesiveness. The various sections of the orchestra didn't mingle often enough into a firm consistency of sound. So the performance, while it had color and nervous energy, realized only occasionally Mr. Golschmann's conceptions.

"The Song of Summer" by Delius, with its pictorial and atmospheric content, was managed artfully. It had an easy, plastic movement and was deftly modeled. The concert opened with a performance of "Fancy and Folly" by the Canadian composer Alexander Brott. The program will be repeated tonight.

"La Meri" and Ensemble in Recital at The Principia.

A group of four dancers known as La Meri and the Exotic Ensemble gave a recital last night at Howard Hall, The Principia, during which they presented a number of dances supposedly of Chinese and East Indian origin. It is difficult for a non-specialist in such matters to pass on the authenticity of the material and its expression. It is possible to say, however, that the Hindu dances had little of the spirit or the character that was so evident in the dancing of Shan-Kar and his associates. The vivid costumes and the obvious nature of the postures and the movements suggested that it was all, at best, a rough translation. If the execution had been varied, more expert and more imaginative it could have been accepted as quasi-oriental and appealing in its own way. It wasn't very exciting stuff, however, no matter how it was viewed.

The dances were accompanied by phonograph records.

La Meri herself, a personable American woman, had definite gifts as an entertainer. Her American songs interpreted by "East Indian hand gestures" was an interesting idea, an idea that could be worked up into a very successful night club turn.

PRINCE PETER, WIFE VISIT CITY TO SEEK AID FOR GREECE

Guests Warn of Collapse of Western Culture if Marshall Plan Fails.

Prince Peter and Princess Irene of Greece were in St. Louis today preparing a joint lecture before the Liberal Forum of the Y.M.H.A. tomorrow, at which they will seek to "awaken the public to Greek needs, particularly money and pack artillery."

The prince, an anthropologist in times of peace, declared that "we are risking a major war, if the Marshall plan is not approved." His attractive wife, a Russian by birth and a student of religions, nodded approval when he said: "If the plan does not win approval, the collapse of western culture is likely and the Communists will dominate Europe all the way to the Atlantic."

Greece already would be Communist-dominated if American aid had not been given, he asserted. He said the guerrillas control only scattered areas of the country and expressed confidence that the democratic forces would defeat the guerrillas if more aid, not manpower, is made available by the United States.

The prince, born in France, is 39 years old. His wife, whom he met in Paris, is 40. They will lecture until June, in all parts of the United States, and then hope to go on an expedition to Central Asia, he to study family organization and she to study religion.

SISTER MARY CLEMENT GRIMES FUNERAL SERVICES TODAY

Funeral services for Sister Mary Clement Grimes, member of the Sisters of St. Joseph, who died Thursday at the Nazareth Convent, Lemay, were held at the convent chapel in Lemay today. Burial was in the convent cemetery. She was 79 years old.

Sister Mary Clement the former Miss Margaret Grimes, entered the order 52 years ago at the Mother House, 6400 Minnesota avenue. She taught at St. Vincent de Paul, St. Theresa of Avila, St. Leo, St. Matthew the Apostle, and St. Anthony of Padua schools. She is survived by a brother, Francis Grimes.

CHARLES H. BARLOW FUNERAL

Funeral services for Charles H. Barlow, an inspector with the Alcohol Tax Unit, will be held Monday morning in Mount Pulaski, Ill., followed by burial there. Mr. Barlow died yesterday at St. Anthony's Hospital after an operation. He was 63 years old and lived at 5884 Cabanne avenue. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Alice Barlow.

MO. PAC. CLUB DINNER-DANCE

The fortieth anniversary dinner-dance of the Missouri Pacific Club, an organization of the railroad's employes, will be held at 7 o'clock this evening in the Gold Room at Hotel Jefferson.

Members will be treated to a floor show, including performances of several vaudeville acts. The club has about 1000 members.

Sell-Out Crowd Will See Billikens Try to Knock Out the Irish Tonight

O'Shea Bad Leg Is Only Myth Now

By Robert Morrison

Kevin O'Shea, all Irish and All-America, has had another bad leg this season. So, with caution dictated by past experience, the St. Louis University basketball team will proceed carefully when it meets O'Shea and Notre Dame before a sell-out crowd at Kiel Auditorium tonight.

O'Shea and his bad leg are an old story to the Billikens. A year ago when the opportunity presented itself to square accounts with the Irish at South Bend, reports virtually had O'Shea walking on crutches.

When it came time for the game, O'Shea took the floor for a practice warm-up with his left knee swathed in adhesive tape. The brilliant guard, whose dribbling and shooting gained All-America honors, then ran rings around the Bills as they were defeated for the sixth time in six engagements with the Irish.

Which One Is Right?

Between seasons O'Shea had his trick left knee fixed by an operation. But when this season began he suffered a similar injury to his right knee and now—oh, evil omen—it occasionally is heavily taped.

But this time, the Billikens, shooting for their ninth triumph in 10 games, will not be deluded even if the man Kevin shows up with both arms in slings.

"It should be a great offensive battle," said Coach Ed Hickey as he prepared the Bills to meet the Irish team coached by Edward (Moose) Krause, a Notre Dame All-America in football and basketball in the early 1930s.

After that statement, Hickey winked, grinned and said: "But maybe we'll go in for defense this time."

Even while losing star center, John Brennan, the Irish have won seven of 10 games and averaged 56.4 points per game, compared to the Billikens' 60.9. On defense, however, Notre Dame has yielded 52.8 points per game, the Billikens only 43.7.

Signs indicate that in this season of a big St. Louis drive for national honors the Billikens will gain their first victory in basketball over the Irish. Three Notre Dame starters against the Bills last year will be missing. They are Forward Frannie Curran, Forward John Kelly and Brennan, who was the 1946-47 season's high scorer.

Returning with O'Shea, however, is Leo Barnhorst, six-foot, three-and-one-half-inch rebound expert. Other starters are Brennan's replacement, John Foley, six-foot-four sophomore who has become the top Irish scorer with an average of 10.8 points per game; Forward Jim O'Halloran, and an experienced defense man, Paul Gordon, at guard.

Only one point separates the top three Irish scorers. Foley has 108 points, Barnhorst 107 and O'Shea 107. Apparently, Brennan's injury in the Denver game failed to throw the scoring too far out of balance.

St. Louis, with Guards Lou Lehman and Bob Schmidt recovering from leg injuries, is expected to be near full strength. Even Carl Weisner, who dislocated a shoulder in the Holy Cross game, may be permitted to play No. 2 center again.

Betty Jameson Leads With 151

TAMPA, Fla., Jan. 17 (AP)—The $3,000 Tampa Women's Open golf tournament still was far from a shoo-in as the second half of the 72-hole medal play event began today, but the other girls were going to have to trim their scores sharply to catch Betty Jameson.

The National Open champion from San Antonio, Tex., held a five-stroke lead at the halfway mark with rounds of 75-76—151 over the 6093-yard, par 75 Palma Ceia course. In front by two strokes at the end of the first 18, she increased her margin despite a three-over par six on one hole yesterday.

National amateur champion Louise Suggs of Lithia Springs, Ga., equaled Miss Jameson's 76 yesterday to move into second place with a 156 total.

The veteran Patty Berg of Minneapolis, former national amateur champion now campaigning with the pros, was third with 77-80—157.

Other leaders were Peggy Kirk, Finlay, Ohio, 82-76—158; Kathryn Hemphill, Greensboro, N. C., 78-81—159; Mary Mozel, Portland, Ore., 79-80—159; Carol Diringer, Tiffin, Ohio, 81-81—162; Grace Lenczyk, Newington, Conn., 81-81—162; Polly Riley, Fort Worth, Texas, 84-79—163; Mary Agnes Wall, Menominee, Mich., 78-85—163; and Mary McMillin, Green Bay, Wis., 77-87—164.

Wrestling Results.

Wild Bill Longson, 240, defeated Mike Sharpe, 245, Hamilton, Ontario, in 19:25, with body slam.

SEMI-FINAL MATCH—Lou Thesz, 237, St. Louis, defeated Pat Fraley, 232, Oakland, Calif., with a kangaroo kick and a body block in 9:16.

THIRD MATCH—Bobby Managoff, 238, Chicago, defeated Hi Lee, 290, El Paso, Tex., with three body slams and a body block in 6:37.

AUSTRALIAN TEAM MATCH—Joe Dusek, 234, Omaha, and Dan O'Connor, 235, San Francisco, won from Ray Villmer, 228, East St. Louis, and Henry Piers, 240, Holland, Mich., on a disqualification. Dusek pinned Pier in 9:10. Villmer then put the heads of both Dusek and O'Connor between the ropes and punched both of his rivals. When he refused to heed the warnings of Referee Charles Schwartz, he was disqualified.

CURTAIN-RAISER — Warren Bockwinkel, 243, St. Louis, and Tommy O'Toole, 230, Frankfort, Ky., wrestled to a 20-minute draw.

High-Flying Rhode Island Reds Oppose Flyers in Game Tonight

The American Hockey League's highest scoring team, featuring the loop's individual scoring leaders—both former Flyers—will provide the opposition for Coach Ebbie Goodfellow's St. Louis team tonight at The Arena. And if the Flyers can beat Providence, they will have gained the distinction of knocking off both the Western and Eastern divisional leaders on successive Saturday nights.

Terry Reardon's Rhode Island Reds, as the Providence entry is known, have tallied 194 goals in 42 games, or an average of almost five a contest in sweeping to a commanding lead in the Eastern Division.

And the chief reason for Providence's success seems to be the performance of Carl Liscombe and Harvey Fraser, forwards who wore St. Louis uniforms last winter until traded away in a five-player deal bringing Billy McComb and Buz Brayshaw to the Flyers.

McComb is still with the Flyers and doing a great job in sparking a last-place western club. Brayshaw has been optioned to Tulsa. Liscombe led the American League scorers, according to latest releases, with 64 points, and Fraser was a close second with 58.

Providence also has Ray LaPlante and Ed Prokop up among the five individual top point-getters, giving the Reds four of the first five in both divisions. And behind this high-powered attack is a capable young goal-tender who defended for Hershey in a pennant-winning winter of 1946-47, Harvey Bennett.

In three previous meetings of the teams this season, the Flyers beat the Reds here in St. Louis and won one and lost one at Providence. The Flyers, who downed the Western Division leading Buffalo Bisons here last Saturday, are on a good winning streak of their own, having won four of their last five games and eight out of 13, plus a tie.

Coach Goodfellow pronounced his squad in good condition, with the exception of Ernie Trigg, who is sidelined with a knee injury. The Flyers play at the Arena again next Tuesday against Hershey and stay home for a game with Indianapolis a week from tonight before hitting the road.

The standings:

Riggs 2 Up in Pro Tennis Play

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (AP) — Bobby Riggs went two up in his professional tennis tour with Jack Kramer last night at the Jamaica (LI) armory when he registered a 6-4, 9-7 triumph before 3000 fans who paid $5978.

The play-for-play boys move on to Baltimore for the fifteenth match of the tour tomorrow night and then play at Richmond, Va., on Monday night.

Riggs, current professional champion, broke Kramer's service in the third and seventh games of the initial set, while Jack, recently abdicated as amateur king, smashed Bobby's delivery in the sixth game.

The second stanza was a thriller, with Kramer raising his game to match Riggs's adept court coverage.

Games went according to service for 14 games before Bobby finally took Jack's serve at love and went on for the vitcory.

Francisco (Pancho) Segura conquered Dinny Pails, Australian Davis cupper, 9-7, 6-1, in the preliminary singles encounter, while Riggs and Segura teamed to turn back Kramer and Pails, 6-4, in a single-set doubles match.

Two Horsemen Fined.

FERNDALE, Md., Jan. 17 (AP)—Two Maryland horsemen already ruled off the track for life in connection with the fatal shooting of a race horse, last night were fined a total of $450 on charges of cruelty to an animal.

Magistrate David B. Dunker fined Frank Buehler $250 and Maurice Peters $200 on the charges preferred by the Maryland Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

Basket Game Tonight.

The St. Louis Silents will meet the Illinois Club for the Deaf, Chicago, in a basketball game tonight at the North St. Louis Turners Hall. Game starts at 7:30 p.m.

Harrison's 132 Paces Field in Richmond Golf

RICHMOND, Calif., Jan. 17 (AP)—Twelve strokes under par and three shots ahead of his closest rivals, E. J. "Dutch" Harrison of Little Rock, Ark., teed off for the third round of the Richmond open golf tournament today as the favorite to bag top prize in the $10,000 event.

The tall, tanned Arkansas traveler, who hits championship form on occasions in sensational style, fashioned sub-par rounds in the first 36 holes. Harrison, after hanging up a new seven-under-par 65 for a competitive record for the Richmond course in the opening round, followed with a 67 yesterday to establish his total at 132.

Tied at 135 were Felice Torza of Torrington, Conn., who turned pro three tournaments back at Los Angeles, and Ed Furgol of Pontiac, Mich. Torza had rounds of 68-67 and Furgol reversed them.

Amateur Doug Ford of New York, with a pair of 68s, not only set the pace for the Simonpures but was not far off the lead with his 136.

38 Points for Western Player

Jim Corbett, Western Military Academy star, turned in one of the outstanding individual scoring performances of the district basketball season, last night, when he tallied 38 points in the Alton team's 58-51 victory over John Burroughs. Corbett had 18 field goals and two free throws. It was Western's second ABC League victory.

Two of the big guns of the district, Beaumont and Collinsville, continued their winning ways. Beaumont, chalking up its fourth City League victory, ran roughshod over Roosevelt's Rough Riders, 67-32, while the Kahogs drubbed Granite City, 55-31, in a Southwestern Conference contest.

The Prep League race was thrown into a four-way tie as a result of last night's games, in which St. Louis U. High downed Central Catholic, 38-24; St. Mary's defeated DeAndreis, 39-30, and McBride won from C.B.C., 48-30. St. Louis U. High, Central Catholic, St. Mary's and McBride all have 2-1 records in league play.

Bears Go to Omaha; Lose to Drake, 48-41

OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 17—After suffering their sixth defeat in 10 games against Drake, Washington University Bears moved here today for the second game of their trip, an engagement with Creighton University tonight.

The Bears of Blair Gullion played another one of their close but losing games last night at Des Moines when they were defeated by the Bulldogs, 48 to 41.

While some 4000 fans roared, the Bears took a 24-21 halftime lead. But then Drake caught the Bruins at 29-29 and the game became a ding-dong battle in which the lead changed hands six times until the score reached 41-38 in favor of Washington.

With only three minutes to go the Bulldogs' six-foot-eight John Pritchard and Forward Art Ollrich caged baskets to regain the lead for Drake. And the Bears, trying desperately, couldn't come back.

The box-score:

DRAKE (17).	G.	FT.	F.	WASHINGTON (15).	G.	FT.	F.
G. Ollrich f	1	0	3	Belsha f	0	0	3

It Was a Gold-Plated Silver Skates

By Harold Flachsbart

An 18-year-old University of Illinois student and a 22-year-old stenographer from West Allis, Wis., reigned as St. Louis Silver Skates champions today, but the crowd of 5162 fans who saw the twenty-third annual carnival last night at the Arena were still talking about the close Missouri state men's competition between Jim Hawkins and Harold Tenenbaum, both St. Louis youths.

George Fisher of Chicago, a third-year student at Illinois, glided off with the men's Southwest Open championship by breezing across the finish line a winner in the three longest races of the four in that division. Miss Bernice Melewski, the Milwaukee area speeder who claims she is "not at her best" over short, indoor courses, coasted to her fifth consecutive women's open title.

She won, without to omuch exertion, the three senior women's national invitational races, and if only the United States championships and the North American meets would be conducted on the Arena ice, she could be a national titleholder.

How Habits Start.

At the age of 18, she formed the habit of winning St. Louis Silver Skates trophies, and there wasn't anybody in the field last night to stop her. Miss Melewski says this is her annual important indoor meet, and other than St. Louis competition, she skates chiefly outdoors, where courses measure six laps to the mile instead of 14 laps, as in the case of the Arena.

Fisher, who had won a two-mile race here two years ago in the men's division, had to capture his laurels the hard way. There was Frank Jelich, two-time former champion and a remarkable sprinter at the ripe old age of 32, in the field, and there were also Hawkins and Tenenbaum, pride of the local fans, who are waging a close see-saw battle for the city championship in a Winter Garden series.

Prior to the last event on the three-hour program, in which men's Open and State races are run simultaneously, Fisher had a 20-point lead on Hawkins in the Open division, and the latter was leading Tenebaum by 20 in State tabulation, with points scored 30 for first place, 20 for second and 10 for third in all races.

But Hawkins was victim of a spill in tha two-mile grind, when only about five laps from home and right up with the leaders, and that knocked him out of a chance for the Open title as well as dropping him to second in the State standings, for Tenenbaum stayed on his feet and showed speed at the finish to wind up second to Fisher, and Hawkins was unplaced even in the State judging, giving Tenenbaum the Missouri title with 80 points to 70 for the lanky Jim. Hawkins salvaged third place in the final Open standings, with Jelich finishing second, chiefly because of a victory in the 440 and a second in the 880.

And Then It Happened.

In the mile race, which Fisher won by a scant two feet from the fiery red-outfitted Hawkins, Tenenbaum spilled, and that cost him points in both the men's divisions.

Intermediate honors were captured rather handily by tall Billy Bohan, who made a show of last year's junior field. He won the two shorter races, then was second to Cleveland's Ed Carter in the mile. Now junior champion is Johnny Sorce of Milwaukee, who had little trouble in winning at 440 and three-fourths mile distances.

Lester Sladek and Frank Till tied for the men's Class B State title and Sladek won a race-off for the trophy, as Till all but caught him in a desperate diving fall to the finish line. The latter was slightly injured, but skated away on his own power.

Eight figure skating numbers broke up the monotony of the round and round speeding. . . . And over with American Olympic team in Europe, last year's Silver Skates champion, Sonny Rupprecht, apparently has nothing to fear when he comes back for a crack at more St. Louis trophies.

Odell Seeking Top-Line Aids At Washington

SEATTLE, Wash., Jan. 17 (UP)—Howie Odell, the man who gave Yale the T-formation, launched his new chores as head coach at the University of Washington today by shopping for a strong staff of assistants.

The ink was hardly dry on the one-year contract that Odell signed yesterday when he announced that he was looking for a top-flight crew of aides.

He immediately went into conference with Morris (Red) Badgro and Johnny Cherberg, who were assistants under Ralph (Pest) Welch.

Odell also was known to be considering Reginald Root, his assistant at Yale. Root has made no secret of his desire to follow his boss to Washington.

Odell, 37 years old, was enthusiastic about his new post. "I have felt my football future was at Washington since the first time I was approached about the position here," he said. "The opportunity to meet the teams on Washington's schedule is a challenge to any coach."

United States Tennis Stars Gain Victories

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 17 (UP)—Ed Moylan of Trenton, N.J., and Jim Brink of Seattle, Wash., were extended to five sets today in scoring opening round singles victories over Aussie opponents in the Australian National Tennis championships.

Moylan downed Frank Worthington, 5-7, 6-2, 6-2, 4-6, 6-1, and Brink defeated Harry Hopman, 6-2, 4-6, 6-3, 6-8, 6-0.

Chaminade Triumphs.

Chaminade defeated St. John Baptist, 2 to 0, in a High School Soccer League match on the Chaminade field yesterday. Jack Curran and John Williams scored the goals.

National League Refuses Draft With Its Rival

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (UP) — The National Football League today rejected a proposal calling for a common draft with the All-America Conference.

The club owners also voted to table for the second consecutive year an application by the San Francisco Clippers for an N.F.L. franchise.

An opening date of Sept. 26 and closing date of Dec. 12 were adopted, and then the job of drawing up the schedule was turned over to Commissioner Bert Bell.

After wrestling futilely with the complexities of arranging a 1948 schedule for 36 hours, the magnates finally gave up on the problem and empowered Bell to arrange next season's slate and all future schedules as long as he is commissioner.

This marked the first time such extensive schedule-making powers ever had been vested in the commissioner of any sport.

Each of the N.F.L. clubs will play six home games next season and the same number away from home.

George P. Marshall, owner of the Washington Redskins, first made the motion to give Bell the power to draw up the 1948 slate and then Jack Mara, owner of the New York Giants, moved that the N.F.L. empower the commissioner to arrange all future schedules. Mara's proposal was accepted by the owners.

After making up the schedule, Bell will send it to each of the clubs in the league.

Faurot in Line For Navy Job, Report Says

CLEVELAND, Jan. 17 (UP)—The Cleveland Press said today that University of Missouri Coach Don Faurot is in line for the coaching vacancy at the U.S. Naval Academy.

Sports Writer Jack Clowser said it was learned that the Annapolis athletic board "definitely is interested" in landing Faurot, who does not have a long-term contract at Missouri.

The Missouri coach said, however, that he had not yet been "officially approached" by the Naval Academy.

Washington Swimmers Defeat Murray State

Washington University's swimming team gained its second victory of the season yesterday, defeating Murray State Teachers College, 66-9 at Wilson Pool. The Bears took first in each of the nine events and the 400-yard free style relay team of Pohlman, Boyd, Rohlfing and Lee, set a new pool record of 3:49.

Cards, Browns Spring Series On April 17, 18

Fifty-one exhibition games have been scheduled by the Cardinals for their spring training period, the club announced yesterday.

Thirty-nine games are to be played by the regulars and the remaining 12 by the second squad. The schedule lists nine more games than last spring because the major league season will open a week later.

Nine games with the World Champion New York Yankees feature the schedule, which opens March 7 with the Phillies and closes with the usual two-game set with the Browns April 17 and 18.

The Cardinals will train at St. Petersburg, Fla., as they have done for several years past, and most of their exhibitions will be played in that state.

Roach Wins, May Box Cerdan Next

Tony Janiro Outspeeded By Ex-Marine

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (AP)—Lavern Roach, the "rookie of the year" in 1947 is established today as a Madison Square Garden headliner who may draw a $100,000 gate in a proposed bout with Marcel Cerdan.

Although the 21-year-old Marine veteran from Plainview, Tex., never had appeared as a pro in the big Eighth Avenue arena before last night, most of the 11,924 fans who saw him beat Tony Janiro in a 10-rounder went away singing his praises.

"We'll take Rocky Graziano or Tony Zale," Co-manager Chris Dundee shouted in the dressing room after the fight. Acting Promoter Sol Strauss of the Twentieth Century Sporting Club talked more sensibly about Cerdan or Steve Belloise. It's still quite indefinite.

In any event, Roach has established himself as a good draw in any future local appearance. The fact that Janiro, the baby-faced lad from Youngstown, O., was somewhat less than sensational at 153¾ pounds, didn't appear to be taken into consideration. Janiro fought a poor fight in comparison with previous Garden efforts.

Roach, a rugged two-fisted battler at 155½ pounds, absorbed Tony's best shots and kept coming back for more. He bloodied Janiro's nose in the first and continued to draw red throughout the scrap. The Texan actually outsped Janiro, beating him to the punch time after time with an educated left hand. Once the jam landed, he was inside, punching away to the body with success.

Preachers Gain Third Triumph

At long last, Concordia Seminary's basketball team has another victory.

The Preachers' third triumph of the season in 11 games and their first since Dec. 13 came last night at the Washington U. Field House where Concordia defeated Greenville College, 66 to 56.

Scoring 19 points, Paul Hinrichs paced the Preachers in a fast game which entertained a crowd of some 1800 and brought Greenville only its third defeat in nine games this season.

The Preachers had only a two-point edge at the half, 34-32, when Hinrichs got a basket 10 seconds before the break, then Hinrichs, Harry Smith and Gus Fiege sparked the second half drive that gave Concordia the decision.

The box score:

Concordia continues tonight with a game at its sister school in Springfield, Ill.

Chandler Lands in Hot Water On a Frigid Day in New York All Because of Fine of $500

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (UP)—Baseball's high school rule threatened to produce a bigger blowup than the infamous Durocher case today as Commissioner A. B. Chandler once again landed in hot water because of the way he interpreted the regulation.

The New York Yankees, latest club to be slapped by Chandler with a $500 fine for allegedly signing an ineligible player, replied with a quiet but fact-barbed statement designed to prove that they violated neither the letter nor the spirit of the law in signing 18-year-old Pitcher Harry Nicholas.

This was a different tactic frm the one employed by the Chicago White Sox several months ago when General Manager Leslie O'Connor refused to pay a fine on the same charge.

Story in a Peanut Shell.

The Sox got nowhere in their loud and brassy protest and O'Connor eventually had to pay the fine. So the Yankees took their swipe at Chandler another way: they simply recited the facts of the case, side by side with the provisions of the rule.

It went this way:

1. Nicholas, a Valley Stream (N.Y.) boy, was not deprived of high school eligibility by signing with the Yankees because he had already completed four years of high school eligibility.

2. The rule states, "No boy may be signed to a professional baseball contract until the date following his graduation or, if he has left school, until the day following the graduation of his class." Nicholas's class graduated in June 1947. He was signed in July 1947. His father and his high school principal have stated Harry had no intention of returning to high school at the time he signed.

3. The Yankees cannot be accused on moral grounds of depriving Nicholas of further education, the club said, because its contract with him specifically appropriated a bonus to be used in helping him through college at Wake Forest.

The Yanks conceded that Nicholas resumed high school classes in September, two months after he was signed. But they said this was because he needed extra credits to get into Wake Forest, after he failed a regent's exam. Chandler's ruling was based on the fact that Nicholas was again attending classes.

Who Wants to Pay Fines?

Although the Yankee statement added that it was not designed as "criticism" of the commissioner's ruling, its careful consideration of the moral—as well as legal—aspects of the case pointed directly at the gentleman from Kentucky. The inference was, "it's your move now." And the danger was, as far as Chandler was concerned, that the club owners who hired him may be getting tired of paying $500 fines which they honestly feel are undeserved.

But while Chandler nursed his problem along, Deacon Branch Rickey of the Brooklyn Dodgers came face-to-face with a ticklish situation which may be stealing the headlines for the next couple of days.

Rickey was ready to discuss terms with Jackie Robinson, sensational Negro rookie first baseman. They were due to meet in Chicago today. Robinson, who was paid a mere $5000 last season, said, "I think I earned my money last summer and I also think I am entitled to quite a boost."

The New York Giants today signed two pitchers upon whom they're counting plenty—Montia Kennedy and Dave Koslo. Both are left-handers.

Moehlman Upset Victor in A. A. U. Badminton Play

DALLAS, Tex., Jan. 17 (AP)—Ted Moehlman of St. Louis, Mo., defeated Bob Madden of Dallas, 15-9, 4-15, 15-9 in the only upset of first round play in the southwestern A.A.U. badminton tournament here yesterday.

All other seeded players in men and women's singles won opening matches.

Madden, Dallas singles champion, had been seeded fourth in the men's singles division.

In women's singles, Virginia Smith, St. Louis, beat Billie Sue Peters, Stephen F. Austin College, Nacogdoches, Tex., 11-3, 11-3, and Elizabeth Perkins, St. Louis, Mo., won from Marjorie Demic, Abilene Christian College, 11-3, 11-2.

The first meeting will run from April 19 through June5 and the second from July 12 through Aug. 14.

Lujack Says He Has Not Signed as Pro

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Jan. 17 (AP)—Johnny Lujak, Notre Dame all-America quarterback, said last night he "had not yet decided" whom he would play pro football with next season and flatly denied a copyright story by the Chicago Tribune that he had inked a contract with the Chicago Bears.

"I plan to sign with a team soon—and the announcement will then be made by that team," he said. "But I have not yet signed. I have been approached by representatives of both the Chicago Rockets and the Chicago Bears."

NOLTE SAYS FAIR MIGHT BANKRUPT CITY, CITES COST

view of the history of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition. Embarking on such an enormous gamble in these critical times might bankrupt St. Louis."

Nolte, who is 76 years old and serving his eighth consecutive four-year term, as Comptroller, plans to retire in April, 1949, at the end of his present term. Mayor Kaufmann's term of office also expires next year. Albanese's term runs until April, 1951.

Loan From City Sought.

Under plans tentatively adopted by the world's fair organization, headed by Stratford Lee Morton, the city would be asked to lend the fair $10,000,000, accepting a mortgage on permanent buildings as security. The money would be raised by bond issue.

Petitions opposing use of a 300-acre tract south of Forest Park as part of the proposed fair site were presented to Albanese yesterday by a delegation of residents of the area. The petitions bore the signatures of 378 residents and proprietors of business establishments in the area bounded by Oakland, Hampton and Manchester avenues and Kingshighway.

Members of the Board of Aldermen were asked in the petitions to "veto, void and kill all motions and bills submitted which would condemn and destroy" structures in the area "for the purpose of providing land space supposedly necessary to the construction of facilities and buildings of the World's Fair of 1953."

Use of the area south of the park would involve arrangements with the private owners for purchasing or leasing of the property. It has been suggested that the city acquire this acreage through a bond issue. President Milton M. Kinsey of the Board of Public Service estimated $6,000,000 worth of real estate would be involved.

Such a bond issue would require approval of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, the Board of Aldermen and the voters, Kinsey said. The Comptroller could lease the property to the fair organization for a period not to exceed five years, if he found it was not needed by the city, Kinsey asserted. This would be true also of the Columbia Bottoms site or any area acquired by the city from private owners.

Use of Forest Park itself for the fair, Kinsey went on, would require approval by the Board of Public Service, whose members, besides Kinsey, are Public Welfare Director Henry S. Caulfield, Streets and Sewers Director Arthur C. Meyers, Public Utilities Director Harry C. Brockhoff and Public Safety Director Charles J. Riley.

Caulfield already is on record as strongly opposed to use of part of Forest Park for a world's fair, on the ground such use would take away valuable recreational areas needed by the public.

Kinsey, Meyers and Riley declined to discuss their opinions on use of the park, explaining they did not wish to prejudge the proposal, since it may come before the board later. Kinsey remarked, however, that "it is my personal belief that Columbia Bottoms is the No. 1 choice of sites for a world's fair." Brockhoff is in New York. Members of the Board of Public Service are appointed by the Mayor.

Roll of Aldermen.

A poll of members of the Board of Aldermen today disclosed that 21 of them are opposed to use of Forest Park and the adjoining site for a world's fair. Three of the aldermen said they were undecided, one declined to comment and the remaining three could not be reached. There is one vacancy in the board.

Three of the aldermen opposed to use of the site added that they also are opposed to a fair at this time. They are Frank N. Flottman, Tenth Ward; John W. Hoerr, Eleventh Ward, and Vernon Riehl, Seventeenth Ward.

Flottman said that any world's fair at this time "would be suicide. I don't see what we could do with it." The other two spoke in the same vein, Hoerr asserting this "definitely is the wrong time to consider a fair," and Riehl contending the fair should "not be considered until prices go down, housing conditions improve and the general world financial situation improves."

Other aldermen who said they are opposed to the site were Harry A. Stoffer, Second Ward; Louis G. Berra, Twenty-fourth Ward; Herman H. Novack, Fifth Ward; Anton Niemeyer, Eighth Ward; Fred J. Haag, Twelfth Ward; Ray F. Lohse, Fourteenth Ward; Louis A. Lange, Fifteenth Ward; Charles B. O'Connor, Sixteenth Ward; Sidney R. Redmond, Eighteenth Ward; Walter W. Lowe, Nineteenth Ward; Edgar J. Feely, Twentieth Ward.

Charles P. McBride, Twenty-first Ward; Carl W. Guetschow, Twenty-third Ward; Floyd L. McKinney, Twenty-fifth Ward; William C. Brady, Twenty-sixth Ward; Charles G. Kratovil, Twenty-seventh Ward, and Orville A. Armstrong, Third Ward.

Those who said they were undecided as to the use of the site were Aldermen J. Ray Weinbrenner, Twenty-eighth Ward; Alfred I. Harris, Twenty-second Ward, and Joseph R. Slay, Seventh Ward.

Aldermen Linton W. Peterson, First Ward; Walter W. Ziegenbalg, Fourth Ward, and Jasper C. Caston, Sixth Ward, could not be reached.

The board vacancy is in the Thirteenth Ward, which was represented by Albanese before he was elected board president.

After presentation of the residents' petition against use of the Oakland area yesterday, Alderman Berra remarked on the floor of the board that as a representative of the people of that area he had received more than 269 telephone calls since the announced selection of the site.

"I think it is decidedly unfair of the World's Fair Committee to talk about that site as if it had been definitely selected and to stir up all this fear of losing their homes among those people," he said.

"There are plenty of other places where the fair could be held. I hope we can put this thing to rest so these people can go home and sleep nights." The delegation of residents in the balcony applauded Berra vigorously.

CHICAGO MILK SHIPMENTS COST CITY $526,239

Product From Illinois That Much Higher Than if It Had Been Available Here.

Milk which was shipped to St. Louis from the Chicago area last year cost about $526,239 more than if it had been available on the St. Louis market, Fred L. Shipley, federal milk marketing administrator here, told the Citizens' Milk Investigating Committee yesterday.

"It is estimated that during 1947 St. Louis handlers spent $2,135,243 in the Chicago area for milk," Shipley said. "This same volume would have cost $1,609,004 if it had been secured from local producers. The important question is not one of how much more this outside milk costs, but whether it is necessary for the citizens of St. Louis to be dependent upon outside sources for a substantial portion of their milk supply."

If all imported milk had been produced locally during 1947, he added, producers for the St. Louis market would have received about 4 cents per 100 pounds less than they actually did. The imported milk during November, he said, cost about 4 cents a quart more than that produced locally.

Dairies in the area had been asked to have representatives present to testify at the meeting yesterday, as were also unions in the industry. The unions sent word they preferred not to send representatives as witnesses, but with one exception, the dairies ignored the invitation completely, Duncan I. Meier, chairman, said. St. Louis Dairy, he said, sent a note declining the invitation.

At the start of the meeting he announced that dairy companies and dairy unions had been invited to be present, and asked whether any representatives of either were there. When there was no response, he turned to the stenotypist taking down the proceedings and said, "Let the record show that none is present to testify."

The committee then called Shipley. The marketing program, he said, is designed to promote market stability and encourage orderly marketing of fluid milk to the interest of producers, consumers and handlers.

The program places no limitation on the sale or production of milk, he said. In response to a question, Shipley said it was his opinion it was "good sense" to have an adequate milk supply available from producers as close to the consuming area as possible. To another question he replied that the milk marketing program has nothing to do with retail prices.

"Since we don't seem to be able to get anyone to discuss retail prices with us, it looks as though we might as well make this a sort of round-table and discuss the matter among ourselves," Meier said. "It is my thought that with the large amount of milk produced at our front door, something is radically wrong when we have to import it from Chicago and pay such high prices at retail.

"In 1945, Missouri was the eleventh largest milk producing state, and it seems to me that ought to insure us an adequate supply."

Witnesses from the St. Louis Dairy Council, which includes representatives of producer, distributor and consumer groups in the area, will appear next Wednesday evening at the seventh public hearing of the committee. The meeting, which will be in Assembly Hall No. 1 at Kiel Auditorium, will start at 7:30 o'clock. It will be the first at which any group including distributors has appeared.

Raymond F. McNally Jr., committee counsel, told the Post-Dispatch the dairy council had notified him it would have representatives present at the meeting. There is no indication of who will represent the council, he said, or what testimony will be given in the representatives' prepared statement.

Flashes of Life

By the Associated Press.

Bedroom Feature.

BOISE, Idaho—While delegates to the American National Livestock Association convention took over Boise's hotel accommodations, Walter Goodap of Portland, Ore., was not to be denied.

Arriving in his private plane on a business trip, Goodap found himself without a room—that is until he made arrangements to sleep in the display window of a store which was featuring bedroom furniture.

Just Not Wanted.

LOS ANGELES—Because of the housing shortage, a Superior Judge recently ruled that Robert M. Breitstein could continue to live in the house with his wife, Sadonia, even though she had a divorce suit on file.

Mrs. Breitstein went back to court. She pointed out that he had been under court order not to molest her, but complained that he insisted on trying to make love anyway. She asked that he be evicted.

Judge Orlando Rhodes ordered Breitstein, a business man, to show cause why he should not be punished for contempt.

Holiday Swallow.

ROCHESTER, N.Y.—Thurman Craven, about 70 years old, thought it was "an awfully hard piece of fudge" that he swallowed New Year's night.

X-rays disclosed the coin in Craven's stomach.

declared candidate and repeatedly has disclaimed interest in politics, the Dewey forces regard him as potentially the main obstacle in the New Yorker's third successive drive for the Republican nomination.

Both New Hampshire and Wisconsin are likely to be rugged battlegrounds. New Hampshire's senior Senator, Republican Charles Tobey, has come out for Eisenhower. Stassen, too, has known strength in the Granite State, whose Governor, Charles Dale, is a close friend of Dewey.

The state's delegate votes were split initially in 1944, when Dewey won the nomination by acclamation, and in 1940, when the late Wendell L. Willkie blitzed the convention and left Dewey and Taft in the ruck.

Dewey scored overwhelming victories in the Wisconsin primaries in 1940, and 1944, but supporters of MacArthur and Stassen don't conceded him anything there this year.

Dewey forces feel that if he can whip Eisenhower and Stassen in New Hampshire and MacArthur and Stassen in Wisconsin, he will be on the high road to victory at Philadelphia. They claim that Dewey now has approximately 350 of the 547 delegate votes needed for the nomination.

Taft Commends Action.

Taft, Republican chief in the Senate, promptly "commended" Dewey's action and said:

"The more candidates whose names will be before the convention, the better it will be for the party."

Taft said he did not expect to enter the Oregon primary.

Stassen, in Albuquerque to address a Republican meeting, said he had no special comment to make on the announcement for the present.

At Coronado, Calif., where he was addressing a publishers' convention, Gov. Warren said:

"In view of the absence of any direct quotation from Gov. Dewey and in view of our personal friendship, I do not feel that I should make any statement at this time."

Senator Ball (Rep.), Minnesota, originally appointed to the Senate in 1940 by Stassen—who was then Minnesota's Governor—said last night he considers Stassen "about the best qualified candidate" for the nomination.

Political relations between the two have cooled recently as a result of disagreement on domestic and foreign policy.

But Ball, who will run for the Senate again this year, told a radio audience Stassen will get his support "whether he supports me or not."

In another political development, Robert W. Kenney of Los Angeles, national chairman of the Progressive Citizens of America, said third party candidate Henry A. Wallace will "cause the Democrats to discard Harry Truman within the next few months."

"Preliminary victories by Wallace over Truman will wake up the Democrats and make them take heed," Kenney told a Chicago press conference yesterday.

Dewey Associates Quickly Open Washington Headquarters.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (UP)—It took Gov. Thomas E. Dewey a long time to throw his hat into the presidential ring. But, once in, he didn't waste much time getting started.

Five hours after it was revealed in Albany, N.Y., that he would be a candidate, political associates announced the opening of headquarters in Washington. The announcement was sent to newspaper offices under the neatly printed letterhead—"Thomas E. Dewey for President."

Wainwright Against Generals Running for Office.

DENVER, Jan. 17 (UP)—Gen. Jonathan Wainwright said yesterday it would be a "mistake" for Gens. Douglas MacArthur or Dwight Eisenhower to campaign for the presidency.

The hero of Corregidor told reporters that "history has proved that military leaders make poor Presidents; a general is a soldier first and a politician last."

"I can't help but think it would be a mistake for either man to run for the presidency," Wainwright said.

He applied his viewpoint to himself as well, although retired from the Army. Wainwright pointed out he had "flatly rejected" pleas to campaign for a Texas seat in the United States Senate.

P.C.A. Expected to Indorse Wallace Today.

CHICAGO, Jan. 17 (UP)—The Progressive Citizens of America were expected to give formal indorsement to the presidential candidacy of Henry A. Wallace at their annual convention here today.

Wallace was scheduled to address the group, which included nearly 600 delegates. Several delegates said they expected some statement from Wallace about the formation of a third party.

Wallace talked about a "new party" in his candidacy speech here Dec. 29 and in following speeches. No formal organization has been set up, however.

C. B. Baldwin, executive vice chairman of the P.C.A., said yesterday that a third party probably would be formed next spring.

Other members of the P.C.A. here for the organization's second annual convention, indicated that Wallace might oppose Truman in Democratic primaries in several important states, including Minnesota, California and Oregon.

Baldwin said that the P.C.A. probably would indorse Wallace's candidacy today.

He Is Still to Be Tried on Charge of Murdering Father-in-Law of Illinois Victim.

ROCKFORD, Ill., Jan. 17 (AP)—Glenn Marsh, 27-year-old farmer, was acquitted last night of a charge of murdering Vernon Anderson, 28, the husband of his paramour, but was immediately led back to his jail cell to await trial on a charge of murdering Anderson's father-in-law, Grant Muhrlein, 52.

Anderson and Muhrlein were shot and killed Nov. 7 and Marsh was accused of killing them because of a frustrated love affair with Anderson's wife, Katherine, 28.

The trial on the charge of murdering Muhrlein is scheduled to begin Feb. 23.

The jury of six men and six women took three ballots during its four hours and a half of deliberations. The first ballot was eight to four in favor of acquittal, the second 11 to one, and the third unanimous.

Mrs. Mary Humpal, foreman of the jury and mother of nine children, said, "We felt there was not enough evidence on the state's side. I know we'll be criticized, but on the basis of instructions given us we could bring in no other verdict."

Mrs. Humpal said instructions by Circuit Judge William R. Dusher specifically mentioned that for a guilty verdict there must be "malice aforethought."

Yesterday, Judge Dusher denied a defense move to enter manslaughter as a possible verdict, and declared: "This is either murder or not."

Marsh, in a state of near collapse before the verdict was read, smiled and said, "I feel fine," after the jury made its report. His wife, Audrey, who had been compared by the defense counsel to the "Rock of Gibraltar" in her loyalty to Marsh, broke into tears.

Marsh embraced his wife and his mother, Mrs. Iva Marsh, before being led back to his cell. As he entered the jail, he formed a circle with his thumb and forefinger and shouted to the other prisoners: "I'm a lucky guy!"

Mrs. Anderson recalled today that Marsh had boasted that "he'd get away with it, and I guess he has."

She referred to a remark which she told authorities, following the alleged kidnaping, that Marsh had made to her during an aimless 100-mile ride over back country roads before she fled from his automobile.

Weston earlier had quoted her as having told him following the incident that Marsh boasted, "I had an uncle who did the same thing and got away with it." The action referred to was not specified, but presumably was the shooting.

Judge Dusher dismissed the jury and told the jurors, "You can go home. You won't be called again this term."

State's Attorney Max A. Weston, who had sought the death penalty, said Marsh would be tried on a charge of murdering Muhrlein, of Northport, Mich., Mrs. Anderson's father, "as soon as possible."

"I still can't believe the verdict," Weston said.

In his closing arguments, Weston had told the jury: "This is a case where there is no mitigating evidence. It is cold, deliberate murder. If any case ever deserved the death penalty, it is this one."

Task Force on Pacific Cruise.

PEARL HARBOR, Jan. 17 (UP)—Navy Task Force 38, consisting of the carrier Valley Forge, four destroyers and a fleet oiler, sailed yesterday on a 10-week cruise of the western Pacific with stops scheduled at Sydney, Hong Kong, Tsingtao, Yokosuka and Guam.

BRITISH SHANGHAI CONSULATE IS MENACED BY MOB

Club-Swinging Police Finally Drive Off Chinese Throng—Aftermath to Canton Riot.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 17 (AP)—A large mob of Chinese menaced the British consulate today as an aftermath to the burning of the British consulate at Canton yesterday. The mob finally was dispersed by club-swinging police without causing damage.

The crowd failed to penetrate the fenced and heavyily-guarded consulate compound, although once attempting to push a big truck against the gate. Four Chinese climbed over the gate and demanded that the British flag be hauled down. The demand was refused.

British consulate employes continued at work.

Buildings were plastered with posters condemning the British, the Americans and the Chinese Government. Some said: British get out of Kowloon"—"Americans get out, too"—"Chinese Government worst we ever had."

Mob Kept Growing.

Several times during the chilly afternoon, the crowd appeared to have spent its enthusiasm and seemed about to disperse, but new throngs arrived and the demonstration continued more than four hours. Chinese policemen waded through the crowd frequently swinging clubs.

The disorders began as a demonstration by some 3000 students protesting against British eviction of Chinese squatters from Kowloon, mainland section of the crown colony of Hong Kong. A similar demonstration in Canton yesterday snowballed into a riot, during which the British consulate and other buildings were burned and six Britons injured. Canton is about 120 miles northwest of Hong Kong.

British women and children were being evacuated to Hong Kong today from Canton. Hong Kong Airways canceled all scheduled flights to use the planes to bring out the evacuees. The British plan to evacuate 100 persons.

"Agitators" Blamed.

C. V. Curtis, British business man who was among those injured in the rioting at Canton, declared "the whole affair was the work of political agitators and was very well organized." He arrived at Hong Kong.

Dr. T. V. Soong, governor of Kwangtung province, of which Canton is the capital, said, "The Chinese Government has full responsibility for protecting foreign lives and property." He warned that the Government would "take prompt military action against outrages to person and property."

Soong declared the riots had been instigated by "Communist agitators." He said the Foreign Office was taking the matter up through the usual diplomatic channels.

(In London, the British Foreign Office announced that Sir Ralph Stevenson, British Ambassador to China, had protested to the Chinese Government about the riot.)

RAIL STRIKE THREAT BY 3 OPERATING UNIONS

Mediation Board Notifies Truman Who Will Name Fact-Finders.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 17 (AP)—Another nation-wide railroad strike was threatened today by three operating brotherhoods, who said they would walk out Feb. 1 unless given a 30 per cent pay increase and 44 changes in working rules.

David B. Robertson, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, reported last night that Feb. 6 had been selected for the start of a nation-wide rail walkout by his union and two others, following a breakdown in mediation efforts in Chicago. Today, however, he said a committee from the three unions, meeting in Chicago, had selected Feb. 1, at 6 a.m.

"I hope they can find a solution, and I hope they will," said Robertson. "We always want a solution. But until an emergency fact-finding board is appointed, we have to proceed under our strike plan.

"The law provides that from the time a board is appointed, it has 30 days in which to make a report to the President. From the time of the report, neither the unions nor the carriers may change the situation for another 30 days. That is the cooling off period in which both sides determine whether to follow the board's recommendations."

Chairman Frank P. Douglass of the national (railway) mediation board said in Chicago he would inform President Truman an emergency existed. Charles G. Ross, the President's secretary, said in Washington a board probably would be appointed next week.

ALDERMAN TO HOLD HEARING ON FLY ASH BILL FEB. 13

A public hearing on the fly ash and air pollution control bills pending in the Board of Aldermen will be held Feb. 13 by the public safety committee of the board, it was announced today by George W. Hartman, secretary. The hearing will be in room 208 of City Hall.

Opposition to some provisions of the bills has been expressed since they were introduced into the board on Sept. 19. Anheuser-Busch, Inc., has recommended that the board delay action on the fly ash bill until a thorough survey can determine the principal source of dust particles in the air.

The manufacturers' and legislation committees of the Chamber of Commerce approved the two measures, subject to several amendments which were suggested.

TRUCK TRACTOR JUMPS CURB, TEARS OUT WALL OF HOME

The front wall of a three-room brick house at 220 North First street, Belleville, was torn out late yesterday when a transport tractor failed to make a turn, jumped the curb and hit the house, causing $2500 damage.

Other walls in the house were cracked, and the living room furniture was damaged. The owners of the house, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Helldoerfer, were in the kitchen, and were not injured. They remained in the house after a contractor called out an emergency crew and replaced the wall with a temporary windbreak.

William Griffin, Dayton, O., the driver, told police he had delivered a trailer loaded with merchandise in East St. Louis and had gone to Belleville in the hope of picking up an eastbound trailer. He and his helper, J. B. Scarborough, Akron, O., are held in jail at Belleville in default of $2000 bonds on careless driving charges.

INQUEST IN DEATH OF MAN SHOT AT STE. GENEVIEVE, MO.

An inquest will be held in the death of a man identified as Ralph Williams, Negro, 60 years old, who died yesterday at Peoples Hospital of a bullet wound in the back suffered Thursday night at Ste. Genevieve, Mo.

Police were informed by Mayor Francis Grieshaber of Ste. Genevieve that Williams was shot by City Marshal Theodore Keifer, who found him prowling around the courthouse. Keifer reported he fired when Williams made a motion as if to draw a weapon. Williams, whose home was believed to be in Des Moines, Ia., had worked for the last several months for a resident of St. Marys, Mo.

TRUMAN ORDERS U.S. AGENCIES TO SAVE OIL, GAS, GASOLINE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (UP)—President Truman today ordered all Government departments and agencies to cut down "immediately" on the use of fuel oil, gasoline and natural gas.

In the face of a fuel oil and gasoline shortage, the President said office buildings and other establishments shall not be heated above 68 degrees during working hours and not above 60 degrees during non-working hours. This applies also to the White House. Residences and residential quarters shall not be heated above 68 degrees during waking hours or 60 degrees at other times, he said.

Truman said the order applies to all Government-owned office buildings and other establishments including residences and residential quarters, "except where full and rigid observance would impair or endanger health or safety."

G.O.P. BOSS PAROLED AFTER SERVING 12 YEARS IN KILLINGS

Big Joe Bruno Sentenced to Life Term for 'Massacre' on Election Eve.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 17 (UP)—Joseph J. (Big Joe) Bruno, former small-time political boss sentenced to a life term for the 1934 Kelayres election eve "massacre" of five torchlight paraders, walked out of Eastern Penitentiary here today, free on parole after serving 12 years.

Bruno, a former Schuylkill county detective and Republican leader, was released at 12:01 a.m., and was greeted by his wife, Cecelia, and three of his five children. He ignored the offered handshake of the guard at the last door, mumbling later, "I don't know the gentleman."

Bruno, 62 years old, was the last to be released of the six members of his family convicted of killing five Democratic paraders and wounding 12 others in the small Pennsylvania mining community on Nov. 5, 1934. All were sentenced for the slaughter that resulted when the paraders marched on the Bruno home in a rally supporting George H. Earle, Democratic candidate for Governor, and Joseph F. Guffey, candidate for United States Senator.

Bruno departed immediately with his wife for Kelayres, where a "big reception" was planned this morning. Mrs. Bruno said she would try to persuade her husband to go to Florida but said no other plans for the future were made.

"I am a sick man, mentally and physically," Bruno said. But he added quickly that "circumstances will guide me" on re-entering politics. "I don't think I would refuse," he said.

DUTCH-INDONESIAN TRUCE SIGNED WITH GUIDANCE BY U.N.

and Graham expected to arrive in Lake Success by Jan. 31 to report.

He told the council that two hours after the truce was signed, identical cease-fire, stand-fast orders were to be issued to both Dutch and republican troops. These orders are to be fully effective 48 hours after the signing.

Other provisions of the truce agreement:

A demilitarized zone is to be established between forward positions of the two forces. It is to be based on the "Van Mook" line.

(The "Van Mook" line was proclaimed last Aug. 29 by Hubertus J. Van Mook, acting Dutch Governor General of the Indies, to divide Dutch and republican territory.

(It gives the Dutch most of east and west Java, north central Java, the east plantation coast and the southern oil fields of Sumatra and west Sumatra around Padang. It gives the republic some of south central Java and Sumatra's mountainous back country.)

Final Boundaries Not Set.

The demilitarized zone is not to prejudice the rights of either party under various Security Council resolutions on the Indonesian matter. Final boundaries between Dutch and republican territory are not specified.

The U.N. committee's neutral military advisers are to investigate whether republican troops still are resisting inside Netherlands positions. Any found to be doing so are to withdraw within two days under supervision of these advisers.

On each side of a demarcation line dividing the demilitarized zone, law and order will be maintained by the civil police force of the party having jurisdiction there. One party's police are not to cross into the other's demilitarized territory without a committee military adviser. Military personnel may be used temporarily as civil police but must be under civil control.

Each side is to release all prisoners taken from the other.

Trade is to be resumed between Dutch and republican areas, restricted only as agreed to by both parties, with committee assistance if necessary.

The truce is to remain effective unless either The Netherlands or the republic informs the committee it considers that the other party has violated the truce and that the agreement is ended.

JUDGE DEFENDS PREROGATIVE OF WOMAN NOT TO TELL AGE

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 17 (UP)—Miss Elizabeth Bodenstein's exercise of a woman's prerogative not to tell her age, even on the witness stand, was defended today by Federal Judge George A. Welsh.

The jurist backed the defiant lady when she threatened to "write another letter to President Truman" if Conrad G. Moffett, attorney for the federal housing expediter, forced her to reveal her birthdate.

Moffett sought the information yesterday at a hearing of charges brought against Miss Bodenstein by tenants seeking an injunction against eviction from a house she owns. Her attorney said the refusal was among her "personal rights."

EAST ST. LOUIS WATCHMAN KILLED WHEN HIT BY TRAIN

John W. Chandler, a watchman for the Hunter Packing Co., was killed at 5:40 a.m. today when he was struck by an Illinois Central freight train at 1600 North Ninth street, in East St. Louis. He suffered skull and internal injuries and was pronounced dead at St. Mary's Hospital.

Chandler, 66 years old, was walking along the terminal right of way on his way to work when he was hit by the train. He is survived by his wife, Lora, with whom he lived at 2021 North Twenty-fifth street, East St. Louis.

KEM FIGURES ON AID COST TO ST. LOUISANS

Estimates 6-Year Total, Including Marshall Plan, Would Pay City Taxes 10 Years.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—Senator Kem (Rep.), Missouri, told the Senate yesterday that $24,099,211,087 spent in foreign aid the last two years represents a cost of $183 to each person in the United States, based on the 1940 population census.

Kem said this equals the amount of income tax a married man with two children would pay on a $4000 income.

Citing examples based on his figures, Kem said St. Louis's share of foreign aid cost the last two years was $149,336,784. He estimated the proposed four-year Marshall plan would cost that city another $119,143,008. The total of $268,479,792, Kem said, would pay all city taxes in St. Louis for 10 years.

Kem said Macon is "a typical northeast Missouri county" and its share of aid payments thus far total $3,915,468. He estimated the Marshall plan would cost Macon another $3,123,816 for a total of $7,039,284 or "more money than Macon county has collected in taxes the last 20 years."

He said Kansas City's share amounts to $73,049,524 of aid expense the last two years with the Marshall plan to cost another $58,000,000 the next four years.

Kansas City, he said, recently approved a $41,500,000 public improvements bond issue to be repaid within about 35 years.

"It is interesting to speculate on how the people of Kansas City would vote on a $58,000,000 bond issue to pay their share of the Marshall plan," Kem observed.

HIGH PRICE OF FARM PRODUCTS REFLECTED IN TAX RETURNS

The high price of farm products in the last year has been reflected in income tax returns filed thus far by farmers in the eastern part of the state, Thomas E. Copley, assistant Collector of Internal Revenue, said today.

Farmers are not covered by the usual provision that persons whose incomes are not subject to withholding taxes must file quarterly estimates of income, and make payments at the same time. Instead, they may postpone filing their estimate until Jan. 15. In most cases, Copley said, instead of filing an estimate then, they file their returns and either pay their tax in full or pay their first installment.

Deputies in charge of mail have reported that the number of returns and payments received from farmers by last Thursday, the final date for filing of estimates, set a new record for the office. This indicates, Copley said, that farm incomes also are at a new high.

FIREMEN TO CONTROL SIGNAL AT GRAVOIS INTERSECTION

A new type of manual control for automatic signals at the intersection of Gravois, Shenandoah and McNair avenues has been installed at the request of Fire Chief Frank Egenriether, and will start operation Monday morning. By pushing a button in the fire station at 2411 McNair, at the intersection, firemen can cause all signals to show red so that fire apparatus can leave the station without interference from traffic.

On the basis of tests of the time required for apparatus to leave the station, the new control has been set so that after the button is pushed all signals will remain red for 52 seconds. This time may be changed later, on the basis of experience, O. Tom Watts Jr., traffic engineer for the Department of Streets and Sewers, said.

The button control was installed after fire engines had several accidents with automobiles while leaving the fire house, Watts said.

NEW JERSEY HOMES LACK FUEL AS PICKETS BLOCK OIL CARS

COLLINGSWOOD, N. J., Jan. 17 (AP)—Hundreds of homes in this area were without fuel oil and heat today as four tank cars containing 40,000 gallons of the oil remained tied up by refusal of railroad men to cross a picket line at the R. McAllister Coal Co.

However, Harry Babcock, general manager of the Pennsylvania-Reading Seashore lines, said the tank cars of fuel oil "will be delivered" to the company shortly.

Attempts to deliver the oil were abandoned yesterday when pickets lay across the railroad tracks and refused to allow the cars to pass. The pickets, members of the AFL Teamsters' Union, charged that several of the firm's drivers were fired when they attempted to "organize the plant."

ALDERMANIC GROUP APPROVES PAY RISES FOR SOME WORKERS

Three bills providing salary increases of about $20 a month for employes of the Coroner, City Treasurer and Board of Aldermen were approved yesterday by the aldermanic Legislation Committee.

Purpose of the bills is to raise the salaries to the level of those paid to the city's civil service employes, who recently received an increase.

4 MONTHS FOR SHOPLIFTERS

Elmer J. Blakely of Chicago and his wife, Dorothy Ann, each were sentenced to four months in city jail by Circuit Court Judge James F. Nangle yesterday on their pleas of guilty of petty larceny, a charge that had been reduced from grand larceny.

The Blakelys were arrested last Nov. 14 by store detectives at Scruggs-Vandervoort-Barney, Inc. in connection with the theft of two coats valued at $95. The garments were discovered in what appeared to be a securely wrapped and tied cardboard suitbox, but actually was a tin box with a hinged opening on the side.

Threatened Rail Strike, New Round of Auto Wage Demands Cool Sentiment.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (AP)—Slight recovery symptoms persisted for selected stocks in today's market although many leaders remained moderately depressed.

Dealings were negligible from the start. Steam evaporated from the carriers as a rail strike threatened. Another round of wage demands in the automobile field restrained issues in this group. Fractional variations either way ruled near the close. Transfers for the two hours were 300,000 shares.

Hopes for a technical rebound after the recent downdrift inspired some professional short covering and other buying but this was notably timid. Brokerage customers again held aloof because of skepticism regarding business, taxes and foreign affairs. Thoughts of possible congressional moves for certain price controls and rationing provided a chilling influence on speculative and investment sentiment.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks closed down .1 of a point at 64.3.

On the upside most of the time were Bethlehem Steel, Goodrich, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Electric Power & Light, American Can, du Pont, Union Carbide, Allied Chemical, American Woolen, Paramount Pictures, American Airlines, United Air Lines, Eastern Air Lines and Transcontinental & Western Air.

Follansbee Steel resumed the retreat as the investigation by New York State authorities into the purported deal to purchase control of this company proceeded.

Backward at intervals were Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, Illinois Central, Standard Oil (N.J.), Plymouth Oil, Gulf Oil, Texas Co., American Telephone, Public Service of New Jersey, General Electric, Westinghouse Electric, Twentieth Century-Fox and International Paper.

In the curb support was accorded McCord Corp., American Republics, Glenmore Distilleries, Old Poindexter and Ryan Aeronautical. Hesitant were Woodley Petroleum, Humble Oil, Benrus Watch and Standard Oil of Kentucky.

DUN & BRADSTREET SURVEY OF ST. LOUIS BUSINESS

"During the first full week of the new year, no important adjustments occurred to halt inflationary pressures which grew steadily in 1947, when prices spiralled in reflection of the fact that the available supply of money exceeded the available supply of goods," states Dun & Bradstreet in weekly trade review of St. Louis. Industrial production in the year just closed was maintained at capacity with employment at high level and labor-management relations good. With capacity production, the flow of goods was steady, nevertheless demand exceeded supply in most lines, and prices rose rapidly against weak and ineffective consumer resistance.

"During the last half of 1947, consumer expenditures increased one-fifth, whereas, consumer income increased one-sixth, compared to expenditures and income during the period prior to the removal of price controls. In consequence, larger portions of the consumer dollar went for higher food prices and durable goods, but smaller portions toward the purchase of apparel. Credit expansion during the last half of 1947 permitted high-level sales in the face of higher prices. Bank loans increased for 24 consecutive weeks, and consumer credit terms were eased with the removal of Regulation W. Last week, however, the Federal Reserve Bank boosted rediscount rates for member banks from 1 per cent to 1¼ per cent. Also, commercial banks in St. Louis have increased loan rates ½ per cent in recent weeks, and the current rate on preferred 90-day paper is now 2 per cent to 2½ per cent.

"In line with the bank program of controlling credit extension, bank loans for the last two weeks declined for the first time in many weeks. Department stores and other retailers, on the other hand, featured widely advertised inventory reduction sales and further easing of credit terms. Major appliances were offered on installment terms requiring a down payment of only $5 or $10, which amounted in some cases to one-twenty-fifth of the purchase price.

"Preliminary reports on department store sales for last week indicate they were slightly under last year's figure, but well over the previous week. For the entire year of 1947, department store sales in St. Louis increased 8 per cent over 1946 with practically all of the increase represented by price advances. Department store inventories at the close of 1947 were generally reported smaller than at 1946 year-end. Wholesalers of automotive supplies, dry goods, groceries, and liquors showed sales declines in 1947. Inventories of wholesale grocers were in 1947 11 per cent larger than in 1946.

"In St. Louis one voluntary petition in bankruptcy was filed, and one assignment to creditors was made. Both involved small amounts.

CALIFORNIA STATUTE BARS PET SQUIRREL FROM ENTRY

YUMA, Ariz., Jan. 17 (UP) — Tommy Tucker, a six-year-old gray squirrel famed for his war bond work during World War II, was stranded here today after he was denied entrance to California on grounds that it is illegal for a wild animal to enter the state.

Tommy's owner, Mrs. M. C. Bullis, Washington, D.C., said she was attempting to get special permission from the California Agriculture Inspection Service to admit the pet. She based his case on the ground he is not a wild animal, but has been a pet since babyhood.

Ill. Central Asks Bond Tenders.

CHICAGO, Jan. 17 (AP)—The board of the Illinois Central Railroad has decided to request holders of the railroad's bonds maturing from 1950 to 1955 inclusive to tender them for redemption.

An announcement by the railroad said that the board decided that "if tenders on a satisfactory basis were made, the company would be warranted in expenditures" up to $20,000,000 for repurchase of its bonds.

GRAIN PRICES LOWER ON TAKING OF PROFITS

CHICAGO, Jan. 17 (AP)—Profit taking knocked all grains lower on the board of trade today with fairly heavy selling coming from commission houses. Traders said the slump was a natural development after the persistent rise of the past two weeks carrying corn and oats to record highs.

Grains opened lower and dropped more than a cent before meeting support. A fairly aggressive rally developed at that point and prices advanced to within small fractions of the preceding close. But the demand dried up and the market then fell quickly, going to new lows for the day.

From Australia came word of a boost in the official government guaranteed wheat price to producers. The increase amounted to one Australian shilling and the Australian Wheat Board said it was made to keep pace with rises in Canada and the United States.

Wheat closed 2 to 4 cents lower, May $3.02¾@3.02½, corn was 1½@2⅝c lower, May $2.67@2.67¼, oats were ⅝@1⅛c lower, May $1.27⅛@1.27⅜, and soybeans were 7 to 8 cents lower, March $4.33.

Cash Wheat, Corn Lower.

MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Jan. 17—Cash grain market Saturday: Wheat receipts 17 cars, 4 sold, 1½c lower. Red winter, No. 2, $3.19@¾; No. 3, $3.20. Corn receipts 59 cars, 3 sold, 1c lower. Yellow, No. 4, $2.72¾; No. 5, $2.62¼; white, No. 3, $2.78¾. Oats receipts, 12 cars, 1 sold. White, No. 2, $1.48¼.

COTTON UP 80C TO $1.25

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (AP)—Cotton futures trading was moderately active today with the market firm.

Trade and New Orleans buying encountered only limited offerings which were generally confined to weekend profit taking. Hedging sales were also apparent but these were light. It was presumed some of the buying was in connection with exports of American cotton to Japan and Korea.

Futures closed 80 cents to $1.25 a bale higher than the previous close.

Politics Ignored

Wives Get Along In Senate Gallery

By Elise Morrow

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.

"WHY, some of my best friends are Democrats!" said Mrs. Wallac White Jr., wife of the Republican leader of the United States Senate.

MRS. ROBERT TAFT . . . KNITS AND LISTENS.

Mrs. White was talking about the family gallery, or the hen roost, the balcony overlooking the floor of the Senate which is reserved for wives and relatives of members of Congress. From this perch, adjoining the diplomatic gallery, the women gather regularly, to watch their husbands being great statesmen, trying to be great statesmen, or merely making foolish persons of themselves, depending on the peculiar, individual talent.

It might be expected that the atmosphere would be something less than cozy when, for instance, Mrs. Claude Pepper and Mrs. Robert Taft sit a few feet away from each other, but the girls are extremely high-minded; they try hard to rise supremely above partisan politics and keep the atmosphere on a warm and womanly plane.

Mrs. White's magnaminous approach is matched by Mrs. Glen Taylor, wife of the leftist enfant terrible from Idaho. "I like Mrs. Taft as well as anyone in the gallery, Democratic or Republican," said Mrs. Taylor.

THE REGULARS, or the rain or shine brigade, are mostly the older women whose children are grown, but even those with small youngsters try to get down as often as possible. "It's wonderful to be able to look in on your husband's work and not be called an office wife," said Mrs. Brien McMahon, wife of the Senator from Connecticut. Mrs. McMahon is a tall, beautiful blonde. She is the youngest, and one of the prettiest, of the Senate wives.

You can usually tell with reasonable accuracy who is on the program for a speech by a glance at the gallery, since most of the wives who are not regulars are on hand when their husbands have something cooking. "It's like seeing your children perform," said Mrs. Kenneth Wherry, wife of the jolly ex-undertaker who is the Senator from Nebraska. "You itch to get down there and help him out." This sentiment is shared by lots of other wives, who itch with the often understandable feeling that they could do a lot better than Pa if they got down there on the floor.

THIS THEME is often developed about Mrs. Robert Taft, a woman rather widely regarded as more spontaneous and extroverted than her husband.

As one woman said, "It's too bad they can't break a rule for Martha and let her go down on the floor with Bob so she can tell him how to say it—or at least they could rig up a little wireless, from Martha in the gallery to Bob on the foor."

Mrs. Taft is one of the faithful rain-and-shiners. She always knits as she watches and listens. She is popular, even with most branches of the opposition, and most adverse comment about her from another Senator's wife was about the knitting; "those needles clicking drive me crazy."

ASIDE FROM THE WIVES, there are always in the gallery a few indefatigible dilettantes. These women include Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, who has geen patronizing the Capitol for most of her adult life, as the daughter of President Theodore Roosevelt and the wife and now widow of Speaker of the House Nicholas Longworth. Perle Mesta, a successful Washington, or political, type hostess is often in the gallery and so are several other salon-keepers whose mission in life is the happy marriage of society and politics.

The whole thing gives the wives more identification with their husbands' work than most women have. Mrs. Wherry says, "I was as excited as Kenneth was when he was stopping OPA." (It might seem relevant here to inquire about the size of the current Wherry grocery bill, but let it pass, let it pass.) Mrs. Glen Taylor says she has never ceased regretting that she missed her husband's spectacular filibuster of the Taft-Hartley bill—she had to stay home with the baby.

Common Carriers

By Christopher Billopp

COMMON CARRIERS are trains, busses or streetcars. They are supposed to run on schedules. Therefore it is essential to be on hand at the moment one is expected to arrive.

But a common carrier does not always arrive as scheduled. That may be due to any number of good causes. But no waiting passenger will believe that the chief cause is not a sadistic desire to torture him.

As the wait grows the passenger will say to himself that this has happened too often and his patience has come to an end. It is time to do something about it.

THIS CONSTANT EXPOSURE to the elements while he waits is, he is confident, breaking down his health. If he should come down with pneumonia, so help him, he will hire a lawyer and bring suit.

Pending pneumonia, he will write a letter. The only question is whether it should be addressed to the president of the company telling the gentleman what he thinks of him, or to the Public Service Commission telling it what to do to the gentleman, or to the newspapers.

BUT EVEN as he plans the letter he doubts that it will do any good. As long as he can remember common carriers have gone on their evil way making passengers stand and wait for them in fair weather or foul. A letter may be a waste of time and paper.

So perhaps he will just have to make up his mind to being cuffed and bullied by the common carrier which is bigger than he. And they call this a democratic country!

But oh the sweetness of revenge when, while he waits, an uncommon carrier drives up and offers him a ride to town, and by so doing robs the common carrier and its greedy stockholders of one good cash fare.

What Am I Saying!

A GIRL who tells a man she loves him from the bottom of her heart can usually find room for one more at the top. A girl's heart is like the moon: no matter how often it changes, there's always a man in it.

CASUALTY OF RAID ON JAFFA GATE

A dying Jewish raider is carried by policemen and an Arab from a Moslem cemetery on Mamillah road, Jerusalem, after an armored car in which he and four others rode during a bombing attack at the Jaffa Gate crashed into a wall. This attack—one of the series sweeping the Holy Land—cost the lives of 15 Arabs and three Jews. —Associated Press Wirephoto.

THREE BROTHERS SHARE HOSPITAL ROOM

Three brothers who underwent operations on the same day are sharing the same room at Alexian Brothers Hospital. They are: Russell Kelly (left), 8 years old, who underwent an appendectomy; James, 6, and Michael 3 (held by his mother, Mrs. Ambrose Kelly), who had their tonsils removed. There are five other children in the family, which lives at 3843 West Florissant avenue.

CANADIAN WRECK IN WHICH 9 PERISHED

Impact of the collision of two Canadian National Railways passenger trains near Wykes, Quebec, in the frozen northlands Wednesday, drove this steel coach on top of another, killing nine persons and injuring 55. An inquest is to be held Monday to determine the cause of the wreck.

FIGHTING FIRE IN 11-DEGREE COLD; LOSS $63,500 Firemen fighting a three-alarm blaze that destroyed a building at 1216-18 South Broadway last night in 11-degree cold, which caused ice to form on power lines and sidewalks. Damage to the building, which housed the Argo Products Co. and the Heitz Furniture Co., and to the contents was estimated at $63,500. Origin of the fire was not determined. —By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer.

My OPINION

By MARTHA CARR

Dear Martha Carr:

I HAVE been married a short while. Because of high prices I agreed to continue with my job, for although my husband's salary would be enough for me to remain home and not work, it would admit of no margin for saving. We have a three-room place. My husband leaves for work at 7 a.m. I am supposed to get up and get his breakfast. He merely dresses, eats and runs. Then I fix the hand-fired furnace, straighten the house and wash the dishes, and go to my own job where I start work at 8:30. My work isn't actually hard, but is nerve-wracking, as I am the only girl in the office and have a lot of responsibility. When I get home at 5:30 I have to stop at the store, then go home and cook dinner, wash dishes, etc. I do all the marketing and other shopping for the house; occasionally my husband will do dishes if I yell loud enough, but he doesn't volunteer and lately accuses me of nagging if I ask him to do anything around the house to help. His opinion is, he works all day, he's tired, why should he have to do more work when he gets home? Is this fair? Saturdays and Sundays he says are his days off and doesn't want to do anything around the house. We go out maybe one night a week. Life with me is a vicious circle of getting up, working till time to go to the office, slaving there, coming home and working till bed time, so I can get enough rest to start all over next day. Am I being unfair to expect my husband to give me a little help with this endless round? Should I perhaps just be content and thankful I have a husband to work for? I am so tired I feel like crying most of the time. Oh yes—I do get out of one thing, we pay to have the laundry done. What do you think of this and what can I do? THANKS.

Your husband's opinion that he's worked all day and is tired, why should he have to work when he gets home, might just as well go for two. Doesn't he realize that your work is just as hard for you, begins earlier and ends much later, what with him never giving a hand? Ask him to have a heart. Surely you two can't be having much companionship when you are so tired by the end of the day that you feel like the little man who wearily moaned: "Life is a place where you dig in a ditch, to get money enough, to get food enough, to get strength enough, to dig in the ditch." Your husband should either make of this more of a 50-50 proposition or else agree for you to remain home and do just one job, instead of two. It is quite probable that with some adjusting of the budget you could manage to save on his salary alone if you really gave it a fair trial.

Dear Martha Carr:

MY girl friend and I became engaged at Christmas. Recently she started a hope chest and I have been trying to help her fill it whenever I can afford to buy something after I have paid for my laundry, lunch, etc. My mother objects to this as she says this is up to the girl and also because it will be another three years till we can marry. I am now 18. What do you think about this? F. P.

A hope chest is supposed to contain primarily the bride's linens for her future household. As such that is counted as part of her trousseau and to be provided by herself and her parents. Often, of course, gifts of the fiance are added, that is true, but he is not expected to help fill the hope chest or make contributions with any regularity. It seems to me your present need for lunch is far greater than a need to purchase linens to be used three years hence.

Dear Martha Carr:

I BELIEVE that a married woman's place is in the home and not in office or factory. If married women get on streetcar or bus in front of an office or factory, then they should be treated the same as the men. If they insist on holding down a man's job, drawing a man's salary, they should neither expect nor be given the privileges of a woman. They should make their choice but not expect to live like men and still receive the deference given to women. If and when the fair sex goes back to raising families instead of holding men's jobs or trying to be "career women" then perhaps we men will go back to being gentlemen.

WOMAN HATER.

IN ANSWER TO "BASHFUL": If you read this column you already know the answer to your questions. Your letter doesn't sound on the up-and-up to me. In fact I've been getting a number lately which seem to be written either to get a rise or simply to pass away some idle person's time. This column is for the purpose of trying to help people with their problems, and reading and answering genuine letters of distress more than fill my time. It is not fair to those who have real problems for those who think they are being funny to attempt to take up time and space with their foolishness.

IN ANSWER TO "TOM": At your age it is better to belong to a congenial crowd and date within the group or go out in a foursome, than to go steady. Wait for that until you are older and more ready to be thinking of taking on the responsibility of marriage.

Social Problems

By Emily Post

NOTHING could be more disappointing when an engaged girl doesn't like her ring. A letter today tells me: "I have just become engaged and instead of selecting my own engagement ring I decided that I would prefer to have my fiance select it for me. However, now that I have seen the ring, I do not like it. Would it be improper for me to tell my fiance that I would like a different ring? I do not want to hurt his feelings and yet do not want to wear this ring all my life."

This depends upon whether he has had a family ring reset for you or whether he selected it just the other day! In the first case, nothing can be done, but in the second, it would be better to risk his momentary disappointment than to have the ring irk you all yur life. He can have a selection of rings of the same value put aside and then have you choose one you like better.

DEAR MRS. POST: In the near future I am to visit my fiance's family for the first time. I would like to know if I should take a present with me and if so, what sort of gift would be proper. Living at home with him are his sister and her husband and their two children, his father and mother. Would I have to take a gift to each member of his family? Just who does the present go to?

Answer: It isn't necessary that you take anything to any one, but if the children are young, simple toys would be suitable and much appreciated.

DEAR MRS. POST: What is the correct way for two young women and a man to enter and leave the church? (1) Should the young man precede or follow the young women up the aisle? (2) Should they enter the pew first followed by the man? (3) Is it correct for him to sit between the two women? (4) Upon leaving, does he precede or follow them down the aisle?

Answer: (1) They precede him. (2) Yes. (3) No. (4) He follows.

Economical Menus for Tomorrow

By Meta Given

AVOCADO is as lovely in form as in color. By cutting lengthwise, one obtains unusual pear-shaped shells, long crescents, or fans. Cut crosswise, one has rings or horseshoes. With a French ball cutter, one can make balls for cocktails or cube them for salad or soup. The fruit is soft enough to mash into a smooth puree for use in frozen desserts, salad dressing, or spreads for sandwiches or canapes.

For the most enjoyable use, avocadoes must be properly ripened. When first picked, the fruit is well matured but still too firm to be edible. The grocer receives them while firm and it is a good plan to buy them in this stage and bring them home to mellow. Fruit that stands at room temperature (70 degrees F.) will ripen for eating in about two days. Ripe fruit laid between the palms of the hands and pressed gently yields readily to pressure. Then it should be placed in the refrigerator until needed.

To prepare the fruit, cut in half lengthwise or crosswise, lift out the seed with the point of a knife. Lay cut side down on a flat tray or piece of waxed paper. Strip off the glove-like skin (never pare) leaving the lovely velvet-like surface. Handle gently so as not to mar this surface. Serve promptly in any of the ways desired.

California Salad With Vinaigrette Dressing.

Dressing: One tablespoon finely chopped onion, one and one-half teaspoons fined chopped capers, one teaspoon finely chopped parsley, one-half hard-cooked egg, finely chopped, one-half teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, one tablespoon vinegar, tarragon or cider, three tablespoons salad oil.

Salad: Two ripened avocados, one large grapefruit, two medium seedless oranges, commercial pepper sauce (tiny, hot red peppers packed in vinegar), one large head lettuce or romaine.

Combine all ingredients for dressing stir thoroughly, cover and refrigerate until serving time. Chill ripened avocado thoroughly. Section grapefruit and oranges. Arrange lettuce cups or romaine leaves on six salad plates. Cut avocado in half, remove seeds, strip off peeling. Cut halves in thirds and carefully arrange two pieces of avocado on each plate. Then on top arrange grapefruit and orange section. Add a tiny dash of pepper sauce, and a mere sliver of the pepper from the sauce to top of each salad. Serve immediately with the dressing. Six servings.

Low Cost Menus.

SUNDAY.

BREAKFAST—Grapefruit halves, waffles with butter and heated syrup, sausage patties.

DINNER—Roast shoulder of lamb, browned potatoes, frozen asparagus in cream, California salad with vinaigrette dressing, hot rolls, peppermint ice cream with hot fudge sauce.

SUPPER—Cream of broccoli soup, hot buttered toast, stewed apricots, brownies.

Be Smart

Next you'll be matching your footwear with your jewelry. The idea is sketched here in the wedgie and matching bracelet of purple kid. You'll meet other colors, of course, and an interesting variety of designs as well.

My Day -o- By Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON.

I CAME down to Washington primarily to report to the State Department on the recent session of the United Nations Human Rights Commission in Geneva, and also to see the members of the Inter-Departmental Committee which has worked and will work in the future on the question of human rights.

However, yesterday was devoted to various other activities. First, I spoke at a luncheon of the Women's National Press Club. The president of the club, Miss Ruth Cowan, is one of the newspaper women who went overseas to Africa very early in the war and did some of the pioneering work for women correspondents over there. She saw and felt so much of the tragedy of war that it took her a long time to return to "civilization as usual." I wonder sometimes if any of the people who saw war at close range will ever again think of our civilization in quite the same light as they did before Hitler invaded Poland.

IN THE AFTERNOON I visited the office of the Franklin D. Roosevelt Memorial Foundation and was interested to hear at first hand some of the things which had been reported to me in writing about the historical work which has been going forward in the past year.

In the evening, Miss Thompson and I went to a small dinner at the home of one of Washington's best-known and best-loved women correspondents, Mrs. Elisabeth May Craig. She brought together a small group of the newspaper women whom we had known during our years in Washington, as well as a few others, including Mrs. Genevieve Forbes Herrick, the magazine writer, who had come down from Dorset, Vermont, where she and her husband have been living and writing during the past few years.

TODAY WE RETURN to New York City. This journey between New York and Washington used to be very familiar but I take it rarely these days. I always enjoy seeing my friends in Washington, but New York is a place which can provide plenty of occupation. And of late I have found myself increasingly prone to like my snowbound cottage in the country. Nowhere else do the stars look as bright at night, nor do I ever grow weary of the fields of snow when the setting sun sheds its rosy light over them. I understand better every day David Grayson's book "Adventures in Contentment."

Speaking of books, I have just read part of the manuscript of a book which I think will be of vital interest to every American citizen when it comes out in the near future. The author, Fairfield Osborn, is a scientist but he tells in layman's language something about the world we live in which we should stop and think about now and then.

Useful Task For Parents' Associations

By Angelo Patri

PARENTS ARE, and ought to be, interested in what goes on in the school their children attend. School should be a partnership if it is to do its full duty toward the children. A good partnership means a sharing of work and responsibility, each partner keeping clearly in mind his function and place in the scheme and never crossing the line without an invitation.

If a teacher makes an effort to assume a parent's duty or responsibility, she loses authority and respect in relation to that parent and child. If a parent attempts to take over the duty or authority of a teacher, he loses strength of influence at once. Each must carry his share of the load and cooperate cheerfully with the other. In that way the pupils will be the better served by home and school.

PARENTS SHOULD not expect to interview a teacher without making an appointment. Teachers are busy people and have many extra duties apart from classroom work. On no condition should a parent enter a teacher's classroom without an invitation. To interrupt a class at work is to cause a loss of time, loss of work, and good will.

No teacher can attend to a class and talk to a visitor at the same time with satisfaction to anybody concerned. Visitors should first report to the head of the school before going to confer with a teacher. That is only common sense. School is an organized workshop, the details of which organization are important to the harmony and activity of the great group within its walls.

JUST WHAT can the Parents Association do to be useful to the school? There is so much that it can do in bringing the whole social fabric into useful relationship with the school that selecting any one activity is not easy. There is one field, however, that to my mind is of first importance here.

Every year the school doctors and nurses examine the children for physical defects. The record is made on the pupils' cards. Many, many times that is as far as the matter goes—a mark on a card. Children carry their defects on through school life, those needing attention most getting the least because their mothers cannot get away from their younger children, from their work, or because they are ill or because their free hours never coincide with the hours of the clinics.

If a group of parents whose time was free would just take a group of such children under their care and follow up their treatments, see that they get their glasses, that their teeth are cleaned and filled, that they get extra food if it is needed, what a help that would be. In my opinion, it would be far more helpful to school and community than many other more showy activities.

Pleasant Speech Is A Part of Beauty

YOU have been told that beauty comes from within, and so it does. Much of it comes from your speech! What you say and how you say it is all important.

Many an outwardly beautiful girl spoils the pleasing impression she makes when she speaks. It may not be the tone of her voice that detracts at once from the beautiful picture, but what she says.

How easy it is to say the pretty thing, the thoughtful thing. And how few women realize it. They let their tongue loose, so to speak, and say hurtful, catty, nasty things, not realizing they are ruining their own reputation rather than the reputation of the person of whom they speak.

A priest once told his congregation to go home and slit a feather pillow, then take the pillow out in the open air and force the feathers to scatter. As they watched the feathers disappear—some in the breeze, some in the fields—they should realize that it is as difficult to retract and make amends for hurtful words spoken as it is to collect the released feathers and put them back into the pillow case.

All of us should concentrate on that little lesson. Let your speech be a beauty asset. Let it make you more charming, more loveable. Think twice or count 10 before you say something which is not kind—and then don't say it!

Always, there is solace in the longer view—that Beethoven will be remembered when Petrillo is forgotten.

It's an Idea

Tie a large chiffon scarf around the neck of your fur coat. Loop the ends of a voluminous bow under your chin and clasp with your handsomest sparkling pin.

Try these combinations: Kelly green with a mink coat; sandy yellow with beaver; dusty rose with Persian lamb.

Contract Bridge

By Ely Culbertson

THE bridge hand for today:
East, dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

	♠ AQ7 ♥ 964 ♦ K1073 ♣ K98
♠ 10532 ♥ 85 ♦ 9 ♣ 1075432	NORTH WEST EAST SOUTH	♠ KJ9 ♥ QJ10732 ♦ 6 ♣ AQJ
	♠ 864 ♥ AK ♦ AQJ8542 ♣ 6

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 heart	2 diamonds	Pass	3 diamonds
3 hearts	3 no trump	Pass	Pass
4 hearts	5 diamonds	Pass	Pass
Pass

East was wise to overbid South's three no trump, because it would have been impossible to defeat that contract. It is true that South also should have made five diamonds—but he didn't!

West opened the heart eight. Declarer won, drew trumps in two leads, then led his singleton club. The king was taken by East and a club returned. Declarer ruffed and tried the spade finesse. This, too, let him down and he eventually had to concede another spade trick, and with it, defeat.

I declarer had not been so fond of finessing, he might have discovered a simple and 100 per cent safe way to bring home eleven tricks. All he had to do, after winning the opening lead and drawing the outstanding trumps, was to cash his other heart trick, enter dummy with a trump, then lead dummy's third heart and present either a club or a spade from his own hand. East would now be securely hooked. If he returned another heart, declarer would get rid of a second black loser while ruffing in dummy. If East returned a spade, it would be directly up to dummy's major tenace; if he returned a club, dummy's king would be established.

Surely it required no great imagination to see that conceding one heart trick "needlessly" would pay excellent dividends.

WORD ROUNDUP

PITTSBURGH: How should one pronounce the word kowtow? I have never heard anyone use the pronounciation that is listed in my unabridged Webster's.—Mrs. J.H.A.

Answer: Webster's New International shows "ko-TOW" to rhyme with "go NOW." But, as you say, it is seldom if ever heard in American speech. Webster's "ko-TOW" (the phonetic spelling is mine, not Webster's) is an attempt to reproduce the sound of the Chinese k'o-t'ou, which means "knock head." Kowtow is English in both spelling and meaning. Why not let it go at that? A stack of dictionaries as high as your head would not convince the American people that "kow-" must rhyme with "go" if "-tow" rhymes with "now."

The newer and more realistic dictionaries rhyme both syllables with "now"; and that's the way kowtow is pronounced in Standard American speech: kow-tow, to rhyme with "how now." (See Thorndike Century, Funk and Wagnall's New College Standard; Kenyon and Knott's Pronouncing Dictionary; Grosset and Dunlap's Words: The New Dictionary.)

Flushing: Our class had a discussion about "a pair of twins." Does it mean two or four?—E. T.

Answer: In American usage a pair of twins means two children born at the same birth. Some purists howl at this; but if twins are not a pair, what in the world are they?

Newton, Mississippi: Please give our English class a discussion of the sentence, "The ball is over yonder."—R. M. McK.

Answer: Yonder is a quite proper word. It is widely used in the South and Southwest. Elsewhere it seldom occurs except in poetic usage. Your sentence is correct.

The consensus is that not much in the way of Big Three harmony may be expected in '48. In everything depends on Molotov, the Spike Jones of the world situation.

Englishman's 10 Rules for His Marriage

By Dr. Paul Popenoe

RULES won't make a marriage successful. The spirit of the law is more important than the letter.

But you can hardly succeed in an atmosphere of anarchy, either. It's worth while to look over the rules occasionally, just to keep your bearings. Everyone has seen innumerable "Ten Commandments for Happy Marriage," and all of them are good—up to a certain point.

Mrs. E. evidently failed to cut some of these rules out of the papers and put them in her scrapbook, so she writes for a new set. "Won't you publish some rules for happy marriage?" she inquires. "I'm sure a lot of other young brides, as well as myself, would like them. They might even be useful to our husbands!"

IT'S OFTEN worth while to look at the subject from a fresh point of view, or at least through the eyes of someone in a different look-out, so I'll give you the following, Mrs. E. They were put out recently by an Englishman, Louis A. Ewart, but apply just as well on this side of the Atlantic:

1. Always tell the truth.
2. Love, good will, wisdom and understanding are absolutely required.
3. A sense of humor is quite necessary.
4. Respect each other and each other's desire for privacy.
5. Be tolerant—outward appearances are often deceptive.
6. Be patient—it is foolish to fuss about small things.
7. Never let the sun set on your anger; no matter what may happen during the day, never forget the goodnight kiss.
8. Avoid self-consciousness and false pride—both are stumbling blocks on the road to marital happiness.
9. Remember that marriage is a game that must be played on a 50-50 basis; in other words, give and take, bear and forbear.
10. Always be companionable and do not forget to smile—this is of vital importance.

I think you'll agree with me, Mrs. E., that this is a good set of rules. Try it out—but be sure to put your heart into it.

Questions and Answers.

Q. I talked with our high school principal about education for marriage and he says the schools can't put it in because almost all parents object.

A. He's either deceiving you or deceiving himself. Even sex education, which is a very small part of preparation for marriage, is almost universally welcomed by parents—unless it is misrepresented to them as being something that it really is not. A poll of parents covering all sorts of educational, racial and religious groups in one large city found that 97 per cent of them wanted sex education given in the senior high schools, 95 per cent wanted it also in the junior high schools, 75 per cent demanded that it be given in the elementary schools as well.

Q. Why does a college boy have to get serious the first time he takes a girl out?

A. He doesn't, shouldn't and mustn't!

Q. You approve of marriage for women school teachers. If these teachers marry, will they raise the families that are so necessary with our declining birth rate?

A. In general, I think married women teachers will raise larger families than will unmarried women teachers.

Shirley Temple a matron will be a jolt to all remembering her as a babe. It was different with Orson Welles, who was born at the age of 40.

Try and Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

WHEN Dan Parker, author of "The ABC of Horse Racing," first became sports editor of the New York Mirror, he wrote his columns under the mythical by-line of "Jack Conway," a name the paper had been using for years. A few months thereafter, the powers that be on the Mirror persuaded Parker to sign his real name.
